Labor Leaders Call On Cypriots To End Walkout

New Violence Flares On Isle

NICOSIA, Cyprus, March 15 (AP)—Cypriot labor leaders called tonight for an end to the four-day-old general strike protesting the deportation of Archbishop Makarios.

The back-to-work plea was issued by the Communist-dominated Cyprus Federation of Labor even as a fresh wave of violence spread through this rebellious British colony.

But there was no immediate indication that the workers, who left their jobs as a spontaneous wildcat demonstration against exile of the island's union-with-Greece leader, would comply.

Reports circulated that the strike, which has paralyzed the island's business and halted work at big British military construction projects, will continue until next Tuesday. Only a few shops run by Turks, a minority, were open.

Pro-Greek guerrillas used bombs and bullets again today in their fight against British rule.

The wife and 6-year-old child of a British army officer were cut by flying glass when a bomb was tossed into their Nicosia home.

A Royal Air Force man was wounded outside an army barracks in Nicosia. Two policemen were injured by gunfire.

Two bombs were hurled at a military vehicle in Famagusta. Another was thrown at a military patrol in the village of Drousha, near Paohos. The troops escaped injury in each case.

Police probed on through a cordoned block in the heart of Nicosia where a British police sergeant was killed yesterday by a shot in the back.

In a shop 30 yards from the scene of the shooting, they found 50 homemade bombs.

Cyprus Truce Urged By British Primate

LONDON, March 15 (AP) — The Archbishop of Canterbury stepped into the Cyprus row tonight. In a dramatic plea he asked the Eden government to assure Archbishop Markarios his exile would end when peace is restored on the terror-ridden island.

The British primate, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, suggested joint British-Greek-Turkish moves for an immediate truce in Britain's fortress colony. He spoke in the House of Lords even as a new wave of violence swept the eastern Mediterranean island.

Malenkov, All Smiles, Begins Tour Of Britain

LONDON, March 15 (AP)—Former Soviet Premier Georgi M. Malenkov arrived in Britain today on his first visit beyond the Iron Curtain. Apparently he was delighted by the experience.

The pudgy Russian official, who lost his job as premier a year ago because of self-confessed failures, spent the first afternoon of his three-week tour of Britain in the Soviet Embassy on "Millionaire's Row."

He had lunch there with British diplomats and one British electricity official.

Heads 14-Man Delegation

Malenkov holds the title of minister of power stations. He was a last-minute choice in Moscow to head a 14-man delegation to look over British power installations from the Channel coast to the north of Scotland. But some Britons think his mission aims beyond merely inspecting power plants.

Scotland Yard tried to drop a blackout over Malenkov and his activities as soon as he stepped from a Soviet transport plane. But the Russians themselves were free and easy.

The once-grim successor to Joseph Stalin acted more like an American politician on campaign tour.

Hecklers On Job

He posed for photographers three times in 20 minutes and spoke with newsmen twice.

On the 15-mile drive from London airport into the center of the capital, Malenkov's car was trailed by a grey truck from which a loud speaker blared, "Britain does not want Khrushchev and Bulganin."

Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party boss, Nikita Khrushchev are coming to Britain April 18 for a 10-day visit.

Atomic Center To Philippines

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — The International Cooperation Administration today made a long-awaited announcement that the Philippines has been chosen as the site for a nuclear research center for Asia.

The announcement was timed to coincide with a similar announcement from Secretary of State Dulles and Philippines President Ramon Magsaysay in Manila.

The Philippines was selected after consideration was given to the bids of three other nations—Japan Thailand and Ceylon.

ICA Director John B. Hollister said the Philippines best met the requirements of local facilities, ease of access and communication and availablity to the other Asian nations. The Philippine government contributed a site near Manila for the center.

The U.S.—backed center is intended to put atomic energy to work as quickly as possible for the economic and social progress of Asia, Hollister said. He called it an important advancement of President Eisenhower's atom-for-peace program.

Ike 'Open Sky' Plan Realistic, Senators Told

Refinements Rule Out Any Decisive Surprise Attack

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — The nation's top defense leaders indicated today that President Eisenhower's "open skies" plan for mutual aerial inspection has been refined to a point where it would prevent any decisive surprise attack.

Secretary of Defense Wilson and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on disarmament that the plan is hard headed and realistic.

"The element of trust would be eliminated by a proper control system," Radford said.

Not Guarantee Against Attack

They told the subcommittee that, as the Defense Department views the "open skies" formula, it is neither a disarmament plan nor a foolproof guarantee against any and all surprise attacks.

Radford said, however, that it would block the launching of any decisive surprise blow, which he said is the main thing in the atomic age. Any surprise attack that did not knock out the victim, he said, would "only bring retaliation and self-destruction."

Radford said the plan is threefold:

1. Exchange of military blueprints with Russia. This would include the numbers, kinds and deployment of air, sea and land forces, down to the last man.

U.N. Arms Talks Open Monday

2. Aerial reconnassance over both countries to verify the accuracy of the blueprints.

3. Ground inspection teams, as proposed by the Russians and accepted by President Eisenhower, at key points such as airfields and seaports.

Under the present plan, which is expected to be taken up at a United Nations disarmament conference opening Monday in London, Radford said the exchange of blueprints would come first. Then would come aerial surveys and ground checks.

Couple's Search For Son Futile

EAST MEADOW, N. Y., March 15 (AP)—Jerry Damman and his wife, Marilyn, are going home to Iowa. Their long search for their missing 3-year-old son has failed.

"I don't want to leave without Stevie," said Damman, who had been stationed nearby in the Air Force, "but there's not much point in staying any longer."

The boy disappeared from in front of a supermarket here Oct. 31. His mother had left him outside for a few minutes with another child who was in a baby carriage.

Police theorized it was a kidnaping, but all clues led nowhere.

Hope bounded briefly Feb. 23 when a young boy was found in New Mexico. But it wasn't Steven.

Now the Dammans, with their year-old daughter Pamela, are going home to the farm of Damman's father at Newton, Iowa.

Pet That Chewed Baby Not Ocelot But 'Savage' Margay

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Walter T. Perry said today he has learned that the household pet which chewed away part of his 7-week-old son's left foot is not an ocelot as he thought but a margay described by authorities as tending to "turn savage."

William C. Hall of Baltimore, the pet shop owner through whom Perry bought the cat, said he is no expert on such animals, and accepted at face value an animal dealer's invoice which he said specified "one ocelot."

Hall called the 28-year-old Perry and his wife, June, 24, "victims of a bad mistake."

The parents have been charged in nearby Prince Georges County, Md., with keeping a wild and vicious animal.

Police were called in Tuesday after a handyman, left in charge of the Perry children while the parents went to New York for a friend's funeral, found the infant maimed in his crib.

The child, Thomas Perry, remained under treatment at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

Perry told a reporter he started checking after receiving telephone calls from people who keep ocelots as pets. Each of them, he said, told him they had seen newspaper pictures of the animal which attacked the baby, and it looked different from their own cats.

He said he called in Stephen Hillary of New York, a soil conservation worker just back from a Central American assignment where he became acquainted with such animals, to verify the suggestions.

Hillary unhesitatingly asserted the Perry pet is a margay.

Back In U. S. After "Four Years In Red Hell"

The Rev. Harold W. Rigney (right), 55-year-old former rector of Fu Jen Catholic University, Peiping, China, is welcomed at Idlewild Airport, New York, on his arrival yesterday from Shannon, Ireland. Greeting him are Paul Yu Pin (left), exiled archbishop of Nanking, and Rev. Walter Misbach, chaplain of airport's Catholic Chapel. The Missionary, returning to the U. S. after four years in Red China prisons, tells of his prison experiences in a book, "Four Years in a Red Hell." (AP Photofax)

Ex-Newsman Says He Never Was Communist

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — Fred Myers, a former newspaper man, testified today he had worked with people he suspected of being Communists but never had been one himself.

Myers, of Washington, is now executive director of the National Humane Society which he helped set up in 1954. He said he left the newspaper field in 1941 to become public relations officer for the American Society for Russian Relief.

He appeared before the Internal Security subcommittee in a follow-up to testimony it took in January from reporter Clayton Knowles of the New York Times.

At a subcommittee hearing on Jan. 4, Knowles was asked if he had known Fred Meyer (sic) as a member of the Communist party.

"Yes, I did," Knowles replied.

Knowles testified that he had made the "bad mistake" of joining the Communist party in 1937 and had quit some time in the spring of 1939.

No Confusion Of Identity

Despite the difference in the spelling of the name, Meyer and Myers, there seemed to be no confusion of identity. Knowles referred to Meyer as a former chairman of the American Newspaper Guild unit of the New York Daily Mirror, a post Myers testified he held in 1935-37.

The subcommittee said that Knowles had testified in executive session last October that, at the American Newspaper Guild convention in St. Louis in 1935, Meyer had taken him to a meeting and later disclosed to him it was "a Communist meeting."

Meyers, in denying he ever was a Communist, said that he didn't know Knowles and wouldn't know if he saw him and had no recollection of such a meeting.

Knowles "In Error"

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) asked Myers if he was saying that Knowles had "falsified" in the testimony he had given the subcommittee. "Mr. Knowles was in error," Myers replied.

Asked if he had attended any Communist meeting or caucus at the convention in St. Louis, Myers replied "Not to my knowledge."

Myers said he has wondered how Knowles could have stated that he (Myers) was a Communist or "how in the world he could remember" such a meeting as he described. He added he felt that as Knowles didn't know the correct spelling of his name it showed that Knowles' memory "as to my identity had some weak spots."

Vandals Start Three Fires In Cathedral

LOS ANGELES, March 15 (AP)—Vandals started three fires at St. Vibian Cathedral today, one on the altar, using American and papal flags and other sacred articles as fuel.

While firemen still battled the flames, the Rev. John Keeman said the first Mass for 100 worshipers who braved the smoke and fumes with bowed heads.

French Kill 37 Rebels

ALGIERS, Algeria, March 15 (AP)—Authorities said French forces killed 37 rebels in 15 scattered actions today in central and eastern Algeria. At least one French soldier was killed and two wounded.

Two Men Convicted Of Defrauding SRC

ROCKVILLE, Md., March 15 (AP) — Two Washington real estate men were convicted tonight of conspiring to defraud the State Roads Commission on land bought for highway projects in Montgomery County.

The Montgomery Circuit Court panel returned the verdict against Constas Gus Basiliko and Max Offenberg after deliberating only about 3½ hours on testimony it took the State and defense nine days to develop.

The conviction carries a maximum sentence of 10 years in jail and a $2,000 fine.

Judges Thomas M. Anderson and Kathryn K. Lawlor presided at the sometimes dramatic trial, the longest in the memory of courthouse veterans.

Sentencing was deferred until April 13. Bond for Basiliko and Offenberg was raised from $1,500 to $3,000 each and was immediately posted.

The prosecution contended the defendants were able to set up profitable land deals for themselves with the help of right-of-way tips they received from Ben DuPre, a former commission engineer who assertedly shared in the profits.

The defense argued that Basiliko and Offenberg did not need advance information in order to invest wisely in Montgomery County land. Lawyers for the defendants contended that plans for State roads projects were not secret, that the relocation details of U.S. Route 240 in Montgomery—the key road involved in the questioned transactions—were available in several places.

The dramatic highlight of the trial came last Thursday when DuPre—who vanished last fall after being ousted from his job with the commission—reappeared to take the stand for the prosecution.

Under a cloak of statewide immunity, DuPre testified that he did deliver allegedly secret highway information to the defendants and received from them compensation amounting to $8,900.

DuPre was indicted last year along with Basiliko and Offenberg. He testified at the trial that he returned to his native Mexico, got a job and agreed to return to testify only after being promised immunity. He could not have been extradited.

Probe Of Coffee Price Hike Asked

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) today proposed a Senate investigation of "recent sharp increases" in coffee prices.

A resolution he introduced asked an inquiry by the Senate Banking Committee to determine:

1. The reasons for the recent increases, and

2. "What legislative or other action may be taken for the purpose of assuring an adequate and stable supply of coffee to American consumers at a reasonable price."

Another Ala. Negro Minister Arrested

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 15 (AP)—Another Negro minister, the Rev. Arvie Banks, was arrested at Clanton, Ala., yesterday on an indictment charging participation in Montgomery's continuing Negro bus boycott.

He was identified by Sheriff Mac Butler's office here as pastor of a Baptist church at Clanton. His arrest brought the total number of defendants in the mass boycott indictments to 93.

Banks' part in the boycott was not spelled out in the indictment.

Sun Flareup Blacks Out Communications

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP) — A flareup 93 million miles away on the sun's surface today blacked out short wave wireless communications 30 minutes to an hour throughout the daylight world.

Solar experts said there may be a repeat performance between 24 hours.

The blackout hit transoceanic wireless circuits, commercial ship-to-shore communications and the vast U.S. Navy radio network. It moved west to east at about 1,000 miles an hour.

Regular radio programs in the United States were not affected.

Fireman Killed Fighting Capital Apartment Blaze

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—A fireman was killed and at least five others were injured late today fighting a three-alarm fire that roared through an apartment building in the southeast section of the capital.

The spectacular blaze, which snarled rush hour traffic, left 47 families homeless. All occupants escaped safely.

The flames which gutted the Randle Apartments (2525 Minnesota Ave. SE) were still burning four hours after the first alarm was turned about 4 p.m.

Six families living in nearby houses were evacuated.

Dead is Pvt. Albert M. Hazel, 41, a member of Engine Co. 12. He was pronounced dead at Emergency Hospital of asphyxiation due to smoke inhalation.

He had collapsed inside the building and was carried out on a stretcher.

The injured firemen included Pvt. Bernard J. Mead, 26, treated at the scene for cuts caused by falling debris, and Sgt. Alden C. Kefauver who was treated in Emergency Hospital for a sprained ankle.

The names of other firemen injured when a ladder fell were not immediately available.

The jet-like flames and the heavy black smoke mixed with hose spray turned the entire area into an inferno. Even before nightfall, firemen had to call for spotlights to penetrate the acrid smelling smoke.

Russians Jam Church To Hear U. S. Churchmen

MOSCOW, March 15 (AP)—American churchmen preached in Moscow's Baptist church tonight and more than 2,500 Russians crowded in to hear them.

The Russians were highly emotional. They wiped tears from their eyes as the Americans spoke. They chorused "amen" repeatedly and nodded their heads vigorously as the words were translated.

The Russians jammed into the small church, designed to hold only a fraction of their numbers. Most appeared to be in their 50s.

The 10-man American delegation arrived Sunday for a visit aimed at furthering understanding between religious groups of Russia and the United States.

Vassili Zhidhoff, president of the Council of Evangelical Baptist Churches in the Soviet Union, Union opened the services with a prayer for the Americans.

"They have come from across the ocean and now they are here with us," he said. "God is closer to us now."

Bank Still Hunting Million Dollar Note

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—The Chase Manhattan Bank still hasn't found its missing million dollar U.S. Treasury note. It isn't giving up the search, though.

"It's a giant task to try to find it," a bank spokesman said, "because there are some 45,000 accounts in our vault and that means going through 45,000 folders."

Bank employes have been engaged in the search since March 6. The bank doesn't think anybody stole it—it was just mislaid.

Ike Plans Aid Message

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — President Eisenhower plans to send Congress a special message on foreign aid early next week. It is expected to call for $4,900,000,000 in new appropriations.

New Planets Seen Answer To Overpopulation Problem

PASADENA, Calif., March 15 (AP)—Revamping the solar system to create a hundred new planets with a climate like earth's was proposed today by a noted astrophysicist as a way of solving humanity's biggest problem—overpopulation.

Dr. Fritz Zwicky, California Institute of Technology rocket expert, told a reporter that such a project is definitely within the realm of possibility.

Dr. Zwicky envisions scooping up great portions of the major planets, such as Jupiter, Saturn and Neptune, and transferring them to smaller planets and their satellites—then changing the orbits of the enlarged planets to make their course around the sun roughly comparable to that of our earth.

Bumping the planets out of their orbits, transferring great masses of matter across space, all this can be accomplished, the scientist said, through proper use of the energies released by man's new weapon against the cosmos—the explosion of the atom.

The hydrogen bomb, Dr. Zwicky said, may not necessarily be the instrument of man's destruction. It may be the instrument of his salvation.

"There are far too many of us now, and it will be even worse in the future . . . The answer to this problem is virtually within our grasp if we would only seize it."

"We have a problem of segregation of races. Some races just don't seem to get along with each other. What could be simpler than segregating these races on other planets?"

Controversial Farm System Upheld 45-44

Administration Move To Knock Provision Out Of Bill Defeated

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) —The Senate added 100 million dollars to the proposed soil bank payments in its election-year farm bill tonight and then recessed until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — The Senate voted today to give farmers an estimated 400 million dollars more in price support payments this year under a controversial "dual parity" system.

Then it went into a long night session to dispose of some of the 42 pending amendments to its election-year farm bill.

Sen. Ellender (D-La), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee and floor manager of the bill, said there wasn't a chance of final action on the measure tonight. But the Senate appeared to be driving for passage before the weekend.

One amendment approved during the night session would create a special commission to find new industrial uses for farm products. It was offered by Sen. Curtis (R-Neb) and approved on a voice vote.

Roll Call Is 45-44

Administration efforts to knock dual parity out of the election-year farm bill failed by a single vote. The roll call on this key issue was 45-44.

President Eisenhower's forces wanted major crops supported under a new parity formula which became effective this year. It raised the price level for some crops but lowered it for others—among them wheat and corn.

But the Senate chose to stay with the dual parity provision written into the farm bill by its Agriculture Committee. This would allow farmers to use either the new formula or the old—whichever was higher—in computing the level of price supports.

Parity is the price fixed by law as fair to the farmer in relation to his production costs. Existing law calls for crop price supports ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity.

13 Cents More On Wheat

The Senate's action today was estimated by the Agriculture Department to mean the government would pay about 13 cents a bushel more this year on the wheat crop of nearly a billion bushels and about 9 cents a bushel more for corn. The corn crop sometimes tops three billion bushels.

It was also estimated to mean about 6-10 of a cent a pound more for peanuts and from one-fourth to one-third of a cent a pound on cotton. On the basis of anticipated yields this year, corn growers would get an estimated 270 million dollars in additional support payments while wheat producers would get an additional 100 million, cotton growers 12½ million and peanut farmers about 10 million.

700 Evacuated In Hospital Fire

FULTON, Mo., March 15 (AP) — Prompt evacuation of more than 700 patients was credited tonight with forestalling tragedy in a three-million-dollar fire which swept the main administration building at the Missouri State Hospital here.

Not a patient, most of whom were elderly or ill, was injured as employes and volunteers moved them from the buildings adjacent to the burning four-story building.

Boys from Westminster College pitched in to help the attendants to get the patients to safety.

There are about 2,500 patients in the institution.

Cause of the fire was not known.

Dr. A. K. Baur, superintendent of the hospital, said he believed all the patients had been accounted for, but a check still is being made.

Actors' Sons Arrested On Auto Theft Charge

SANTA MONICA, Calif., March 15 (AP)—The teen-age sons of actors Robert Mitchum and Johnny Weissmuller and another boy were arrested on suspicion of automobile theft, police disclosed today.

The boys, James Mitchum, 15; John Weissmuller, 15, and Edwin Ackerman, 16, were released yesterday to their parents pending a juvenile Court hearing.

Police said the boys and a fourth, a sailor friend who was not arrested, took a car March 8 from a hospital parking lot, went joy-riding with some girls, then pushed the car over a cliff.

Knowles testified that he had made the "bad mistake" of joining the Communist party in 1937 and had quit some time in the spring of 1939.

No Confusion Of Identity

Despite the difference in the spelling of the name, Meyer and Myers, there seemed to be no confusion of identity. Knowles referred to Meyer as a former chairman of the American Newspaper Guild unit of the New York Daily Mirror, a post Myers testified he held in 1935-37.

The subcommittee said that Knowles had testified in executive session last October that, at the American Newspaper Guild convention in St. Louis in 1935, Meyer had taken him to a meeting and later disclosed to him it was "a Communist meeting."

Meyers, in denying he ever was a Communist, said that he didn't know Knowles and wouldn't know if he saw him and had no recollection of such a meeting.

Knowles "In Error"

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) asked Myers if he was saying that Knowles had "falsified" in the testimony he had given the subcommittee. "Mr. Knowles was in error," Myers replied.

Asked if he had attended any Communist meeting or caucus at the convention in St. Louis, Myers replied "Not to my knowledge."

Myers said he has wondered how Knowles could have stated that he (Myers) was a Communist or "how in the world he could remember" such a meeting as he described. He added he felt that as Knowles didn't know the correct spelling of his name it showed that Knowles' memory "as to my identity had some weak spots."

Vandals Start Three Fires In Cathedral

LOS ANGELES, March 15 (AP)—Vandals started three fires at St. Vibian Cathedral today, one on the altar, using American and papal flags and other sacred articles as fuel.

While firemen still battled the flames, the Rev. John Keeman said the first Mass for 100 worshipers who braved the smoke and fumes with bowed heads.

French Kill 37 Rebels

ALGIERS, Algeria, March 15 (AP)—Authorities said French forces killed 37 rebels in 15 scattered actions today in central and eastern Algeria. At least one French soldier was killed and two wounded.

Two Men Convicted Of Defrauding SRC

ROCKVILLE, Md., March 15 (AP) — Two Washington real estate men were convicted tonight of conspiring to defraud the State Roads Commission on land bought for highway projects in Montgomery County.

The Montgomery Circuit Court panel returned the verdict against Constas Gus Basiliko and Max Offenberg after deliberating only about 3½ hours on testimony it took the State and defense nine days to develop.

The conviction carries a maximum sentence of 10 years in jail and a $2,000 fine.

Judges Thomas M. Anderson and Kathryn K. Lawlor presided at the sometimes dramatic trial, the longest in the memory of courthouse veterans.

Sentencing was deferred until April 13. Bond for Basiliko and Offenberg was raised from $1,500 to $3,000 each and was immediately posted.

The prosecution contended the defendants were able to set up profitable land deals for themselves with the help of right-of-way tips they received from Ben DuPre, a former commission engineer who assertedly shared in the profits.

The defense argued that Basiliko and Offenberg did not need advance information in order to invest wisely in Montgomery County land. Lawyers for the defendants contended that plans for State roads projects were not secret, that the relocation details of U.S. Route 240 in Montgomery—the key road involved in the questioned transactions—were available in several places.

The dramatic highlight of the trial came last Thursday when DuPre—who vanished last fall after being ousted from his job with the commission—reappeared to take the stand for the prosecution.

Under a cloak of statewide immunity, DuPre testified that he did deliver allegedly secret highway information to the defendants and received from them compensation amounting to $8,900.

DuPre was indicted last year along with Basiliko and Offenberg. He testified at the trial that he returned to his native Mexico, got a job and agreed to return to testify only after being promised immunity. He could not have been extradited.

Probe Of Coffee Price Hike Asked

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) today proposed a Senate investigation of "recent sharp increases" in coffee prices.

A resolution he introduced asked an inquiry by the Senate Banking Committee to determine:

1. The reasons for the recent increases, and

2. "What legislative or other action may be taken for the purpose of assuring an adequate and stable supply of coffee to American consumers at a reasonable price."

Another Ala. Negro Minister Arrested

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 15 (AP)—Another Negro minister, the Rev. Arvie Banks, was arrested at Clanton, Ala., yesterday on an indictment charging participation in Montgomery's continuing Negro bus boycott.

He was identified by Sheriff Mac Butler's office here as pastor of a Baptist church at Clanton. His arrest brought the total number of defendants in the mass boycott indictments to 93.

Banks' part in the boycott was not spelled out in the indictment.

Sun Flareup Blacks Out Communications

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP) — A flareup 93 million miles away on the sun's surface today blacked out short wave wireless communications 30 minutes to an hour throughout the daylight world.

Solar experts said there may be a repeat performance between 24 hours.

The blackout hit transoceanic wireless circuits, commercial ship-to-shore communications and the vast U.S. Navy radio network. It moved west to east at about 1,000 miles an hour.

Regular radio programs in the United States were not affected.

Fireman Killed Fighting Capital Apartment Blaze

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—A fireman was killed and at least five others were injured late today fighting a three-alarm fire that roared through an apartment building in the southeast section of the capital.

The spectacular blaze, which snarled rush hour traffic, left 47 families homeless. All occupants escaped safely.

The flames which gutted the Randle Apartments (2525 Minnesota Ave. SE) were still burning four hours after the first alarm was turned about 4 p.m.

Six families living in nearby houses were evacuated.

Dead is Pvt. Albert M. Hazel, 41, a member of Engine Co. 12. He was pronounced dead at Emergency Hospital of asphyxiation due to smoke inhalation.

He had collapsed inside the building and was carried out on a stretcher.

The injured firemen included Pvt. Bernard J. Mead, 26, treated at the scene for cuts caused by falling debris, and Sgt. Alden C. Kefauver who was treated in Emergency Hospital for a sprained ankle.

The names of other firemen injured when a ladder fell were not immediately available.

The jet-like flames and the heavy black smoke mixed with hose spray turned the entire area into an inferno. Even before nightfall, firemen had to call for spotlights to penetrate the acrid smelling smoke.

Russians Jam Church To Hear U. S. Churchmen

MOSCOW, March 15 (AP)—American churchmen preached in Moscow's Baptist church tonight and more than 2,500 Russians crowded in to hear them.

The Russians were highly emotional. They wiped tears from their eyes as the Americans spoke. They chorused "amen" repeatedly and nodded their heads vigorously as the words were translated.

The Russians jammed into the small church, designed to hold only a fraction of their numbers. Most appeared to be in their 50s.

The 10-man American delegation arrived Sunday for a visit aimed at furthering understanding between religious groups of Russia and the United States.

Vassili Zhidhoff, president of the Council of Evangelical Baptist Churches in the Soviet Union, Union opened the services with a prayer for the Americans.

"They have come from across the ocean and now they are here with us," he said. "God is closer to us now."

Bank Still Hunting Million Dollar Note

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—The Chase Manhattan Bank still hasn't found its missing million dollar U.S. Treasury note. It isn't giving up the search, though.

"It's a giant task to try to find it," a bank spokesman said, "because there are some 45,000 accounts in our vault and that means going through 45,000 folders."

Bank employes have been engaged in the search since March 6. The bank doesn't think anybody stole it—it was just mislaid.

Ike Plans Aid Message

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — President Eisenhower plans to send Congress a special message on foreign aid early next week. It is expected to call for $4,900,000,000 in new appropriations.

New Planets Seen Answer To Overpopulation Problem

PASADENA, Calif., March 15 (AP)—Revamping the solar system to create a hundred new planets with a climate like earth's was proposed today by a noted astrophysicist as a way of solving humanity's biggest problem—overpopulation.

Dr. Fritz Zwicky, California Institute of Technology rocket expert, told a reporter that such a project is definitely within the realm of possibility.

Dr. Zwicky envisions scooping up great portions of the major planets, such as Jupiter, Saturn and Neptune, and transferring them to smaller planets and their satellites—then changing the orbits of the enlarged planets to make their course around the sun roughly comparable to that of our earth.

Bumping the planets out of their orbits, transferring great masses of matter across space, all this can be accomplished, the scientist said, through proper use of the energies released by man's new weapon against the cosmos—the explosion of the atom.

The hydrogen bomb, Dr. Zwicky said, may not necessarily be the instrument of man's destruction. It may be the instrument of his salvation.

"There are far too many of us now, and it will be even worse in the future . . . The answer to this problem is virtually within our grasp if we would only seize it."

"We have a problem of segregation of races. Some races just don't seem to get along with each other. What could be simpler than segregating these races on other planets?"

Controversial Farm System Upheld 45-44

Administration Move To Knock Provision Out Of Bill Defeated

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) —The Senate added 100 million dollars to the proposed soil bank payments in its election-year farm bill tonight and then recessed until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — The Senate voted today to give farmers an estimated 400 million dollars more in price support payments this year under a controversial "dual parity" system.

Then it went into a long night session to dispose of some of the 42 pending amendments to its election-year farm bill.

Sen. Ellender (D-La), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee and floor manager of the bill, said there wasn't a chance of final action on the measure tonight. But the Senate appeared to be driving for passage before the weekend.

One amendment approved during the night session would create a special commission to find new industrial uses for farm products. It was offered by Sen. Curtis (R-Neb) and approved on a voice vote.

Roll Call Is 45-44

Administration efforts to knock dual parity out of the election-year farm bill failed by a single vote. The roll call on this key issue was 45-44.

President Eisenhower's forces wanted major crops supported under a new parity formula which became effective this year. It raised the price level for some crops but lowered it for others—among them wheat and corn.

But the Senate chose to stay with the dual parity provision written into the farm bill by its Agriculture Committee. This would allow farmers to use either the new formula or the old—whichever was higher—in computing the level of price supports.

Parity is the price fixed by law as fair to the farmer in relation to his production costs. Existing law calls for crop price supports ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity.

13 Cents More On Wheat

The Senate's action today was estimated by the Agriculture Department to mean the government would pay about 13 cents a bushel more this year on the wheat crop of nearly a billion bushels and about 9 cents a bushel more for corn. The corn crop sometimes tops three billion bushels.

It was also estimated to mean about 6-10 of a cent a pound more for peanuts and from one-fourth to one-third of a cent a pound on cotton. On the basis of anticipated yields this year, corn growers would get an estimated 270 million dollars in additional support payments while wheat producers would get an additional 100 million, cotton growers 12½ million and peanut farmers about 10 million.

700 Evacuated In Hospital Fire

FULTON, Mo., March 15 (AP) — Prompt evacuation of more than 700 patients was credited tonight with forestalling tragedy in a three-million-dollar fire which swept the main administration building at the Missouri State Hospital here.

Not a patient, most of whom were elderly or ill, was injured as employes and volunteers moved them from the buildings adjacent to the burning four-story building.

Boys from Westminster College pitched in to help the attendants to get the patients to safety.

There are about 2,500 patients in the institution.

Cause of the fire was not known.

Dr. A. K. Baur, superintendent of the hospital, said he believed all the patients had been accounted for, but a check still is being made.

Actors' Sons Arrested On Auto Theft Charge

SANTA MONICA, Calif., March 15 (AP)—The teen-age sons of actors Robert Mitchum and Johnny Weissmuller and another boy were arrested on suspicion of automobile theft, police disclosed today.

The boys, James Mitchum, 15; John Weissmuller, 15, and Edwin Ackerman, 16, were released yesterday to their parents pending a juvenile Court hearing.

Police said the boys and a fourth, a sailor friend who was not arrested, took a car March 8 from a hospital parking lot, went joy-riding with some girls, then pushed the car over a cliff.

Pet That Chewed Baby Not Ocelot But 'Savage' Margay

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Walter T. Perry said today he has learned that the household pet which chewed away part of his 7-week-old son's left foot is not an ocelot as he thought but a margay described by authorities as tending to "turn savage."

William C. Hall of Baltimore, the pet shop owner through whom Perry bought the cat, said he is no expert on such animals, and accepted at face value an animal dealer's invoice which he said specified "one ocelot."

Hall called the 28-year-old Perry and his wife, June, 24, "victims of a bad mistake."

The parents have been charged in nearby Prince Georges County, Md., with keeping a wild and vicious animal.

Police were called in Tuesday after a handyman, left in charge of the Perry children while the parents went to New York for a friend's funeral, found the infant maimed in his crib.

The child, Thomas Perry, remained under treatment at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

Perry told a reporter he started checking after receiving telephone calls from people who keep ocelots as pets. Each of them, he said, told him they had seen newspaper pictures of the animal which attacked the baby, and it looked different from their own cats.

He said he called in Stephen Hillary of New York, a soil conservation worker just back from a Central American assignment where he became acquainted with such animals, to verify the suggestions.

Hillary unhesitatingly asserted the Perry pet is a margay.

Adlai, Kefauver Continue Attack; Hall Fires Back

[By The Associated Press]

Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) tossed some more harsh words toward the Republicans Thursday, and GOP Chairman Leonard Hall fired off some of his own against the Democrats.

Stevenson and Kefauver spoke in Minnesota where they are campaigning against each other for first place in the state's Democratic presidential primary next Tuesday.

Stevenson said the Eisenhower administration has created a partnership between government and business that "has been quite accurately compared to a partnership between Red Riding Hood and the wolf."

Kefauver said the Republican party fails to consider the farm problem in "a human way." He also said:

"Secretary Benson was wrong when he said that if prices were low the farmers wouldn't produce as much. Actually, low prices would force farmers to produce twice as much to make a living."

In New York, GOP Chairman Hall told a Young Republican Club meeting that the people face a choice between the sort of government the Eisenhower administration provides, or "something far to the left of center."

If the voters fail to return the Republican administration, Hall said, "we are going to have a government in which men like Walter Reuther will have a great say." Reuther is president of the United Auto Workers.

Hall also said the question of whether Vice President Nixon again will be on the GOP ticket was a closed one, until the Republican National Convention next August.

Nixon, meanwhile, telephoned some additional thanks to New Hampshire for the 22,202 write-in votes he got for renomination, in the state's primary last Tuesday.

In Washington, Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said the New Hampshire showing "ought to end any rumors the President might have another running mate."

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) said the Republicans had to stick by Nixon, that "if they dropped him, it would be an admission that because of the President's health they are looking for a second president."

"Most Unkindest" Cut Dealt Caesar

ROME, March 15 (AP)—Republican Italy dealt Julius Caesar the "most unkindest" cut of all today. It virtually ignored him on the 2,000th anniversary of his death.

One Rome newspaper, like Mark Antony, came forward to plead the once might dictator's cause.

But only the Fascists put a green wreath and flowers on his bronze statue near the Roman Forum. Rome's City Hall brushed him off as "a pagan."

Some scholars argue whether this is the 2,000th year since Caesar was stabbed to death at the foot of Pompey's statue.

Head Of Defunct Company Sought

BALTIMORE, March 15 (AP)—Police in Baltimore today were searching for a Warrenton, Va. engineering executive whose sports car was found here last Friday.

The owner of the car was identified as Albert Edward Smith, 41, of Warrenton. Police said they were informed by Virginia authorities that he operated an engineering firm at Arlington, Va., until it closed recently.

Officers here were told Smith left for work as usual last Thursday. A business associate said he was last heard from when he left his firm to go to the bank. He was said to be carrying about $1,100 in cash.

Members of his family said he was an engineer in the U.S. Merchant Marine in World War II and was familiar with the Baltimore waterfront area.

Man Toting Grenade, Pistol Holds Up Bank

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 15 (AP)—A hand grenade and pistol-toting Negro who threatened to blow up the Porter Square branch of the Harvard Trust Co. fled with $4,031 today.

He escaped in a stolen car driven by a white companion. The vehicle was found a short time later in adjoining Somerville.

2,961,585 More Salk Polio Shots Released

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — The release of another 2,961,585 shots of Salk polio vaccine was announced today by the U.S. Public Health Service. The vaccine was made by Eli Lilly Co., Indianapolis.

The states and territories were allotted most of the vaccine. Included were 40,500 doses for Louisiana and 90,000 for Massachusetts in addition to their regular allocations to replace vaccine those states previously turned back.

Ducks, Geese Dyed

LANSING, Mich., March 15 (AP)—If you see a pink duck or a striped goose in Michigan within the next several weeks, don't worry. It probably will be a pink duck or striped goose.

The State Conservation Commission advised today that many ducks and geese, soon to start their annual migration northward, have been banded and dyed various colors as an aid to waterfowl studies.

Lazy Son Costs Father $14 Fine

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., March 15 (AP) — Juvenile Judge Nanette Tipton fined a father $14.25 today for failure to keep his son in school.

The judge, who declined to identify the pair, said the man explained his son missed 91 days of school this year because the boy "just didn't like to get up in the morning."

Genetic Disaster Seen Following Nuclear Attack

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — A government scientist said today a widespread nuclear bomb attack on the United States would cause catastrophic changes in human heredity and sex factors from which there would be no recovery.

A stark picture of the effects of nuclear radiation was given a House subcommittee by Dr. Lauriston S. Taylor, chief of the Atomic and Radion Physics Laboratory of the National Bureau of Standards. He said he was testifying concerning opinions of experts, but is not a geneticist himself.

Taylor testified "there would be no recovery" genetically from radiation effects if 50 or more U.S. population centers were struck by bombs of one to five megaton power. A megaton equals one million tons of TNT.

"In event of an attack of this size, it would constitute a genetic catastrophe, there is no doubt about it," he said.

The subcommittee is investigating the Civil Defense program.

Dr. Taylor told the hearing that genetically "all radiation damage is cumulative" and is "passed on from generation to generation." He said that geneticists consider the effect of nuclear radiation on reproduction "a very troublesome problem."

Naval Academy Gets New Boss

ANNAPOLIS, March 15 (AP) — A Navy man who came within a whisker of choosing the Army for a career took over today as superintendent of the U.S. Naval Academy.

Rear Adm. William R. Smedberg III, 53-year-old son of an Army brigadier general, succeeded Rear Adm. Walter F. Boone in colorful ceremonies in front of historic Bancroft Hall.

As a youth, Smedberg prepped for entrance to West Point, where his father had played on the first Army football team ever to defeat Navy. But at the last minute he decided to go to the Naval Academy with his closest prep school friends. He graduated in 1926.

"The U. S. Navy is the key to the continuing greatness of this nation," he told the brigade and several hundred guests. "The strength of our Navy depends basically . . . on graduates of this Academy."

Smedberg commanded the destroyers Lansdowne and Hudson during World War II and the battleship Iowa during the Korean conflict. He was elevated to rear admiral in May, 1954, and is among the Navy's youngest officers of flag rank.

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today approved a catch-all appropriation of $795,743,823 to give various agencies extra money for the year ending next June 30.

The House is to act on the bill next week. Among its items:

Aid for states in antipolio vaccine programs, $27,800,000.

Veterans readjustment benefits, 185 million dollars.

Aid to school districts where population has been boosted by federal activities, 25 million. Also for construction of schools in these districts, $9,900,000.

Scientific work in the International Geophysical Year, including the man-made satellite project, 26 million.

Federal pay raises, $266,771,471.

Reimbursement of states for the federal share of highway construction work, 100 million.

Grants to states for public assistance programs, 47 million.

German Parliament Ban On Reds Voted

BONN, Germany, March 15 (AP)—West Germany's Bundestag today passed a law intended to keep Communists out of Parliament for years.

Valerian Zorin, Russia's first ambassador to Bonn, watched as the lower house voted overwhelmingly to exclude from the next Parliament all parties polling less than five per cent of the votes.

This provision in the new electoral law for the 1957 national election was aimed squarely at the Reds. They have consistently failed to win five per cent of the votes in general and state elections since 1953.

With no such requirement in the nation's first electoral law, the Communists won 14 seats in the 1949 national election. They were excluded from the Bundestag in the 1953 election under the so-called "five per cent clause."

Hoover Calls For 2,000 More Political Appointees In Government

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover today declared there are too few political appointees in the government to "carry out the mandates of the electorate."

Hoover addressed a National Action Conference of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, called to muster support for the adoption by Congress and the administration of the year-old recommendations of his Second Commission on Government Reorganization.

Perhaps 2,000 more policy-level jobs should be made "subject to party choice" and appointment by the President, Hoover told 400 business and civic leaders at the day-long meeting.

"Do not get scared that we are proposing a spoils system," he added. "That would be about 1-10 of 1 per cent of the present civil service.

"But this relates to the fundamental responsibility of maintaining two-party government."

Hoover repeated the plea of his 12-member commission for better "pay, security and prestige" for the entire carrier service to "keep government talent from being constantly grabbed by business."

Meyer Kestnbaum, special White House assistant on reorganization problems, reported President Eisenhower has assued him of his "very deep interest in getting the benefits from the Hoover recommendations."

But Kestnbaum mentioned no recent decisions to adopt specific proposals. The Hoover report to Congress last spring carried 362 recommendations for action by Congress or the administration. To date about 16 per cent have been adopted.

House Unit Approves Catch-All Money Bill

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today approved a catch-all appropriation of $795,743,823 to give various agencies extra money for the year ending next June 30.

The House is to act on the bill next week. Among its items:

Aid for states in antipolio vaccine programs, $27,800,000.

Veterans readjustment benefits, 185 million dollars.

Aid to school districts where population has been boosted by federal activities, 25 million. Also for construction of schools in these districts, $9,900,000.

Scientific work in the International Geophysical Year, including the man-made satellite project, 26 million.

Federal pay raises, $266,771,471.

Reimbursement of states for the federal share of highway construction work, 100 million.

Grants to states for public assistance programs, 47 million.

German Parliament Ban On Reds Voted

BONN, Germany, March 15 (AP)—West Germany's Bundestag today passed a law intended to keep Communists out of Parliament for years.

Valerian Zorin, Russia's first ambassador to Bonn, watched as the lower house voted overwhelmingly to exclude from the next Parliament all parties polling less than five per cent of the votes.

This provision in the new electoral law for the 1957 national election was aimed squarely at the Reds. They have consistently failed to win five per cent of the votes in general and state elections since 1953.

With no such requirement in the nation's first electoral law, the Communists won 14 seats in the 1949 national election. They were excluded from the Bundestag in the 1953 election under the so-called "five per cent clause."

Hoover Calls For 2,000 More Political Appointees In Government

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover today declared there are too few political appointees in the government to "carry out the mandates of the electorate."

Hoover addressed a National Action Conference of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, called to muster support for the adoption by Congress and the administration of the year-old recommendations of his Second Commission on Government Reorganization.

Perhaps 2,000 more policy-level jobs should be made "subject to party choice" and appointment by the President, Hoover told 400 business and civic leaders at the day-long meeting.

"Do not get scared that we are proposing a spoils system," he added. "That would be about 1-10 of 1 per cent of the present civil service.

"But this relates to the fundamental responsibility of maintaining two-party government."

Hoover repeated the plea of his 12-member commission for better "pay, security and prestige" for the entire carrier service to "keep government talent from being constantly grabbed by business."

Meyer Kestnbaum, special White House assistant on reorganization problems, reported President Eisenhower has assued him of his "very deep interest in getting the benefits from the Hoover recommendations."

But Kestnbaum mentioned no recent decisions to adopt specific proposals. The Hoover report to Congress last spring carried 362 recommendations for action by Congress or the administration. To date about 16 per cent have been adopted.

Prince Dies In Austria

BREGENZ, Austria, March 15 (AP) —Prince Ernst Ruediger von Starhemberg, who cut a big figure in prewar Austria as the leader of a little private army, died of a heart attack today. He was 56.

He headed a Fascist-type militia called the Heimwehr in the 1930s.

Jurors Refuse To Indict Couple Who Kept Children Out Of Integrated School

TOWSON, Md., March 15 (AP)—A grand jury has refused to indict the parents of two school girls who have been out of class six months because the couple opposes racially integrated schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland P. Howard of Cockeysville, had been charged with causing a condition bringing their children within the jurisdiction of Juvenile Court.

Baltimore County State's Atty. John E. Raine said no prosecution is now planned on the charges.

The girls, 8 and 10 years old, were assigned to the Cockeysville Elementary School.

When the parents appeared before Judge John Gontrum in Juvenile Court they said they would refuse to send the children to any school admitting both white and Negro children.

Baltimore County has begun a gradual program of school integration.

The Howards are one of two couples to resist integration, which otherwise has been carried on smoothly in the county.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Shock withdrew their two boys from integrated Hereford High School. Judge Gontrum had given them a choice of sending the children back to Hereford High, sending them to a private school or moving to another locality. The family moved to Florida.

Mahoney Busy Shaking Hands

BALTIMORE, March 15 (AP) — George P. Mahoney carried his campaign for the Democratic senatorial nomination into the Baltimore City Courthouse today and, according to an assistant's unofficial count, shook more than 1,000 hands in less than five hours.

Paul J. Reed Jr., Mahoney's city campaign manager, said the actual figure was "probably closer to 1,500."

"We got a wonderful reception," said Reed.

The tour was typical of Mahoney's sweeps through the courthouse in his previous bid for the Senate and two tries for governor.

Starting about 9 a.m., he visited virtually every office and corridor in the block-square building, pumping hands with lawyers, witnesses, litigants and city employes. He finished about 1:30 p.m.

Mahoney spent the rest of the afternoon at his campaign headquarters, conferring with Reed and other campaign aides.

The candidate planned a trip to Montgomery County tonight for a meeting with what one headquarters spokesman described as "a group of unidentified supporters."

Negro Killed When Struck By Four Cars

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — A man identified as Paul Brown, 51, Negro, was killed last night when he was hit by four autos on the Baltimore - Washington Parkway.

Park police said Hubert E. Flaherty, 25, a reporter for the Baltimore Sun, told them he swerved his car in an effort to miss the man, who was walking, but knocked him to the pavement.

According to Flaherty's account, a second car struck Brown. The driver stopped and told Flaherty he would go for police. He never returned.

A third car hit the man and sped on. A fourth car was waved down, the driver got out, went back to his car for some flares, but before he could return, a small sports car struck the man and dragged him 100 feet.

Flaherty was held for action of the coroner. He posted $500 bond.

The accident happened at the South Dakota Avenue entrance to the parkway.

The victim wore a black topcoat, khaki trousers, two sweaters, a suit coat, black shoes and white sports shirt. His last known address was in the 1500 block of 3rd St., NW, Washington.

Montgomery Co. Club Supporting Tydings Formed

ROCKVILLE, Md., March 15 (AP) —Formation of a Montgomery County Tydings for Senate Club was announced here today by State Sen. Edward Northrop, who was elected president.

Northrop said the purpose of the club is to "exclusively back Tydings' candidacy."

The club will stage a rally March 29 at the Leland Junior High School in Bethesda in cooperation with the Western Suburban Democratic Club. Tydings will speak at the rally after a day-long tour of the county and lunch with the Democratic Women of Montgomery County at the Columbia Country Club, Chevy Chase.

Other officers elected by the club were Charles W. Woodward, Rockville, former chief judge of the 6th Judicial Circuit, first vice president; Roy Frank, Chevy Chase lawyer, second vice president; David Cahoon of Rockville and State Del. Alfred Scanlon, Bethesda, president of the Western Suburban Democratic Club, and Mrs. John M. Redding, president of the Potomac Democratic Women's Club, vice presidents for the western section; Ralph G. Shurer, Takoma Park and Mrs. Willard A. Morris of Silver Spring, vice presidents for the eastern section.

Mrs. Edward M. Bernstein of Chevy Chase was named executive secretary; John H. Pugh, Chevy Chase, treasurer and Mrs. Jean Lapham, publicity director.

Tydings "Likes" Eisenhower, Too

FEDERALSBURG, Md., March 15 (AP)—Millard E. Tydings, touring Caroline County in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for senator, said here today he liked President Eisenhower. But the statement was something less than endorsement.

Tydings made the statement when, in the course of his handshaking trip, he met a woman who declared she was a Republican and would vote the straight Republican ticket.

"That's all right," replied Tydings. "I like the President, too. He's all right."

In the 1954 primary for governor, Caroline County was carried by George P. Mahoney, Tydings's major opponent in this year's May 7 senate race. The county State Central Committee has formally endorsed Mahoney for the nomination.

With a registration of about 6,000 Democrats, the county has three votes in the State nominating convention.

Tydings was accompanied on the Federalsburg phase of his tour by Jacob O. Williams, local business man. The candidate visited more than 60 stores, filling stations, bars and industrial plants before winding up the day's activities with his main speech at Denton tonight.

Mayor Calls On Baltimore Business Men To Finance Huge Rebuilding Program

BALTIMORE, March 15 (AP) — Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro today challenged Baltimore business men to "put cash on the barrelhead" to help renew the city's decaying and worn out sections.

The mayor returned recently from Pittsburgh where private financial investment is sparking a huge rebuilding program.

He called the Pittsburgh project "one of the most inspiring displays of confidence I have yet witnessed."

The mayor said "active and sincere" interest among Baltimore business men in this city's urban renewal plan has been encouraging.

"But translating the hopes and aspirations into specific plans and from there into action programs is going to cost a lot of money.

"They (private business interests) simply have got to be willing to put cash on the barrelhead to renew the worn out sections of this proud city, as they know must be done from their own analyses and personal convictions regarding the city's future and the welfare of its citizens.

"And they must do it from a public standpoint and not solely a business viewpoint," said D'Alesandro.

The mayor said a report by his urban renewal board should be ready in about 60 days. At that time, it must be decided how much can be done and how the program can be financed, he said.

He said 25 per cent of the land use pattern in the central business district of Pittsburgh has been charged "within a few years."

"They have constructed fine new business buildings, brought parks to the downtown district, created thousands of parking spaces and made their Golden Triangle as fine a shopping center as America possesses," said the mayor.

Two More Youths Held In Arson Case

ELLICOTT CITY, Md., March 15 (AP)—Two more charges of arson were filed today in the case of the young men who set a fire to get rid of the Savage, Md. fire chief so they could court his 14-year-old daughter.

Charged and taken to the Howard County jail here today were Jerry Knisely, 22, and Thomas O'Keefe, 18. Similar charges were filed yesterday against William Murray, 16. All are from Savage.

Detective Sgt. Wilton May said the three set fire to a race horse barn with mahogany stalls and an indoor track. Damage was put at a quarter of a million dollars.

The fire last Thursday was on the estate of Richard Hutchison Sr. near Laurel Raceway.

Savage Fire Chief Lewis S. Redmond was accustomed to send the three boys home early when they came to visit his daughter and a 15-year-old girl friend. He was late getting home the night of the fire.

Charged and taken to the Howard County jail here today were Jerry Knisely, 22, and Thomas O'Keefe, 18. Similar charges were filed yesterday against William Murray, 16. All are from Savage.

Detective Sgt. Wilton May said the three set fire to a race horse barn with mahogany stalls and an indoor track. Damage was put at a quarter of a million dollars.

The fire last Thursday was on the estate of Richard Hutchison Sr. near Laurel Raceway.

Savage Fire Chief Lewis S. Redmond was accustomed to send the three boys home early when they came to visit his daughter and a 15-year-old girl friend. He was late getting home the night of the fire.

Stevenson Piling Up Points In Pivotal Minnesota Fight

Editor's Note — This is one in a series of stories by the AP's national political reporters who are surveying the situation across the country in the light of President Eisenhower's decision to seek a second term.

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

MINNEAPOLIS, March 15 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson apparently is piling up points in Minnesota's pivotal primary battle with Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

For the Republicans it's just a question of trying to turn out a big vote next Tuesday and seeing how nearly unanimous it will be for President Eisenhower.

When it comes to the November election, Eisenhower can expect rougher going in a state which ranks fifth in sales of farm products. There are disgruntled farmers here, too.

And in cities as well as in farming country, a random sampling of opinion turned up some people who said they voted for Eisenhower in 1952 but won't in 1956. It turned up none at all who said they were switching in the other direction—to Eisenhower.

Four years ago Eisenhower got a tremendous write-in vote when his name wasn't on the primary ballot. He carried the state handily in the general election.

For Stevenson and Kefauver, this year's primary is vital. It will be the nation's second, but the first to present a clear-cut test of strength between the two. Stevenson didn't enter the New Hampshire popularity poll last Tuesday and didn't campaign in that state.

Here in Minnesota, each has his name on the ballot, along with a slate of national convention delegates. Each is pounding down the roads and byways in feverish last minute efforts.

One—or both in the event of something of a standoff—can come out of the primary with his political luster dimmed.

Gov. Orville Freeman, a key figure in the Democratic party organization behind Stevenson, said "I think Stevenson will win 3 to 1 and carry all the delegates."

Hjalmar Petersen, cochairman of the Kefauver campaign, countered with: "I believe Kefauver will win five or six (of nine congressional) districts and maybe the whole works. Some Republicans are even going to go in and vote for him."

A late February survey, by the Minnesota poll of the Minneapolis Sunday Tribune, reported that Democrats intending to vote in the primary showed a 59 to 24 per cent preference for Stevenson over Kefauver.

A continuing "postcard primary" conducted by TV station WCCO reported last night that Stevenson was leading by 54 to 46 per cent, although Kefauver was a shade ahead outside of Minneapolis and St. Paul.

The Minneapolis station said Eisenhower had 97 per cent of the Republican ballots to 3 per cent for Sen. William F. Knowland of California.

Both polls parallel what people tell you when you stop them on the street or at the corner drug store. Sentiment for Stevenson seems predominant. Kefauver apparently will make his best showing in rural areas.

It is in these rural areas also where you hear the most talk along lines of what John Zwach of Walnut Grove, in southwestern Minnesota, has to say:

"Things are pretty rough out on the farm. In my opinion there certainly is going to be a swing in the other direction from the last election.

"The 53 head of cattle I bought a year ago for $23.50 a hundred will have to go to the market at $18."

Zwach has 480 acres. He says he is an independent in politics but "inclined to be Republican."

"I voted for Ike," he said. "I persuaded some of my neighbors to vote for Ike, and they're pretty sore at me."

What will he do in November? The answer was clear though implied:

"I'm not happy with the agricultural situation and the handling of it."

In contrast, there is another element of farmers like the ten brothers, nephews and in-laws at a sort of family reunion near Winona, in the southeastern corner of the state. They all started out complaining about the farm situation and the low prices they get for hogs. They wound up saying they guessed, though, they would vote for Ike again.

Or take the Catholic priest at more centrally located Clearwater. He said he is an independent who votes for the man, not the party.

"I'm for an honest, God-fearing man regardless of party," he said. "Ike is my man and I love him."

Present Plans Call For Dozen Earth Satellites

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Scientists who will send man-made moons whizzing around the earth at 18,000 miles an hour have told Congress:

That plans now call for 12 of the satellites, each 20 to 30 inches in diameter. Some may fizzle before they take off, and certainly they all won't be circling the earth at once.

That at least one expert, Joseph Kaplan, looks on the international rocket program "as perhaps the greatest new scientific effort we have had since the invention of the telescope."

That the earth, like a congressman, tends to bulge about the middle. The satellites, filled with delicate instruments that will send back data by radio, will give clues on how big that bulge is, as well as supply information on atmospheric mysteries as high as 800 miles up.

The scientists gave their views last week to a House Appropriations subcommittee that will have to pass on the $19,262,000 the project will cost. There testimony was made public today.

Congressmen often like to argue with witnesses, but they seemed remarkable docile with the scientists around.

For example, Dr. Richard W. Porter, who is chairman of satellite technical panel, was explaining how you'd probably need binoculars to see the thing.

"I think," Porter said, "the Chance of a person seeing it with his naked eye is not very great."

"If you do not mind my using little equation," Porter said, and he stepped to a blackboard to write a formula that went something like this:

m times v squared over r is equal to m times g times R squared over r squared.

The silence that greeted this equation was bipartisan.

The plans now call for launching the satellites during the International Geophysical Year that begins July 1, 1957.

Have there been complaints from countries it will fly over?

Quite the contrary, Porter said. He said he had been to an international meeting in Germany, and "the only complaint I heard was from those countries over which it did not go, because they wanted to have a look at the thing."

Well, the talk drifted along, and finally Rep. John Phillips (R-Calif) asked:

"What happens when it falls down?"

Porter explained how it would race madly around the world for weeks, maybe months, but as it comes down into a thicker atmosphere the friction will burn it "into minute ashes long before it reaches the earth."

Catholic Church Revises Easter Week Services

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—A huge, custom-changing operation is going on today in the Roman Catholic Church to revamp some of its key fixtures of worship.

From priest to parishioner, the church family is schooling itself for strikingly revised forms of Easter Week services.

It is "the most far-reaching liturgical reform of our times," says Catholic scholar Father John LaFarge.

The changes reflect a step-by-step movement within the church to give congregations a more active part in public worship.

Beginning this year, as decreed by the Congregation of Sacred Rites for Roman Catholic churches throughout the world, the modifications include:

1. Alterations in ritual stressing public participation in phases of the services formerly carried out mostly by officiating clergy alone.

2. Evening services on Holy Thursday, commemorating the Lord's Supper, instead of in the morning as previously.

3. The shifting of Good Friday services from morning to afternoon to more nearly coincide with the time of Christ's death.

4. Taking of communion—the Holy Eucharist—on Good Friday by the laity, a practice that hasn't been permitted since the 12th century.

5. An "Easter vigil" and Midnight Mass Saturday night before Easter—replacing a service formerly held Saturday morning.

6. Use of the vernacular—English instead of Latin—in portions of the Saturday services, the first time English has been made a fixed part of the regular liturgy.

The changes, said Father Charles J. McManus, director of the Catholic Information Bureau, represent "the greatest step taken in centuries to restore observances of the holy days of the week to their original status."

'Immune' To Alcohol; Charges Dismissed

WINDSOR, Ont. March 15 (AP)—A Windsor driver said in Police Court today he couldn't have been drunk at the wheel of his car because he habitually drinks so much that alcohol no longer has an effect on him.

Verne Smith, 40, said he took from 10 to 15 beers a day and had only 5 or 6 the day he was arrested. Magistrate A. W. MacMillian dismissed charges of drunk driving.

Peaceful Atom Already Playing Big Role In U.S. Life

By FRANCIS E. CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — The 10-year-old peaceful atom already is playing an active role in everyday American life.

Let's forget for a minute the possibilities for the future—which experts say are really tremendous—and see what jobs the atom is doing today.

1. You may be one of the half-million Americans who have had an ailment diagnosed in the past 10 years with the help of radioactive isotopes.

2. You may be one of the 50,000 Americans who have undergone actual treatment with certain isotopes, although successes have been limited in the treatment field.

3. You may be one of many sick people who, while not treated with atomic energy, have benefitted indirectly from research into various diseases conducted with isotopes.

4. The foam rubber matress you sleep on, the kitchen linoleum you walk on, the tires on your automobile, the cigarettes you smoke, the ice cream you had for lunch may have been processed by industrial techniques employing radioactive isotopes as efficiency aides.

5. The gasoline pumped at your neighborhood filling station may have been sped through pipelines with the help of isotopes employed to spot obstructions.

6. Your laundry may be whiter due to improvements in soaps and detergents made possible through research with radioactive dirt and grease.

7. It's possible you may have munched on a new variety of peanuts produced through atomic research in genetics.

But despite other such gains to date, experts say that only a start has been made.

A special panel on "the impact of the peaceful uses of atomic energy"—headed by Robert McKinney, publisher of the Santa Fe New Mexican—concluded after consultation with government and private scientists that:

Along the atomic medical front, the future holds promise of "fewer days of sickness, fewer days in hospitals, and a longer, more useful life."

In agriculture, "tailor-made" crops, adaptable to wider ranges of climate, rain and soil; more resistant to diseases and insects, healthier and better-producing animals, improved insecticides and plant growth regulators.

In industry, more and more processes aided by isotopes which already are saving industry 100 million dollars annually, a host of brand new products made through "radiation chemistry."

The experts say more research, more private and government money, more trained personnel are required in order to realize the full potential of the peaceful atom. Also, greater speed in getting results of research into actual practice. But a start has been made.

Isotopes are being used in the treatment of certain cancerous conditions; some forms of heart disease; overactive thyroid glands or toxic goiters; polycythemia vera, a disease in which excessive numbers of red blood cells are formed; and in certain diseases of the eye.

Best results have been achieved so far in the case of overactive thyroid where radioactive iodine is employed; and in polycythemia vera, where radioactive phosphorous. Radioactive iodine is being used against thyroid cancer, and while it has had little effect on the "primary" cancer, it has helped fight bits of cancer that sometimes spread from the original site.

Radioactive cobalt and, more recently, radioactive cesium, are being applied as cheaper and easier-to-use substitutes for radium in attacking deep-seated cancers.

Brain tumors can be diagnosed and localized with the help of radioactive materials which in the brain tend to concentrate more extensively in cancerous areas than normal tissue.

Some isotopes are used in the diagnosis of blood disorders. For example, if an artery is blocked, radioactive sodium injection into the body will stop at the roadblock—and its location can be detected with a Geiger counter.

"Referring to various treatment uses of the isopopes, the Public Health Service says:

"One cannot point to spectacular cures, but prolongation of life appears to have been demonstrated.

"At present, no dramatic successes can be claimed for any therapeutic procedure using radioactive isotopes. These materials have been available for a relatively short time; it seems certain that research will develop new and improved methods for using them."

Along the farm front, research with isotopes already has helped teach farmers to use fertilizers to better advantage.

Use of radiation to induce genetic changes in plants has brought about the development of a rust-resistant type of oats; a peanut resistant to leaf wilt; another type of peanut that is exceptionally productive; and a short-stalked corn with increased resistance to being bowled over by wind. Scientists say the possibilities in this area are very broad.

The plant breeder, they report, has been given "a tremendously powerful tool by which he is able to compress into a few years what otherwise would require the labor of many men for a century."

Old Home Town Praises Stalin

MOSCOW, March 14 (AP)—Joseph Stalin got a pat on the back from his old home town despite current criticism of his rule by the Soviet Union's new leaders.

The leading newspaper of Stalin's native Georgia published a front-page tribute to the late Premier last week on the third anniversary of his burial.

This departure from the general chorus of discreditation was disclosed with receipt today of the March 9 edition of the Tiflis newspaper Dawn of the East.

The Moscow press ignored the anniversary but the Tiflis paper, an organ of the Georgian Communist party's Central Committee, carried a big story. Also on the front page was a picture of Stalin with Lenin.

(In Berlin today, a secretary of the Central Committee of the East German Communist party, Albert Norden, explained Stalin's place in the current scheme of things to confused party members.

(He said the late Soviet leader "was and remains a leading functionary of the workers' movement and" that no one is thinking of separating himself from Stalin—only "from his errors."

Million-Dollar Drive Launched By Care

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP) — Care launched a one-million-dollar drive today to send food and other supplies to seven areas in the world where the refugee problem is deemed most pressing.

The nonprofit agency said the supplies would go to refugees from communism in West Germany, South Korea, Indochina and Hong Kong, political refugees in Greece, Arab refugees in the Near East and new immigrants in Israel.

The sponge, one of the lowest forms of animal life, has no mouth, stomach, or nerve fibers.

Figl Says Austria Stands With West

ROME, March 15 (AP) — Foreign Minister Leopold Figl of Austria said today his country stands firmly with the West despite its neutrality.

He told the Italian Society for International Organization, "We maintain that we have demonstrated in an unequivocal manner during the difficult postwar years that we belong to Western civilization."

"The free world, which in difficult times gave us the support of its accord," Figl said, "knows that in the conflict between the two visions of the world—that of the West and that of the East—we have long ago made our choice."

Redstone Missile Unit Is Planned

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — The Army said today it will begin next month to assemble the first battalion to fire the new 300-mile Redstone missile.

At the same time, it put in a claim to keep control of this weapon after its range has been extended, perhaps to a distance of 1,500 miles.

Secretary of the Army Brucker said establishment of the firing battalion was a logical step in the Army missile development. He also said such weapons will permit "deep penetrations into enemy territory."

An issue has arisen in the Pentagon as to whether the Army or the Air Force should control the 1,500-mile guided missile, once it has been achieved.

The new unit, the 217th Field Artillery Missile Battalion, will begin forming at the Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala. It will be made up of men from other Army units which have become experienced in firing older types of guided missiles.

The Redstone missile is about 60 feet long and 5 feet in diameter.

(In Berlin today, a secretary of the Central Committee of the East German Communist party, Albert Norden, explained Stalin's place in the current scheme of things to confused party members.

(He said the late Soviet leader "was and remains a leading functionary of the workers' movement and" that no one is thinking of separating himself from Stalin—only "from his errors."

Million-Dollar Drive Launched By Care

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP) — Care launched a one-million-dollar drive today to send food and other supplies to seven areas in the world where the refugee problem is deemed most pressing.

The nonprofit agency said the supplies would go to refugees from communism in West Germany, South Korea, Indochina and Hong Kong, political refugees in Greece, Arab refugees in the Near East and new immigrants in Israel.

The sponge, one of the lowest forms of animal life, has no mouth, stomach, or nerve fibers.

Redstone Missile Unit Is Planned

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — The Army said today it will begin next month to assemble the first battalion to fire the new 300-mile Redstone missile.

At the same time, it put in a claim to keep control of this weapon after its range has been extended, perhaps to a distance of 1,500 miles.

Secretary of the Army Brucker said establishment of the firing battalion was a logical step in the Army missile development. He also said such weapons will permit "deep penetrations into enemy territory."

An issue has arisen in the Pentagon as to whether the Army or the Air Force should control the 1,500-mile guided missile, once it has been achieved.

The new unit, the 217th Field Artillery Missile Battalion, will begin forming at the Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala. It will be made up of men from other Army units which have become experienced in firing older types of guided missiles.

The Redstone missile is about 60 feet long and 5 feet in diameter.

NEW YORK, March 15 (INS)—"Reincarnation is for the birds," the good-looking blonde said. "I've regressed hundreds of people in my time. All I can make of it, startling as it sometimes turns out to be, is that these people are subconsciously reliving something they read, heard, saw, dreamed or imagined from the time of their birth."

The blonde came with good credentials. She is Joan Brandon, a professional hypnotist. Our luncheon at Sardi's was arranged by an amateur hypnotist I know, Fawcett Editor Ralph Daigh, who is publishing Miss Brandon's book "The Art of Hypnotism." It's to be part of a "How To" library. The oddest book on any "How To" shelf, I suggested, uneasily avoiding Miss Brandon's sparkling eyes.

"I'd have been burned as a witch a couple of hundred years ago," she agreed amiably. "But people are losing their fear of hypnotism. I put thousands of people 'out' each year, in such places as auditoriums, theaters, night clubs, private homes, hospitals, maternity wards, doctors conventions and so forth.

"As for this Bridey Murphy business, it's interesting but explainable. Her mind accepted and sealed a lot of things her parents, grandparents and other people spoke of in her presence as a child. Hypnotism opened those long closed vaults, I see it happen every day. It has nothing to do with reincarnation."

Bridey, I mean Joan, is the daughter of "The Great Brandoni," the hypnotist who was the son of Dr. Allen Brandon, who gave up his medical practice to concentrate on the phenomena that had been his hobby.

"I'd have to hypnotize myself to remember when I first began hypnotizing people, it's been so long," she laughed. "I grew up with it. There's never been anything strange about it. A person who doesn't want to be hypnotized can't be. A lot of cheap novels and movies about people doing horrid things under the influence of hypnotism are all pure bunk. They've set back an important science. It's of definite medical value in cases of hypertension, migraine, asthma, alcoholism, over-smoking, dieting and many other problems."

Miss Brandon indicated that many people now come to her seeking cure for a vast variety of ailments. But, she added, she will not lift a finger or wave a wand unless the person's doctor invites her in as a consultant in the matter. Still the people clamor.

Soon, through her book, they can do it themselves. We wondered if that wouldn't put a lot of second-rate Svengalis in the nation's parlors.

"Perhaps," she acknowledged. "But the instructions will be clear and the results harmless. You've got to know how. I got an emergency call recently to go to a place where an amateur had hypnotized a friend and couldn't get him to wake up. The amateur was hysterical when I arrived and his friend slept through a deep trance. I recognized the trouble immediately. The hysteria had caused the amateur's voice to become shrill. The man in the trance didn't recognize it as the voice that had knocked him 'out.' So he wouldn't respond to its orders.

"There was only one thing for me to do," Miss Brandon said, businesslike. "I hypnotized the hypnotist and when he was 'out' I told him to tell his friend that I was taking over the case and would bring him back. I brought him back instantly, and then brought the hypnotist back."

Miss Brandon's weight reduction plan consists, she says, of throwing the fat soul under a spell and telling him/her while under it that he/she hates starches but loves carrots. With booze, she tells the bloke the next drink will make him deathly sick. With chain smokers, the approach is (as they stand before her glassy-eyed) "the next one will taste exactly like burning rubber." Then she gives them a pencil to chew on. Miss Brandon said, lighting a cigaret and taking a deep, satisfying drag.

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON — A friend of mine has said that "mergers are the super-highway to monopoly," and I quite agree. Pending before the Congress is a bill requiring corporations to give the Federal Trade Commission advance notice of intended mergers. The bill is a step in the right direction, but my feeling is that it does not provide still enough penalties for non-compliance.

I tried, while the bill was under House Judiciary Committee consideration, to insert some amendments to strengthen the measure. But the majority of the committee felt the penalties I suggested would hamper passage. My support of the bill stems from my firm belief that the private enterprise system is endangered when free competition is threatened. Open competition is one result of a strong small business community. When these firms disappear through the merger route, one effective restraint on monopolistic growth is removed.

Any measure that slows down, or halts, the merger trend is of importance to the businessmen and the consumers of the Sixth Maryland District as well as to the nation.

With the designation of Fort Detrick as a permanent military installation I am again pressuring the Department of Defense for a favorable report on my bill to give the residents of the area full voting privileges.

On My Calendar: Mrs. Hyde and I attended the annual dinner of the American Trade Association Executives in Washington yesterday. Today I will present one of the flags flown over the Capitol to the association. The Men's Club of St. Luke's Church in Silver Spring have asked me to speak on "Problems of European Migration" at their annual Ladies' Night on March 19. Mrs. Hyde and I will attend the Jefferson Ruritan Club's dinner in Frederick on March 20. The Luxmanor Citizens Association has asked me to speak at their meeting on March 22.

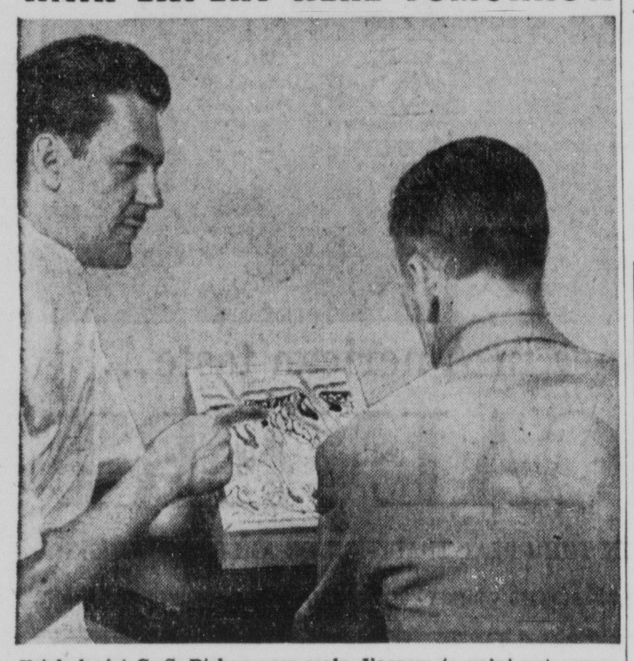
HAIR EXPERT HERE TOMORROW



Trichologist G. S. Bishop uses scalp diagram to point out causes of hair loss to balding client. Bishop's organization is sending a specialist here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

Basic Principle of Hair Loss and Growth Revealed by Expert

NEWPORT, Ky. — New home treatment methods for growing thicker hair—and preventing baldness — will be demonstrated in Cumberland, Md., this Saturday, March 17.

Trichologist J. M. Walker, of the famous Bishop Hair Experts organization, will be in charge. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

20 Years Experience

G. S. Bishop, founder of the Bishop Hair Experts, has had more than 20 years experience studying —and correcting—hair problems. He summarizes his thousands of case histories in one simple, matter-of-fact statement:

"The healthy scalp grows healthy hair—naturally!

"It seems so obvious," says Bishop, "you might think no intelligent person would deny the truth. But when you accept it, you must rule out practically all the common beliefs about baldness.

"For instance, most people are convinced that baldness is hereditary—'runs in families,' so to speak. Yet I've never heard anyone argue that you can inherit an unhealthy scalp. So you can't very well inherit baldness, can you?"

LEROY GEIGER before Bishop treatment (above), and after treatment (below). Unretouched photographs made seven months apart.

Baldness Due To Age?

Bishop has an impressive record to back up his conclusions. More than 95% of those he treats are satisfied. He has permanent offices in Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New York. You'll find hardly a city or town in the many states covered by Bishop trichologists that doesn't have several satisfied Bishop clients.

"Another common idea," says Bishop, "is that a man just naturally loses his hair as he gets older. Why should he? Men's hair grows fastest between the ages of 35 and 60. So there's no earthly reason why everyone should not keep his scalp healthy and hair growing.

Something Can Be Done

"You've also heard men say that nothing can be done to stop hair loss once it starts. Why not? It's just a question of correcting an unhealthy scalp condition, and trading bad habits of hair care for good habits."

Not one male scalp in a hundred is actually healthy, Bishop observes.

"If your scalp ached when it was in bad condition—as your teeth do — there wouldn't be 12,000,000 balding men in the U. S."

Free Examination

If you're worried about your hair, drop by the Fort Cumberland Hotel. Examination is free and without obligation.

"Our first problem, when you come in for examination," says Bishop, "is to determine the exact condition of your scalp. On the basis of that analysis, we work out a special home care procedure. We tell you what to do and what not to do for the good of your hair.

"There is no cure-all for every scalp disorder. Each of the disorders that cause most baldness requires a special treatment."

Bishop says that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks to get best results. "For this reason, you mail regular reports to the Bishop office in Newport.

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Bishop trichologist at regular intervals."

Guarantee Satisfaction

"To overcome the average man's skepticism, we offer a 30-DAY GUARANTEE," says Bishop. "You must be satisfied with results by the end of 30 days or your money will be refunded."

Trichologist Walker will be in Cumberland on Saturday, March 17, so make plans to see him then.

Call the Fort Cumberland Hotel tomorrow for Mr. Walker's suite number, then come see him between 2 and 9 p.m. for a free examination.

Remember, there's no obligation or embarrassment. You don't need an appointment.

Market Climbs To Its Fifth Record High In Six Days

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP) — The stock market bounded up to its fifth new high in six days today, with oil, chemical and metal shares standout performers.

Numerous key issues gained 2 to 4 points. "Blue chips" in all divisions joined in the drive ahead, which began at the opening and carried through to the close. Steel and motor stocks came into their own in the final hour.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed 90 cents to a record $188.60, and volume rose to 3,270,000 shares. In yesterday's market, the average set the previous high mark on an advance of $1.50 and volume of 3,140,000 shares.

The industrial component of the average rose $1.80, rails 50 cents and utilities 10 cents.

United Merchants and Manufacturers took honors as the most active issue, closing unchanged at 18½ on sales of 68,500 shares. A block of 30,000 shares of United Merchants traded off ½ in the final hour and accounted for almost half of the stock's volume.

Studebaker Packard followed, falling ½ to 9¼ on 60,000 shares. Others in the most active list included National Distillers up ¾ at 24⅛, Pan American up ¾ at 21, and Kaiser Aluminum up 2¾ at 43¾.

Among the best gainers were Standard Oil N.J., up 4⅛ at 165, and Long Bell Lumber, up 4⅞ at 72¼. Allied Chemical advanced 2½ to 119½.

SRC Seeking Road Surface Material Bids

Proposals for furnishing and applying bituminous material for surface treating state highways in Allegany, Garrett and Washington Counties are being asked by the State Roads Commission.

Bids on the contract involving 64,703 gallons will be opened by the SRC at its offices in Baltimore on Friday, March 23.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer, for the SRC, said only a little over three miles of state-maintained highway will be treated in Allegany County.

The three sections are on Skid's Hill off Georges Creek Boulevard, Watercliffe Road, and two sections of the original Georges Creek Boulevard in Moscow and Barton.

Chaires explained that the continuous process of rebuilding roads in this county has cut down the need for surface treatment.

Projects listed for Garrett County include seven miles on Route 40 from the Salisbury Road toward Frostburg; a section between Jennings and Bittinger on State Route 495, a section of U. S. Route 219 between Red House and Gnegy Church, and five miles of State Route 560 between Loch Lynn and Gorman.

Market Climbs To Its Fifth Record High In Six Days

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP) — The stock market bounded up to its fifth new high in six days today, with oil, chemical and metal shares standout performers.

Numerous key issues gained 2 to 4 points. "Blue chips" in all divisions joined in the drive ahead, which began at the opening and carried through to the close. Steel and motor stocks came into their own in the final hour.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed 90 cents to a record $188.60, and volume rose to 3,270,000 shares. In yesterday's market, the average set the previous high mark on an advance of $1.50 and volume of 3,140,000 shares.

The industrial component of the average rose $1.80, rails 50 cents and utilities 10 cents.

United Merchants and Manufacturers took honors as the most active issue, closing unchanged at 18½ on sales of 68,500 shares. A block of 30,000 shares of United Merchants traded off ½ in the final hour and accounted for almost half of the stock's volume.

Studebaker Packard followed, falling ½ to 9¼ on 60,000 shares. Others in the most active list included National Distillers up ¾ at 24⅛, Pan American up ¾ at 21, and Kaiser Aluminum up 2¾ at 43¾.

Among the best gainers were Standard Oil N.J., up 4⅛ at 165, and Long Bell Lumber, up 4⅞ at 72¼. Allied Chemical advanced 2½ to 119½.

SRC Seeking Road Surface Material Bids

Proposals for furnishing and applying bituminous material for surface treating state highways in Allegany, Garrett and Washington Counties are being asked by the State Roads Commission.

Bids on the contract involving 64,703 gallons will be opened by the SRC at its offices in Baltimore on Friday, March 23.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer, for the SRC, said only a little over three miles of state-maintained highway will be treated in Allegany County.

The three sections are on Skid's Hill off Georges Creek Boulevard, Watercliffe Road, and two sections of the original Georges Creek Boulevard in Moscow and Barton.

Chaires explained that the continuous process of rebuilding roads in this county has cut down the need for surface treatment.

Projects listed for Garrett County include seven miles on Route 40 from the Salisbury Road toward Frostburg; a section between Jennings and Bittinger on State Route 495, a section of U. S. Route 219 between Red House and Gnegy Church, and five miles of State Route 560 between Loch Lynn and Gorman.

T. J. McDonald, who was indicted on four misdemeanors for practicing medicine without a license, pleaded guilty to one indictment and was fined $50 and costs and ordered by the court to refund all money collected while in the county.

A six month sentence in the county jail was suspended and he was paroled for three years. The other three indictments were dismissed by the prosecuting attorney.

Ronald Jolly, who was indicted on a felony charge for malicious assault on Jewell Crosten, and released under $3,000 following his arrest earlier in the year, entered a plea of not guilty. The court ordered his bond renewed and the case will be set for hearing in the June term of court.

A parolee, Jolly allegedly stabbed Crosten with a hunting knife January 16 in an alley in the rear of the court house.

Blair G. Willis, Negro, also a parolee, indicted on a charge of breaking and entering an outbuilding owned by Mrs. Mary Borkowski, of Davis, was returned to Huttonsville Medium Security Prison, and was not brought to Tucker County for trial.

William W. Shaffer, indicted on a felony charge, is currently serving a term in the Washington County jail, Hagerstown, Md., and Judge See ordered a retainer sent to that county for him and he will be returned to Tucker County for trial at a later date.

He allegedly stole 20 nursery trees, a $40 check signed by a W. S. Tasker and a check in the amount of $22.40 signed by Mrs. Edward Long, from whom the property was taken.

A felony indictment was returned against Harshall Day who was charged with forging the signature of Jenny Snyder on a note for $35.

Judge See reported that three divorce cases scheduled for hearing has been dismissed and that the couples were reconciled.

An order was entered granting a new trial in the two cases of Burton George versus Wilma Jean Bodkin. Judge See said the new trial will be granted because the defendant was under age at the time she was given a sum of money by George, who later brought suit for the return of the money.

Two divorce cases were heard and granted a divorce at the regular term of court. They were Wilma Jean Bodkin versus Jimmy Bodkin. An absolute divorce was granted and maiden name, Wilma Jean Shaw, restored to paintiff.

In the case of Robert Leon Kelly who entered suit for annulment from Judith Ann Kisner Kelly, a counter suit was entered by Judith Ann Kisner Kelly versus Robert Kelly on charge of cruelty. An absolute divorce was granted to Judith Ann Kelly.

Six juveniles appeared before the juvenile court, charged with the destruction of property. All six admitted breaking and entering the Parsons High School building and the field house and taking property. All were placed on probation until they reach the age of eighteen years. They were ordered by Judge See to pay court costs and thirty dollars to the Board of Education of Tucker County for destruction of property, and to be of good behavior.

They were instructed by Judge See to be off the streets by nine thirty each evening unless accompanied by their parents or school authorities, not to violate any laws and to attend school regularly and punctually until eighteen years of age. One must attend religious services each week.

Judge See said no petit jury was required for this term of court.

Petroleum Use Sets New Record

NEW YORK, March 14 (AP)—Although Americans burned up more petroleum products last year than ever before in history, an industry survey showed today, the nation continued to add to its known reserves of natural gas and crude oil.

A joint study by the American Petroleum Institute and the American Gas Assn. showed known crude oil reserves at the end of 1955 about 1½ per cent higher than a year earlier, and proven reserves of natural gas up slightly more than 5 per cent.

The joint report said proven reserves of liquid petroleum rose to 35 billion 400 million barrels—a one-year gain of 645 million barrels. (According to the API's definition, "liquid petroleum" includes both crude oil and condensate. Condensate is an underground petroleum liquid that becomes gas when it leaves the ground.)

Proven reserves of crude oil gained 451 million barrels to total 30 billion barrels at year-end.

Natural gas reserves jumped 223 trillion 697 billion cubic feet for a net increase of 11 trillion 986 billion.

The report said U. S. production of liquid petroleum last year hit an all-time peak of 2,739,000 barrels, up 181 million from 1954. Crude oil production set a new high of 2,419,000,000 barrels, up 162 million.

Production of natural gas was estimated at a new record of 10 trillion 148 billion cubic feet, an increase of 691 billion.

New Mt. Savage Plant Delays Production

Remodeling Work Not Quite Finished

MT. SAVAGE — Full-scale production at the new plant of Ribbon Copies Corporation of America at Mt. Savage has been delayed pending the completion of remodeling the plant.

Peter Lukas, general manager of the firm that has installed the plant in the old C&P Railroad shops in Mt. Savage, had tentatively scheduled the beginning of production yesterday.

Although crews of the C&A Gas Company worked over the weekend, the bad weather of the first three days of this week prevented the actual tie-in of the plant's lines with the mains until today.

Lukas said a group of machinists has been making several important parts of "Cop-Eez", the revolutionary device which when attached to a standard typewriter eliminates the need for carbon papers for making multi-copies.

New Mt. Savage Plant Delays Production

Remodeling Work Not Quite Finished

MT. SAVAGE — Full-scale production at the new plant of Ribbon Copies Corporation of America at Mt. Savage has been delayed pending the completion of remodeling the plant.

Peter Lukas, general manager of the firm that has installed the plant in the old C&P Railroad shops in Mt. Savage, had tentatively scheduled the beginning of production yesterday.

Although crews of the C&A Gas Company worked over the weekend, the bad weather of the first three days of this week prevented the actual tie-in of the plant's lines with the mains until today.

Lukas said a group of machinists has been making several important parts of "Cop-Eez", the revolutionary device which when attached to a standard typewriter eliminates the need for carbon papers for making multi-copies.

New floors and ceilings have been installed by the John I. Vandegrift Company while the plumbing and heating has been handled by the H. and S. Plumbing and Heating Company.

The electrical work is being done by the Sterling Electrical Company. All of the firms are from Cumberland.

Downdraft blowers heated by gas will replace the old big steel boilers used when the shops were operated by the railroad.

Gas is also used for drying and baking the paint on the finished product.

WILLIAM WALSH

Appointment of William Walsh, Cumberland attorney, as Allegany County chairman for the Cancer Crusade of 1956, was announced yesterday by Donald H. Bladen, executive director of Maryland Division, Inc., American Cancer Society.

Bladen, in making the announcement in Baltimore, stated Walsh accepted the chairmanship following his selection by Howard M. Smith, division commercial manager of the C. and P. Telephone Company of Baltimore City and formerly C. and P. manager in Cumberland, who is serving as division chairman of the counties for this year's fund raising campaign.

"Allegany County is one of the three in Maryland not having a chapter of the Maryland Division," Bladen said, "and no formal fund-raising campaign has been conducted here since 1949, when Mr. Smith served as campaign chairman.

"However, a number of residents of Cumberland and vicinity have made memorial donations from time to time, and one or two token drives were held since 1950. During this time Maryland Division has furnished direct financial aid to cancer patients in the county, and has also supplied surgical dressing material to volunteer groups.

"We have, in fact, received inquiries from time to time regarding the procedure to be followed in the organizing of a chapter, and we feel there is sufficient interest in our program to justify a campaign.

"Mr. Walsh has already contacted a number of union, industrial, business and professional leaders of the county, and, without exception, they have assured him of their cooperation. He will make announcements within the next two weeks of various chairmen and the plans for a campaign office. The actual campaign will start early in April."

Walsh was born in Cumberland on March 18, 1930. He was graduated from the College of Arts and Sciences of Georgetown University with a bachelor of arts degree in 1951, and in 1954 received his bachelor of law degree from the School of Law of the University of Maryland. He then served one year as law clerk to Circuit Judge Morris A. Soper of the United States Court of Appeals of the Fourth Circuit.

Last August he was married to Miss Louise G. McMullen, of Cumberland, and since September has been engaged in the practice of law here with his father, William C. Walsh, former attorney general of Maryland. He is an associate in the law firm of Miles, Walsh and Stockbridge. He is a member of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce and the Knights of Columbus. He has been a member of the Maryland National Guard the past seven and a half years.

Scholarship Tests Slated

Competitive examinations for state senatorial scholarships to institutions of higher learning will be given March 24 for Allegany County students.

Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of Allegany County schools, said the examinations will begin at 10 a. m. in the Board of Education Building, 108 Washington Street.

The scholarships available for Allegany County seniors are:

Western Maryland College, one male senatorial scholarship.

University of Maryland, one boy or male or female senatorial scholarship.

St. John's College, Annapolis, one male or female tuition scholarship.

Maryland Institute of Art, Baltimore, one scholarship for a male or female student in the day, night or Saturday school.

John Hopkins University, one engineering scholarship for the county, with two statewide engineering and eight arts and sciences scholarship available.

Rizer added that for the first time there will be a scholarship available to Peabody Conservatory of Music.

Announcements of the examinations scheduled March 24 are being made in all schools, he added.

Judge, Probe Target, Takes "Vacation"

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP) — A judge took an indefinite leave of absence from the bench today while his casual ignoring of 17 traffic tickets is under investigation.

Municipal Court Justice Carson DeWitt Baker said he wanted to protect his interests. The Appellate Division investigation could cost him his $15,000-a-year job.

He will continue to draw his salary during his leave.

Earlier this week, Baker, a Negro, paid $135 in fines for 17 tickets he ignored for many months.

GE Borrows To Meet Income Tax Payment

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—Worried about being able to meet your income tax? Relax! The deadline for individual income taxes is another month away, April 15. The corporate deadline was today.

General Electric Co., world's biggest manufacturer of electrical equipment, borrowed 100 million dollars today from commercial banking sources.

Explained John D. Lockton, treasurer: "We needed the loan to meet our March 15 federal income tax payment."

Odum Indicted By Federal Jury In Buffalo, N. Y.

A 60-year-old New Yorker, held here for a considerable length of time for questioning in connection with a $29,000 safecracking job in LaVale several years ago, was indicted Wednesday in Buffalo, N. Y., by a federal grand jury on a charge of swindling.

Harold P. Odum is one of five men indicted for allegedly swindling a wealthy Rochester, N. Y., industrialist of more than $400,000 by getting him to believe he would net millions in patent royalties.

Accused of mail fraud and conspiracy along with Odum were Patrick H. Lennon, 50, and Leo F. Hampton, 74, both of New York City; George V. Arlen, 56, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and Aldus H. Turner, 62, Hollywood, Fla.

The victim was August J. Cunningham, 77, who claimed he paid the defendants $423,771 over a five-year period.

Hampton was arraigned before Judge Harold P. Burke and pleaded guilty to four counts of the 18-count indictment. He will be sentenced March 26 in Rochester in Federal Court when the four others will be arraigned.

Odum and James Golden, 45, also of New York State, were arrested by the FBI in Baltimore on a warrant obtained by Allegany County authorities in connection with the robbery of $29,000 from the home of Lee Green in LaVale in October of 1949.

After being detained for several weeks, Odum and Golden were released on grounds of "insufficient evidence." Odum was immediately picked up by a federal postal inspector from Albany, N. Y., and the inspector assigned to this area, Richard M. Johnson.

A deed recorded at the office of the clerk of Circuit Court yesterday shows the transfer of a property on Dan's Rock Mountain from The Western Maryland Broadcasting Company to Virgil H. and Laura R. Ruppenthal.

Ruppenthal was the original owner of the property and sold it to the broadcasting firm in 1952. It was reported at that time that the firm intended to use the property for a television station facility.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

If some cartoonist can find a way to add a "fifty-mission look" to his traditional drawing of a senator's hat, I'll be the first to volunteer to be caricatured.

The expression "fifty-mission look" first came into widespread usage to describe the look of airmen's headgear after it had been worn on numerous flights, but in a broader sense, the phrase could now be applied quite aptly to the general appearance of several of us in the Maryland delegation to Congress.

As veterans of almost continuous hassles surrounding the Free State's airfields, we are indeed developing a sort of battle-worn look of our own. But we still intend to win.

Three Airports

Our longest mission has been the six-year task of obtaining adequate service for Friendship International Airport.

More recently, another squabble developed surrounding the proposed site for an airfield for the United States Naval Academy.

And almost as if our aviation problems were determined to follow the superstition that troubles come in threes, the old College Park airport got into the act by being mentioned as a possible location for the new Smithsonian air museum.

The Friendship controversy, which has lasted the longest, is also the most bitter.

The field is one of the seven installations in the entire nation where large, jet airliners can be accommodated safely. It is ready and willing to take its rightful place as an international air-hub for the Baltimore-Washington area, and it is being eyed eagerly as a posible major terminal by numerous far-sighted airlines.

Burke Costly And Unsafe

Despite Friendship's numerous advantages, however, a certain clique in the executive department seems determined to overlook it in favor of a plan to construct a $50,000,000 air facility at Burke, Va.

The main argument advanced by the Burke advocates is that an airport there would save 15 to 20 minutes of ground-travel time to and from the Capital.

I, for one, refuse to admit that a quarter of an hour can justify a multi-million dollar expenditure for an airfield which would only add to the crowded traffic already in the skies over Washington.

In the Naval Academy case, the disagreement revolves around the selection of a site for the proposed new field.

The Navy Department has announced that it would like to build at Davidsonville, but residents of the region have protested that even if such construction is necessary, it should be done elsewhere.

I have supported the position of the Anne Arundel countians, and I feel that another survey should be made to find a suitable site.

A Housing Survey To Study Trends

In an effort to determine future housing needs in the United States, Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole has asked Congress to appropriate $175,000 for a survey. The purpose would be to ascertain the financial status of persons who have bought homes in the past six months and to arrive at an approximate figure of those who do not own their homes but intend to buy in the near future.

If these two questions can be answered with reasonable accuracy, Mr. Cole feels his department can come up with a fair estimate of housing needs and thus avert serious economic problems that could arise with an over-abundance of new homes.

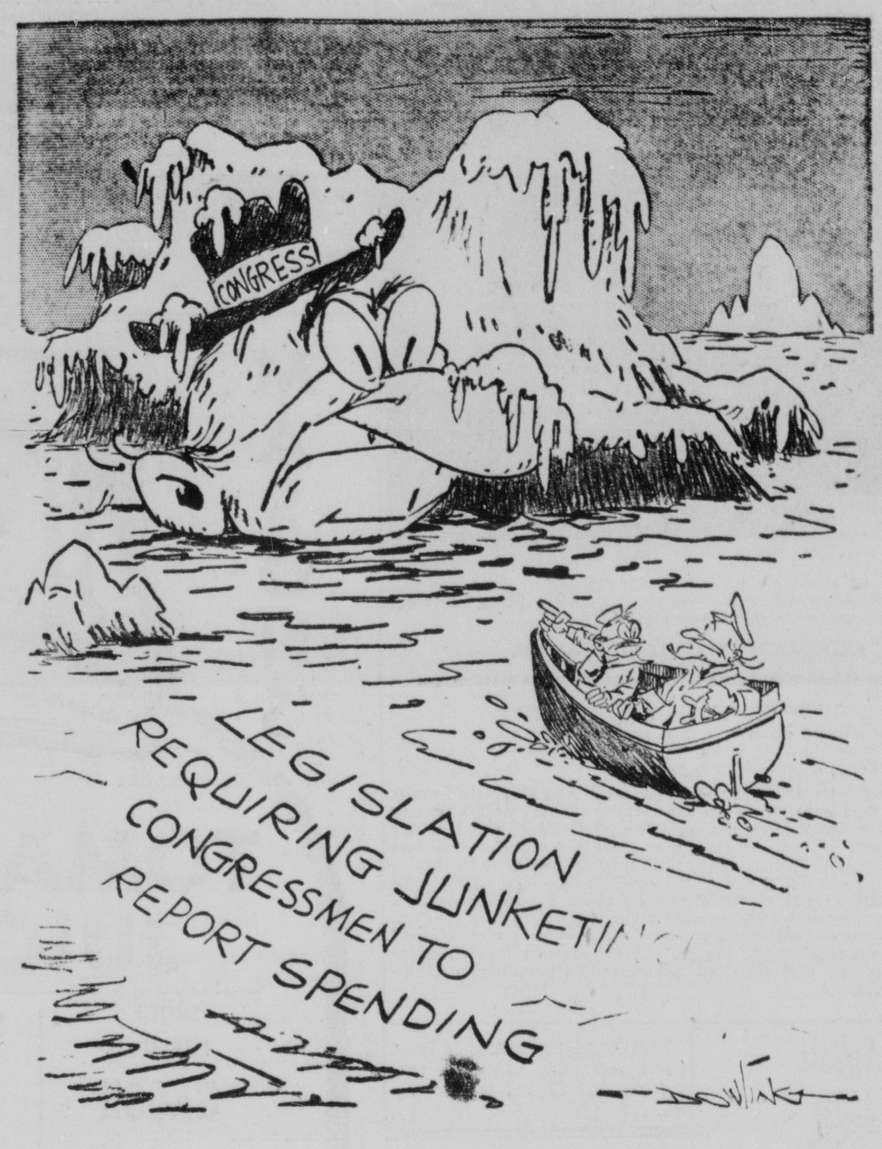
Like other housing authorities, Mr. Cole feels there could be a major economic setback if the number of new homes should suddenly surpass the demand. Therefore, he wants the Census Bureau to conduct this survey semi-annually, with a sampling of the population in all sections of the U. S. In addition to providing a national picture, this research would turn up any areas which are having particular trouble.

With the estimates of new housing to be started this year ranging from 1.1 million units to 1.3 million, Assistant Housing Administrator M. Carter McFarland points out:

"One of the critical considerations in determining whether or not we can sustain the present levels of housing production within the next four or five years is what the potential demand is and what the liquid assets are of families who plan to buy houses. Many people believe that we are getting a little thin in the basic demand for houses."

If housing construction is catching up with demand, Congress obviously should know about the development. Inasmuch as present statistics authorities have to work with are based on past performances, the requested appropriation to discover future trends seems minute compared to the problems it may avert.

"Iceberg Dead Ahead"



These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Females Interrupt

Someone got a portable television machine and during the period that I am a shut-in, it is suggested that I look at it. So to please those who want to make life on 1,500 calories cheerful, I do have a look and it is most distressing because the advertisements are so numerous and so dumb. Apparently, it is difficult to make television pay and therefore the advertisements are more numerous than on radio. Certainly they interfere more with the sequence of what one is looking at, particularly if it is a good murder. Plop right in the middle comes a female who is trying to sell something that I shall undoubtedly never buy but maybe somebody else will.

It seemed to me on the third or fourth day of looking at television that the commercials consumed more time and more of my energy than was warranted and interfered with the entertainment and I returned to a book which, good or bad, did not have any female saleswomen, all talking the same way, with the same intonations, and all selling things that certainly no man would want like stuff to keep the hair in place. It used to be rumored that there were such men in the State Department but Scott McLeod is supposed to have got rid of them. Put it as you will, I do not thrill to these females. When I want to see a murder, let me have it without being interrupted by stuff to make my skin soft or to take care of my viscera.

Presumably this is a big problem because if privately-owned television is to continue, it must depend upon excessive advertising and also it must have every program interrupted several times. It would seem that the cost of a program is so high that they have to have two or three sponsors. All of a sudden, I am told to drink beer, but beer was never my drink. Personally, I prefer wine and principally a distinguished Bordeaux.

I am concentrating on a story. Not a bad story, at that. The murderer is played very well but I am sure that virtue will triumph in the end. But no! I suddenly come out of my trance. I am being interested in beer—a dry beer, I am told. Who wants a dry beer? If I drink at all, I want my drink wet—very wet. This is no play on words; it is a response to stupid advertising.

When an advertisement runs in a newspaper, the reader is never startled by a jingle sung in dissonance. The advantage to the advertiser is that nobody asks why they sing out of tune or why their voices are so queer, or who wrote the text of a diverting jingle. It is possible to read the advertisement without diversion. There is a coffee whose jingle I like, but it has not influenced me to drink the coffee because all I can think about when I hear it is that the lady singer would do well in a church choir. Then I forget the name of the coffee.

The trouble with hucksters is that once they get into a pattern, they cannot get out of it. When the jingles started, they were novel and even interesting, but by now we have had them and they have become tiresome and repetitious.

Another fault I find with television is that it is absorbing like adolescent love. You have to go steady with the darn thing. For instance, I can listen to radio and read something, but with television it is different. If you look at it, you must concentrate. So the hours fly. Maybe there are millions of people who have a yearning for what is called passing the time. For them, this machine is just the right thing. They can use up hours to little advantage but pleasantly and go to bed with a clear conscience because they have not wasted their time in idle conversation as to whether Nixon will or should be the next vice president, as futile a discussion as whether the Communist 20th Congress changed anything.

Somehow, I have missed any intellectual programs. They must come at hours when I am not available. I shall search some out to discover how a profound discussion is interrupted by a female selling a mattress.

GOP Renomination Of Nixon Viewed As Assured

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Renomination of Vice President Nixon as the running mate of President Eisenhower now is assured.

Whatever doubts may have been placed in the mind of the President by critics of the vice president now have been removed by the forthright statement in his favor issued by Mr. Eisenhower himself and by the spontaneous demonstration of confidence which the voters in the New Hampshire primary gave Mr. Nixon.

The fact that more than 22,000 persons took the trouble to write in the name of Vice President Nixon in the Republican primaries in New Hampshire—which equaled approximately the total vote cast on the same day for Senator Kefauver for president in the Democratic primaries after he had conducted a personal campaign in that state—is a sign that the Republican voters feel deeply and emotionally about keeping the ticket as it was in 1952. The vote for Mr. Nixon was a reflection of the deep-seated anti-radical trend in America.

Ike Sensed Trend

Mr. Eisenhower has sensed this trend. The president is a fair-minded man. He listens to criticism and weighs both sides carefully. Sometimes he purposely argues the case from the standpoint of an opponent or critic and then reaches his conclusion.

Mr. Eisenhower has always liked the vice president. He regards him as an able servant of the public interest. He feels that no vice president in history has been as thoroughly familiarized with the policies of the chief executive concurrently in office or as well trained to take over the duties of the presidential office if an emergency occurred.

But Mr. Eisenhower has been puzzled by the opposition to Mr. Nixon which he has heard or read about. Not being a political expert himself, the President has been anxious to find out what the opposition to Mr. Nixon amounted to. He now has found out that it comes mostly from Democratic partisans.

For the last seven days the mail at the White House has indicated to the President that an overwhelming number of Republicans and independents felt that Mr. Nixon would again make a good candidate for vice president.

Unqualified Endorsement

When Mr. Eisenhower sat down on Tuesday of this week to talk things over with Mr. Nixon, neither one knew what the New Hampshire primary would show Wednesday morning. But the President told the vice president that, at the Wednesday press conference, he would clear away any doubt about what he meant last week concerning his suggestion that Mr. Nixon "chart his own course."

Mr. Nixon told the President that he would be glad to let him do the charting and that he would abide by his wishes. Mr. Eisenhower decided then and there that, while he shouldn't dictate to the Republican National Convention the nominees for president and vice president, he was quite willing to let it be known publicly now that he would be glad to have Mr. Nixon as his running mate.

In politics this is an unqualified endorsement. It is the nod to the politicians that the vice presidency is to go to Mr. Nixon unless some unforseen accident of fate changes the picture between now and next August, when the national convention is assembled. It means too, that, if anything did happen to Mr. Eisenhower, the presidential nomination would go to Mr. Nixon, especially since he would under such circumstances be serving as president.

It's an unwritten rule that the man in the White House may, if he so desires, greatly influence the selections by the nominating convention of his own party.

There has been much talk about the vice presidency in the abstract sense. It has been argued on the radio and in many articles in the press that the two major parties should each name a first-rate vice president—as if that wouldn't happen in both cases this time. But actually the Republicans will have a first-rate vice-presidential nominee in Mr. Nixon, and the real problem will be how to find a first-rate presidential nominee as well as vice-presidential nominee for the Democrats. Personalities are important but issues are far more powerful. None of the Democratic spokesmen has crystallized the issues of an effectvie opposition.

Disapproval Of Truman Policies

President Eisenhower's personal popularity is a Republican asset but it didn't elect him in 1952. What elected him then was the nation's disapproval of the Truman policies. As for 1956, it will not be the president's or the vice president's popularity, respectively, which will bring victory, but the approval by the country of the administration's policies and a desire to see them continued.

The Republicans will have to fight hard to win. There are many obstacles to overcome. Mr. Eisenhower this week has overcome one of the biggest—party dissension. By his unequivocal endorsement of Mr. Nixon, he has done more to restore party harmony than anything a practical politician could have achieved.

What Mr. Eisenhower needs most of all now is to have his public policies expounded effectively. Even the Republicans who will vote for him do not necessarily endorse all his acts. There is no such thing as a 100 per cent record for any president. Differences will always develop on highly controversial issues. But the voter this time will have to decide whether, all things considered, the "dynamic conservatism" which has produced economic prosperity and the common-sense leadership in international affairs which has maintained peace are to be upset now for an era of experimentalism and fundamental change in public policy.

Whooping Cough Is Steeped In Old Wives' Tales

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

If folklore is a product of slow growth, whooping cough must be an ancient disease. The condition is steeped in old wives' tales, freak remedies, preventive measures, and terminology. Our term stems from the characteristic whoop prone to accompany severe cases.

As the infection progresses, the victim bark 10 to 15 times in a row and can hardly catch his breath in between. The exertion makes him breathless and as he gasps for air, the typical whooping sound ensues.

The old-timers were concerned chiefly with the labored breathing associated with the paroxysms because they named the malady chincough or kinkcough, meaning panting. The next generation was more impressed with the explosive barks and called it hooping cough. Somewhere along the line the "w" was added; historians are vague about this.

The famous Sydenham named the disease pertussis. There is no need now for folklore in preventing and treating whooping cough because our protective vaccine works well. Should the disease develop in the unvaccinated, we have enough antibiotics and cough serums to control symptoms.

But the situation was different a century ago. Mortality was high and parents were willing to try anything to save the child's life. A change of air, good or bad, was said to be effective and the sick youngster was taken to the top of a hill or mountain or to the gas house. Others were exposed to the fumes of boiling tar or vinegar. Now and then the child was put in a sheep pen to inhale the animals' aroma.

The family goat sometimes was brought into the sickroom; the pet reeked to high heaven, even though its diet was rich in chlorophyll. Another plan was to tie a dead mouse, ferret, frog, or caterpiller around the neck of the coughing youngster. The rationale was simple: whooping cough was transferred to the animals which were buried and the disease was interred with them.

Many of these customs were in use until fairly recently. In Norfolk, England, as late as 1929, the parents of whooping cough victims held the head of a small frog in the child's mouth and let the creature hop away. When the frog croaked, the remedy was considered specific.

In Devonshire, a hair from the head of an ailing youngster was sandwiched between slices of bread and given to a dog to eat. Cure occurred when the dog coughed, which it did after the hair tickled the palate. In Cornwell, eating a slice of bread from the home of any married couple named John and Joan was considered a miracle remedy.

TOMORROW: Acne can be controlled.

PSORIASIS

E. C. writes: My 15-year-old daughter has psoriasis and it is getting worse. Would diet help?

REPLY

A low fat diet usually is recommended but other remedies are more successful. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on psoriasis.

LIVER BUTTONS

T. W. writes: What can you tell me about an operation in which glass buttons are inserted into the abdominal cavity to cause water to drain?

REPLY

These buttons act as a drain which allows fluid in the abdominal cavity to pass into the abdominal wall. The procedure is not always effective because the abdominal wall may not absorb the fluid as fast as it is manufactured.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

British Seek Author Of Communist Code Letter Mailed From Louisville

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON

The British Secret Service has launched an urgent investigation of the entire British embassy staff in Cairo in an effort to track down a Russian agent believed to have been collaborating with one of the two British spies, Donald MacLean, who's now behind the Iron Curtain.

The investigation came about as the result of a coded letter from Louisville, Ky., that slipped out of a book in the Embassy library.

The incident is taken so seriously that American intelligence agents have been brought into the case.

What happened was that the British librarian, a girl, and an American visitor in Cairo discovered the strange letter in a copy of one of Lord Cromer's books. The letter fell out when the book was opened for checking some reference material late last November.

The letter, sent from Louisville, was dated June 1951, and is believed to have been placed in the book by an agent to be picked up from the book by another agent. The letter read in part:

"As I am writing, the news of Donald's disappearance is coming over the air . . . He must be given a longer breakdown period in the future . . . Ten days is a long time to howl . . . Donald is very cautious about David's replacement chap and hasn't decided what he is like . . . Am sending over for those who understand Runyonese a lot about guys and dolls . . . Ever hear about a British consular man named Tyrrell? . . . I bought two shirts and some towels off him in a Cincinnati store."

American agents believe the letter was a coded message between two Communist agents reporting on MacLean. They also believe there have been serious leaks in the British Embassy.

Every book in the library has now been pulled down and searched to see if any more letters can be found. The FBI has been involved in the check, and efforts have been made to locate the person who mailed the letter from Louisville. This, however, is like looking for a needle in a haystack.

Nixon Labor Troubles

The Nixon family won the battle, but may have lost the war, as far as union organization of the Nixon family drive-in, market, bakery, etc., are concerned.

The vice president's family recently have been experiencing labor problems in their now rather ramified collection of restaurants, markets, etc., at Whittier, Calif. This has now grown from a country store where the elder Nixon worked with the vice president's brother, Don, to be quite an establishment employing 164 people.

As a result, various AFL-CIO unions have been trying to organize the place, including the Butchers, Bakers, Retail Clerks, and the Joint Board of Restaurant Employes. However, the Nixons claim a company union, "The Independent Employes of Southern California," with headquarters listed at the Nixon establishment at Whittier.

Finally, an election was held last week to decide the labor fate of the Nixon coffee shop, bakery, locker plant, drive-in, restaurant, and market. Though past company union meetings had been poorly attended—usually about 10 or 12—a total of 82 turned out to vote for the union. The AFL-CIO turned out 45.

This may be good for the Nixon family, but the long-run political results may not be so good for the Nixon boy who lives in Washington.

Stingiest Senator

Delightful Sen. Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island is the oldest man in Congress, one of the weathiest, also has the reputation of being one of the stingiest. The latter isn't true, but results from the fact that Green walks to work or sometimes takes the streetcar. Actually, he walks because he likes the exercise.

Anyway, the reputation for stinginess is abroad, whether deserved or undeserved, and his young colleague from Massachusetts, Sen. Jack Kennedy, isn't doing much to improve it. Kennedy is jokingly telling how Green, an ardent Democrat, got out of a taxi in front of the Senate Office Building after telling the taxi driver what a great man Eisenhower was.

"We've got to re-elect the Republicans," said ardent Democrat Green, taking the exact change—no tip—out of his purse. "Remember, vote for Eisenhower."

The taxi driver glowered and drove off cursing the Republicans.

Latin Press Censorship

Some of the American editorial writers who stage a crusade over suppression of La Prensa in Argentina have been quiet over a much worse situation in Colombia where newspaper after newspaper has closed by Colombian President Gustavo Rojas Pinilla.

Here is the roll call of his suppressed papers:

El Tiempo—Foremost newspaper in Colombia owned by ex-President Santos has been closed for approximately nine months after it criticized President Rojas.

La Republica—Owned by ex-President Ospina Perez, was closed after it wrote an editorial criticizing the police and army for forcing audiences to stay at movie theaters and watch official newsreels.

El Espectador and Diario Grafico—Were suddenly given fictitious fines of 750,000 and 85,000 pesos, respectively, on trumped-up charges of back income taxes.

El Colombiano of Medellin was shut down after publishing 55 years, a long time in Colombia.

Meanwhile, Dr. Alberto Lleras, former secretary general of the Pan American Union in Washington, has given a real challenge to President Rojas by publishing a series of articles criticizing abuses of the nation's tax money and charging that the president took a 250,000-peso advance on his salary. Dr. Lleras was immediately shot at five times at the country club, but so far has survived.

Meanwhile, the reason for the resignation of another courageous Colombian, Dr. Eduardo Zuleta Angel, ex-Colombian ambassador in Washington, has become clear.

Two hundred prominent ladies in Bogota endeavored to call on President Rojas at the Presidential Palace to protest the suppression of civil liberties. They were stopped before they got to the palace and drenched with fire houses. Among the ladies was the mother of Ambassador Zuleta.

He didn't like having his mother drenched by the man he served in Washington, and resigned.

Inside Washington

By Central Press

WASHINGTON — While President Eisenhower has made it plain to the American people that he won't make his second term bid a barnstorming campaign, he is expected to make a few carefully selected trips to GOP trouble spots.

Television appearances will carry the major burden of his own appeal to the voters but his personal help will be needed in several states where key senatorial contests are in sight.

Visits to Ohio and Kentucky will probably be arranged, particularly to the Blue Grass state, where Thruston Morton, the State Department's congressional liaison troubleshooter, is expected to be the GOP candidate. In Ohio, Senator George Gender faces a stiff contest to retain his seat for the Republicans.

The President himself gave a hint of his willingness to take to the hustings to some extent. In his momentous news conference announcing he would run. Mr. Eisenhower stressed the need of having a Republican Congress if he is re-elected.

Flexible Campaign

Whether or not Vice President Richard M. Nixon is President Eisenhower's running mate this fall, Democrats will make him the central figure in their campaign against the Republicans.

Their strategy is extremely flexible: if Nixon does run, they'll attack him. If he doesn't, they'll charge that he was "dumped" by the administration and that this proves even Mr. Eisenhower couldn't stomach" him.

While most political observers here feel that Nixon will be the candidate next fall, they are not absolutely convinced. The most recent word from Republican headquarters is that he can have the vice presidential spot "if he wants it."

The implication is that he might not. In this connection, word is being seeped out that Nixon might prefer some other job in the Eisenhower administration — so he could bide his time out of the political limelight waiting for 1960 when he could become the GOP presidential nominee.

Benson Out

While there have been denials in all quarters, the rumor persists around the capital that Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson may be out of office before election time.

Many observers believe that if Benson is forced to resign by political pressure from GOP farm belt lawmakers and others, the next secretary of agriculture will be Ancher Nelson, the administrator of the Rural Electrification administration.

Nelson, a former lieutenant governor of Minnesota, is a popular man with farmers and many politicians who are now yelling for Benson's scalp. However, there have been reports—denied by Nelson—that he will run for the Monnesota governorship.

Teen-age Grapevine

The Pentagon has developed a theory that teen-age youths never really latch onto the facts of life until they hear them from people their own age.

Their case in point: despite speeches by high officials, debates in Congress, articles in newspapers and radio advertisements, teen-agers were completely cold to the Army's six-month reserve training program.

However, once a few hundred youths had been dragooned into taking the training and began writing letters to their friends, the interest picked up. Most of the interest was traced back to the letters.

Latest predictions are that, dispite its dismal start last November, the training program will probably be successful on a voluntary basis. Volunteering is at a rate of 1,300 a week and is gradually easing upward. The goal of the program was 90,000 trainees a year. A rate of 1,300 a week would produce about 67,000.

The Army's program to "pre-release" about 100,000 draftees, giving them six months off active duty in exchange for a three-year civilian reserve commitment, will probably be abandoned as a result of the good rate.

You're Telling Me!

Just released figures by the Japanese Metropolitan Census Bureau gives Tokyo a population of 8,070,001. That guy on the end looks mighty lonesome.

A western dude ranch advertised for cowboys who can sing and play a guitar. Many a real cowpoke wouldn't qualify — since all he knows is how to ride a horse and use a lasso expertly.

The U. S. will have some 13 million college-age males by the year 1973, the Census Bureau predicts. Zadok Dumkopf has a prediction too — that in 1973 there'll still be football coaches complaining of the scarcity of gridiron material.

A Housing Survey To Study Trends

In an effort to determine future housing needs in the United States, Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole has asked Congress to appropriate $175,000 for a survey. The purpose would be to ascertain the financial status of persons who have bought homes in the past six months and to arrive at an approximate figure of those who do not own their homes but intend to buy in the near future.

If these two questions can be answered with reasonable accuracy, Mr. Cole feels his department can come up with a fair estimate of housing needs and thus avert serious economic problems that could arise with an over-abundance of new homes.

Like other housing authorities, Mr. Cole feels there could be a major economic setback if the number of new homes should suddenly surpass the demand. Therefore, he wants the Census Bureau to conduct this survey semi-annually, with a sampling of the population in all sections of the U. S. In addition to providing a national picture, this research would turn up any areas which are having particular trouble.

With the estimates of new housing to be started this year ranging from 1.1 million units to 1.3 million, Assistant Housing Administrator M. Carter McFarland points out:

"One of the critical considerations in determining whether or not we can sustain the present levels of housing production within the next four or five years is what the potential demand is and what the liquid assets are of families who plan to buy houses. Many people believe that we are getting a little thin in the basic demand for houses."

If housing construction is catching up with demand, Congress obviously should know about the development. Inasmuch as present statistics authorities have to work with are based on past performances, the requested appropriation to discover future trends seems minute compared to the problems it may avert.

These Days

The Females Interrupt

Someone got a portable television machine and during the period that I am a shut-in, it is suggested that I look at it. So to please those who want to make life on 1,500 calories cheerful, I do have a look and it is most distressing because the advertisements are so numerous and so dumb. Apparently, it is difficult to make television pay and therefore the advertisements are more numerous than on radio. Certainly they interfere more with the sequence of what one is looking at, particularly if it is a good murder. Plop right in the middle comes a female who is trying to sell something that I shall undoubtedly never buy but maybe somebody else will.

It seemed to me on the third or fourth day of looking at television that the commercials consumed more time and more of my energy than was warranted and interfered with the entertainment and I returned to a book which, good or bad, did not have any female saleswomen, all talking the same way, with the same intonations, and all selling things that certainly no man would want like stuff to keep the hair in place. It used to be rumored that there were such men in the State Department but Scott McLeod is supposed to have got rid of them. Put it as you will, I do not thrill to these females. When I want to see a murder, let me have it without being interrupted by stuff to make my skin soft or to take care of my viscera.

Presumably this is a big problem because if privately-owned television is to continue, it must depend upon excessive advertising and also it must have every program interrupted several times. It would seem that the cost of a program is so high that they have to have two or three sponsors. All of a sudden, I am told to drink beer, but beer was never my drink. Personally, I prefer wine and principally a distinguished Bordeaux.

I am concentrating on a story. Not a bad story, at that. The murderer is played very well but I am sure that virtue will triumph in the end. But no! I suddenly come out of my trance. I am being interested in beer—a dry beer, I am told. Who wants a dry beer? If I drink at all, I want my drink wet—very wet. This is no play on words; it is a response to stupid advertising.

When an advertisement runs in a newspaper, the reader is never startled by a jingle sung in dissonance. The advantage to the advertiser is that nobody asks why they sing out of tune or why their voices are so queer, or who wrote the text of a diverting jingle. It is possible to read the advertisement without diversion. There is a coffee whose jingle I like, but it has not influenced me to drink the coffee because all I can think about when I hear it is that the lady singer would do well in a church choir. Then I forget the name of the coffee.

The trouble with hucksters is that once they get into a pattern, they cannot get out of it. When the jingles started, they were novel and even interesting, but by now we have had them and they have become tiresome and repetitious.

Another fault I find with television is that it is absorbing like adolescent love. You have to go steady with the darn thing. For instance, I can listen to radio and read something, but with television it is different. If you look at it, you must concentrate. So the hours fly. Maybe there are millions of people who have a yearning for what is called passing the time. For them, this machine is just the right thing. They can use up hours to little advantage but pleasantly and go to bed with a clear conscience because they have not wasted their time in idle conversation as to whether Nixon will or should be the next vice president, as futile a discussion as whether the Communist 20th Congress changed anything.

Somehow, I have missed any intellectual programs. They must come at hours when I am not available. I shall search some out to discover how a profound discussion is interrupted by a female selling a mattress.

The family goat sometimes was brought into the sickroom; the pet reeked to high heaven, even though its diet was rich in chlorophyll. Another plan was to tie a dead mouse, ferret, frog, or caterpiller around the neck of the coughing youngster. The rationale was simple: whooping cough was transferred to the animals which were buried and the disease was interred with them.

Many of these customs were in use until fairly recently. In Norfolk, England, as late as 1929, the parents of whooping cough victims held the head of a small frog in the child's mouth and let the creature hop away. When the frog croaked, the remedy was considered specific.

In Devonshire, a hair from the head of an ailing youngster was sandwiched between slices of bread and given to a dog to eat. Cure occurred when the dog coughed, which it did after the hair tickled the palate. In Cornwell, eating a slice of bread from the home of any married couple named John and Joan was considered a miracle remedy.

PSORIASIS

E. C. writes: My 15-year-old daughter has psoriasis and it is getting worse. Would diet help?

REPLY

A low fat diet usually is recommended but other remedies are more successful. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on psoriasis.

LIVER BUTTONS

T. W. writes: What can you tell me about an operation in which glass buttons are inserted into the abdominal cavity to cause water to drain?

REPLY

These buttons act as a drain which allows fluid in the abdominal cavity to pass into the abdominal wall. The procedure is not always effective because the abdominal wall may not absorb the fluid as fast as it is manufactured.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Paul Steiner tells about the Los Angeles lady driver who was flagged by an indignant traffic cop. "Don't you know what the amber light means?" he thundered. "Sure," she replied. "It means speed up, the red light's coming!"

Superintendent of a telephone exchange got a strange request from an elderly subscriber the other day. "My phone cord is too long; it gets all tangled up," she explained. "Can't you please pull it back a little at your end?"

Ad in a Providence newspaper: "For sale cheap: my son's collection of be-bop and rock-and-roll records. If a boy's voice answers the phone, hang up and call later."

British Seek Author Of Communist Code Letter Mailed From Louisville

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON

The British Secret Service has launched an urgent investigation of the entire British embassy staff in Cairo in an effort to track down a Russian agent believed to have been collaborating with one of the two British spies, Donald MacLean, who's now behind the Iron Curtain.

The investigation came about as the result of a coded letter from Louisville, Ky., that slipped out of a book in the Embassy library.

The incident is taken so seriously that American intelligence agents have been brought into the case.

What happened was that the British librarian, a girl, and an American visitor in Cairo discovered the strange letter in a copy of one of Lord Cromer's books. The letter fell out when the book was opened for checking some reference material late last November.

The letter, sent from Louisville, was dated June 1951, and is believed to have been placed in the book by an agent to be picked up from the book by another agent. The letter read in part:

"As I am writing, the news of Donald's disappearance is coming over the air . . . He must be given a longer breakdown period in the future . . . Ten days is a long time to howl . . . Donald is very cautious about David's replacement chap and hasn't decided what he is like . . . Am sending over for those who understand Runyonese a lot about guys and dolls . . . Ever hear about a British consular man named Tyrrell? . . . I bought two shirts and some towels off him in a Cincinnati store."

American agents believe the letter was a coded message between two Communist agents reporting on MacLean. They also believe there have been serious leaks in the British Embassy.

Every book in the library has now been pulled down and searched to see if any more letters can be found. The FBI has been involved in the check, and efforts have been made to locate the person who mailed the letter from Louisville. This, however, is like looking for a needle in a haystack.

Nixon Labor Troubles

The Nixon family won the battle, but may have lost the war, as far as union organization of the Nixon family drive-in, market, bakery, etc., are concerned.

The vice president's family recently have been experiencing labor problems in their now rather ramified collection of restaurants, markets, etc., at Whittier, Calif. This has now grown from a country store where the elder Nixon worked with the vice president's brother, Don, to be quite an establishment employing 164 people.

As a result, various AFL-CIO unions have been trying to organize the place, including the Butchers, Bakers, Retail Clerks, and the Joint Board of Restaurant Employes. However, the Nixons claim a company union, "The Independent Employes of Southern California," with headquarters listed at the Nixon establishment at Whittier.

Finally, an election was held last week to decide the labor fate of the Nixon coffee shop, bakery, locker plant, drive-in, restaurant, and market. Though past company union meetings had been poorly attended—usually about 10 or 12—a total of 82 turned out to vote for the union. The AFL-CIO turned out 45.

This may be good for the Nixon family, but the long-run political results may not be so good for the Nixon boy who lives in Washington.

Stingiest Senator

Delightful Sen. Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island is the oldest man in Congress, one of the weathiest, also has the reputation of being one of the stingiest. The latter isn't true, but results from the fact that Green walks to work or sometimes takes the streetcar. Actually, he walks because he likes the exercise.

Anyway, the reputation for stinginess is abroad, whether deserved or undeserved, and his young colleague from Massachusetts, Sen. Jack Kennedy, isn't doing much to improve it. Kennedy is jokingly telling how Green, an ardent Democrat, got out of a taxi in front of the Senate Office Building after telling the taxi driver what a great man Eisenhower was.

"We've got to re-elect the Republicans," said ardent Democrat Green, taking the exact change—no tip—out of his purse. "Remember, vote for Eisenhower."

The taxi driver glowered and drove off cursing the Republicans.

Latin Press Censorship

Some of the American editorial writers who stage a crusade over suppression of La Prensa in Argentina have been quiet over a much worse situation in Colombia where newspaper after newspaper has closed by Colombian President Gustavo Rojas Pinilla.

Here is the roll call of his suppressed papers:

El Tiempo—Foremost newspaper in Colombia owned by ex-President Santos has been closed for approximately nine months after it criticized President Rojas.

La Republica—Owned by ex-President Ospina Perez, was closed after it wrote an editorial criticizing the police and army for forcing audiences to stay at movie theaters and watch official newsreels.

El Espectador and Diario Grafico—Were suddenly given fictitious fines of 750,000 and 85,000 pesos, respectively, on trumped-up charges of back income taxes.

El Colombiano of Medellin was shut down after publishing 55 years, a long time in Colombia.

Meanwhile, Dr. Alberto Lleras, former secretary general of the Pan American Union in Washington, has given a real challenge to President Rojas by publishing a series of articles criticizing abuses of the nation's tax money and charging that the president took a 250,000-peso advance on his salary. Dr. Lleras was immediately shot at five times at the country club, but so far has survived.

Meanwhile, the reason for the resignation of another courageous Colombian, Dr. Eduardo Zuleta Angel, ex-Colombian ambassador in Washington, has become clear.

Two hundred prominent ladies in Bogota endeavored to call on President Rojas at the Presidential Palace to protest the suppression of civil liberties. They were stopped before they got to the palace and drenched with fire houses. Among the ladies was the mother of Ambassador Zuleta.

He didn't like having his mother drenched by the man he served in Washington, and resigned.

Inside Washington

By Central Press

WASHINGTON — While President Eisenhower has made it plain to the American people that he won't make his second term bid a barnstorming campaign, he is expected to make a few carefully selected trips to GOP trouble spots.

Television appearances will carry the major burden of his own appeal to the voters but his personal help will be needed in several states where key senatorial contests are in sight.

Visits to Ohio and Kentucky will probably be arranged, particularly to the Blue Grass state, where Thruston Morton, the State Department's congressional liaison troubleshooter, is expected to be the GOP candidate. In Ohio, Senator George Gender faces a stiff contest to retain his seat for the Republicans.

The President himself gave a hint of his willingness to take to the hustings to some extent. In his momentous news conference announcing he would run. Mr. Eisenhower stressed the need of having a Republican Congress if he is re-elected.

Flexible Campaign

Whether or not Vice President Richard M. Nixon is President Eisenhower's running mate this fall, Democrats will make him the central figure in their campaign against the Republicans.

Their strategy is extremely flexible: if Nixon does run, they'll attack him. If he doesn't, they'll charge that he was "dumped" by the administration and that this proves even Mr. Eisenhower couldn't stomach" him.

While most political observers here feel that Nixon will be the candidate next fall, they are not absolutely convinced. The most recent word from Republican headquarters is that he can have the vice presidential spot "if he wants it."

The implication is that he might not. In this connection, word is being seeped out that Nixon might prefer some other job in the Eisenhower administration — so he could bide his time out of the political limelight waiting for 1960 when he could become the GOP presidential nominee.

Benson Out

While there have been denials in all quarters, the rumor persists around the capital that Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson may be out of office before election time.

Many observers believe that if Benson is forced to resign by political pressure from GOP farm belt lawmakers and others, the next secretary of agriculture will be Ancher Nelson, the administrator of the Rural Electrification administration.

Nelson, a former lieutenant governor of Minnesota, is a popular man with farmers and many politicians who are now yelling for Benson's scalp. However, there have been reports—denied by Nelson—that he will run for the Monnesota governorship.

Teen-age Grapevine

The Pentagon has developed a theory that teen-age youths never really latch onto the facts of life until they hear them from people their own age.

Their case in point: despite speeches by high officials, debates in Congress, articles in newspapers and radio advertisements, teen-agers were completely cold to the Army's six-month reserve training program.

However, once a few hundred youths had been dragooned into taking the training and began writing letters to their friends, the interest picked up. Most of the interest was traced back to the letters.

Latest predictions are that, dispite its dismal start last November, the training program will probably be successful on a voluntary basis. Volunteering is at a rate of 1,300 a week and is gradually easing upward. The goal of the program was 90,000 trainees a year. A rate of 1,300 a week would produce about 67,000.

The Army's program to "pre-release" about 100,000 draftees, giving them six months off active duty in exchange for a three-year civilian reserve commitment, will probably be abandoned as a result of the good rate.

Just released figures by the Japanese Metropolitan Census Bureau gives Tokyo a population of 8,070,001. That guy on the end looks mighty lonesome.

A western dude ranch advertised for cowboys who can sing and play a guitar. Many a real cowpoke wouldn't qualify — since all he knows is how to ride a horse and use a lasso expertly.

The U. S. will have some 13 million college-age males by the year 1973, the Census Bureau predicts. Zadok Dumkopf has a prediction too — that in 1973 there'll still be football coaches complaining of the scarcity of gridiron material.

Mix suger, grated orange rhind and orange juice. Spread on hot buttered toast, then put under the broiler for a moment or so. Makes nice snacks for afternoon tea or after school appetites.

One way to reheat cooked rice is to add a few tablespoons of water to it and place it in a pan over boiling water. A double boiler will do.

For a new twist on an old family favorite, try serving this frankfurter and sweet kraut meal developed by test kitchens of Tee-Pak, Inc., Chicago. Mix thoroughly with one quart of sauerkraut and place mixture in individual baking dishes (serves 6). Top with a frankfurter stuffed with American cheese and a half slice of bacon. Pipe the dish with hot mashed potatoes border and place baking dishes under broiler. Broil 5 minutes or until potatoes are browned.

Coffee Flavor Tops Cake

Coffee and cake have gone together for years and there is no coincidence in a fruit-topped upside-down cake having a coffee-flavored syrup over the top of it. This is an "everybody likes" type of dessert and is just as satisfying for a party as it is for a family dinner. This special dessert has one outstanding feature — it's so convenient to make. The coffee flavor comes right from a jar of instant coffee; the cake is made from a mix, and the fruits come from a glass jar of mixed fruits.

The wide-mouth jar makes it possible to measure teaspoonfuls of instant coffee easily and to re-seal the jar as soon as the coffee has been measured. A tightly closed jar is necessary for keeping the instant coffee fresh and full-flavored. Then, too, you will always be able to tell at a glance how much coffee is in the glass jar.

COFFEE UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE

1 tablespoon instant coffee
½ cup light brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons melted butter
1 (1 lb. 14 oz.) jar fruits for salad
1 box white cake mix

Mix coffee, sugar, cinnamon together. Melt butter and pour into bottom of a 9" glass square cake pan. Sprinkle coffee-sugar mixture over the butter. Drain the fruits well. Arrange over coffee-sugar mixture. Mix the cake according to package directions. Spoon over fruit carefully. Bake according to package directions for the cake. Remove from pan as soon as cake is completely baked.

Barbecued Lamb Hash For Family

It's a new way to dress up hash! Use a barbecue sauce to give this lamb hash dish a distinctive and unique flavor.

Barbecued Lamb Hash

3 cups cooked lamb, cut in ½ to 1-inch cubes
¼ cup grated onion
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 teaspoons salt
1½ cups vinegar
½ cup water
¼ cup prepared mustard
¾ cup chili sauce
1 tablespoon brown sugar
4 medium potatoes, cooked and cut in ¾-inch cubes

Brown onion slowly in lard or drippings. Add lamb and brown lightly. Season. Make barbecue sauce as follows: Combine vinegar, water, prepared mustard, chili sauce and brown sugar. Mix well. Add barbecue sauce to lamb and onion mixture and allow to simmer for 15 minutes. Add cooked diced potatoes and heat long enough for flavors to blend, about 10 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Budget-Wise Buffet Casserole

Here's a hearty, serve-yourself casserole that's tailor-made for fall and winter get-togethers. Quick and easy to prepare, and easy on the budget, too, it's crisp corn crust adds a new flavor surprise to the tangy beef mixture beneath.

Hamburger Casserole

1 12 oz. pkg. corn muffin mix
1 egg
⅔ cup milk
¾ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
3 tablespoons shortening
1 pound ground beef
1 cup tomato sauce or gravy
¾ cup cooked peas
¾ cup whole kernel corn
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Cook onion and green pepper in shortening. When tender, stir in ground beef and brown lightly. Add tomato sauce or gravy, peas, corn, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil. Pour into 2-quart casserole. Empty contents of package of corn muffin mix into bowl; add egg and milk, and blend until dry ingredients are moistened. Spread over hamburger mixture. Bake at 375° (Mod. oven) 25 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Corn Dumplings Make Stew New!

Perk up your favorite pot stew and give it a new flavor boost with quick and easy to make corn meal dumplings. Wonderful with beef or lamb and chicken, too.

Corn Meal Dumplings

1 12 oz. pkg. Corn Muffin Mix
1 Egg

¼ Teaspoon salt

Empty contents of package into bowl; add remaining ingredients and mix well. Drop by tablespoonfuls onto top of gently boiling stew. Cover pan and simmer 15 minutes. For variety, add ¼ cup chopped parsley. Makes about 12 dumplings.

A Basic Cereal Breakfast Starts The Day Right

Start the day right with a basic cereal breakfast—and have a good morning! You'll short-change yourself in health and morale if you skip the day's most important meal.

You have starved yourself for at least 12 hours. So stick to a plan of three balanced meals a day; nutritionists recommend it as the only way to get all of the important foods you need—the vitamins, minerals, protein, and energy giving foods.

Get ¼ to ⅓ of your day's food—and calories—at breakfast time, and you'll have a happier morning. You'll be able to turn out more work, you'll be more alert, you won't tire as easily.

What is a basic breakfast? Leading doctors and dietitians recommend a basic breakfast of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter.

Chilled Orange Juice
Oatmeal with Milk*
Raisin Bran Muffins or Raisin Toast
Butter
Milk Coffee

*For variety and additional nutritional value substitute milk for one-half the water when cooking oatmeal.

Cherry Squares Orientale Sure To Be Family Favorite

Combine the irresistible flavor of dark sweet cherries with a tender, flaky, pastry crust; top it all with thick whipped cream and you've a dessert that's guaranteed tempting to even those strange individuals who never eat desserts.

Dark sweet cherries have long been considered an aristocratic fruit, not only because of their unique and tantalizing flavor, but also because of their royal color. Although sweet cherries have been cultivated since before the time of Christ, in the United States they are grown almost exclusively in the Pacific Coast States.

Canned sweet dark cherries are not only delicious, but also nutritious. They contain vitamins A, B-1 and C as well as good amounts of calcium, phosphorous, iron and copper.

Sweet canned cherries are a delicious dessert served just as they come from the can and they add glamour to all sorts of puddings, cobblers, frozen and whipped desserts and tossed or molded salads. No matter how you serve them, they add sparkle and interest to your meal.

Cherry Squares Orientale

1 No. 2 can dark sweet cherries (above 2 cups)
1 Cup cherry syrup
1½ Tablespoons cornstarch
1 Teaspoon lemon juice
⅓ Cup sugar
¼ Teaspoon ginger
Pastry for double crust 8-inch pie
½ Cup heavy cream, whipped and sweetened

Pit cherries but leave whole. Save 1 cup syrup drained from cherries and add small amount to cornstarch. Stir until smooth, then add remaining syrup, lemon juice, sugar and ginger. Cook for 5-6 minutes or until thick and clear. Stir in pitted cherries and set aside to cool.

Prepare pastry and roll out to about ⅛ inch thickness. With pastry cutter, cut into rectangles of desired size, about 2" x 3". Eight squares will make four servings. Place on cookie sheet and bake in hot oven 450° F. for 5-8 minutes or until lightly browned. Set aside to cool. When ready to serve, place 1 pastry square on each serving plate. Spoon cherries over the top, then place second pastry square on top. Cover with cherries and garnish with whipped cream. Serves 4-5.

A new potato product is called potato tidbits—a fat-free, pillow-shaped, puffed potato tidbit that can be flavored, and has an attractive, crunchy texture and toasted color. It is good for out-of-hand eating, as a breakfast food, and in soups, stuffings and casseroles.

Potatoes are filling, but not necessarily fattening. One medium-sized potato has about 100 calories—about the same as an apple, pear or banana. If watching weight, go easy on the trimmings. It's the gravy, butter or other fat that piles up the calories.

Kipperoni

For a really nourishing and novel hot dish laden with body building vitamins and as tasty as it is easy to prepare, kipperoni (baked macaroni and Norway kippers) tops the menu. What's more, Norway kippers are packed in flavor preserving aluminum cans that are extra-easy to open. It's economical, too.

INGREDIENTS

2 (6½ oz.) cans Norway kippers (or 4 3¾-oz. cans)
1 (8 oz.) package macaroni
1 (size 2, 19 oz.) can stewed tomatoes
¼ lb. American cheese, sliced
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter
salt and pepper to taste

Boil macaroni as directed on package. Remove from fire and drain. Butter casserole. Place layer of macaroni in casserole and cover with stewed tomatoes. Top with a few slices of American cheese. Repeat procedure, reserving Norway kipper fillets and 1 stewed tomato for top. Place stewed tomato in center and arrange kipper fillets around it. Pour over milk and season to taste. Dot with remainder butter and bake in medium oven for 30 minutes or until well browned.

Chocolate Pudding A La Mode

¾ cup sugar
¼ cup butter
1 egg, well beaten
2¼ cups cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
2 squares chocolate, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Cream sugar and butter; add egg and blend. Sift flour, measure; sift with baking powder and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Stir in melted chocolate and vanilla. Pour into buttered, 1 quart pudding mold, cover or tie waxed paper over top. Steam 1 hour. Serve topped with ice cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Science Watches The Roast

IS IT DONE? New stainless steel gadget inserted in meat cooks meat to desired doneness—rare to well-done.

AP Newsfeatures

CHICAGO—Automation now aids the housewife to cook roast meat to the precise desired doneness.

It's proof that woman's best friend is the inventor with an eye to her problem and a knack of taking the guesswork out of meal preparing.

Such is the case with the newest creation of Richard Grayson whose father invented the gas-oven thermostat more than 25 years ago.

He has devised an automatic roasting control for use with the kitchen gas range. All the housewife needs to know is how she wants the roast cooked—well done, medium or rare. No more complicated calculations of weight, so many minutes per pound at a given temperature.

Grayson's gadget consists of a stainless steel probe upon which a dial is mounted. It can be used with beef, ham, lamb or poultry. The probe is inserted into the roast and the desired result indicated by a turn of the dial.

A metal cord connected to the probe plugs into the oven just like a telephone jack on a switchboard.

Inside the probe is a bi-metal expansion coil. As heat expands the coil, it releases a set of electronic controls that shut off the flow of gas to the oven. At that moment a light or buzzer on the control panel on the range signals the roast is ready to serve. A relay device closes a circuit that prevents the oven from going on again until the housewife resets the thermostat.

The automatic roasting control was demonstrated at the National Home Builder's Show in Chicago. It will be available on major company gas ranges from coast to coast.

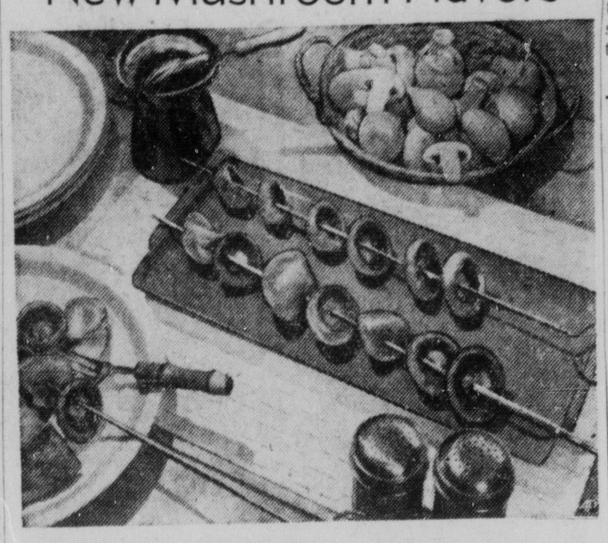
New Mushroom Flavors



INDOOR BARBECUED MUSHROOMS with outdoor flavor.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Something novel is going on in the kitchen. Smell that spicy aroma? Fresh mushrooms are barbecuing under the broiler. Out they come — looking a rich reddish brown. Bite into one. Intriguing, isn't it?

Serve these mushrooms with fish or eggs during Lent; with poultry or meat other times. Get out this recipe when you are in the mood to try something new. It will add interest to a meal—whether guests or just the family are around the table.

A Southern friend of ours thinks the barbecued mushrooms make good eating when served with "baked sweet potatoes oozing butter, big squares of hot corn bread, a huge bowl of grapefruit, orange and avocado salad, cups of fragrant hot tea." We've eaten these barbecued mushrooms with hot buttered toast and tea for lunch. We've also enjoyed them with thick juicy hamburgers—the meat charred on the outside, reddish-pink inside. Any of these menu ideas appeal to you? Take your choice.

We used medium-sized mushrooms—about 24 to a pound. They may be broiled on a piece of aluminum foil, or they may be strung on skewers. We prefer the first method because it's easier to brush them with sauce this way than it is when they are skewered. We also like the plain broiling way because when you turn up the mushroom cups, you can put a dab of sauce in them for an extra garnish.

If you have an electric rotisserie, it can of course be used for broiling instead of your range. Or if you have a fireplace and long skewers, you might find it fun to barbecue the mushrooms over glowing coals. If you do use your fireplace, make sure the mushrooms are high enough over the heat so they don't burn.

BARBECUED MUSHROOMS

Ingredients: 1 pound medium-sized mushrooms (about 24), ½ cup chili sauce, 2 tablespoons dark brown sugar, 2 tablespoons red wine vinegar, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon paprika, tabasco sauce.

Method: Remove stems from mushrooms. Wipe caps with a damp cloth; do not wash or peel. Put chili sauce, brown sugar, vinegar, butter, salt, mustard and paprika into a small saucepan. Add a few drops of tabasco sauce, or more to taste. Simmer a few minutes, stirring well. Brush mushroom caps all over with barbecue sauce; place them, cup down, on aluminum foil. Broil about 5 inches from source of heat about 8 minutes; turn, spoon a dab of the sauce into each cup, and broil a minute or so longer. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings (4 mushrooms to a portion) as an accompaniment to eggs, fish, meat or poultry. Or serve on a vegetable plate.

Note: If skewers are used, run them through centers of mushroom caps. Leave space between caps so each mushroom can be brushed with sauce. Quartered small tomatoes and onions may be alternated on the skewers with the mushrooms if you like.

MUSHROOM NOTES

Don't bypass fresh mushrooms if they are dark in color or if the cups are open underneath. Slice them thin and cook them in butter with thin strips of onion; they'll have fine flavor. Serve these with scrambled eggs, broiled fish or chicken, steak or hamburgers.

We like to remove the stems from mushrooms and cook the caps, on both sides, in butter. Then we mince the stems and cook them, along with minced onion, in butter. Next we crush rich round crackers fine and mix them with the chopped mushroom mixture and more butter. We use the crumb mixture as a filling for the caps. If you are having company, you can prepare these ahead of time. When you are ready to serve, they may be reheated in the oven or under the broiler.

Tuna-Scalloped Potatoes

- 4 medium-sized potatoes, peeled and sliced
- can (6½ or 7 oz.) tuna, drained and flaked
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 2 pimientos, chopped
- ¼ pound (1 cup) shredded processed American cheese
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk

Arrange half of potato slices in bottom of greased 2-quart baking dish. Spread half the tuna, onion, pimiento, cheese and salt over potatoes. Repeat layers. Pour milk over all. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 1 hour, or until potatoes are tender. Makes 6 servings.

Maryland Cherry Pie

Filling

- 3 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup cherry juice
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 teaspoon almond extract
- 1 teaspoon red food coloring
- 2 cups cherries

Crust

- 2¼ cups flour
- ⅜ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup shortening
- ⅓ cup cold water

Mixing Directions

Heat cornstarch, sugar and salt with cherry juice until mixture thickens. Remove from heat; add butter, almond extract, coloring and cherries. Sift flour and salt together. Blend in shortening. Add ⅓ cup cold water. Form into ball and roll crust. Cook ½ hour at 400°F.

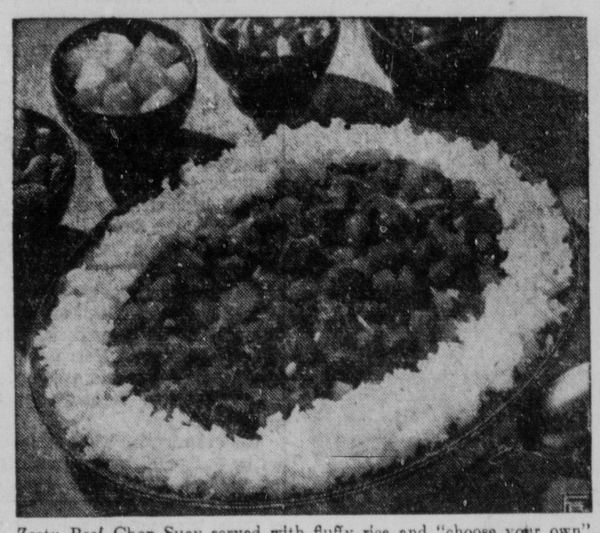
THE LITTLE WOMAN

"It's too bad there's no Olympic games competition for marathon telephoning. Emily would win in a breeze."

Fluffy Omelet

8 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
Pepper, to taste

Melt butter in small saucepan. Add flour and blend. Add milk, salt, and pepper and cook and stir over moderate heat until the sauce is smooth and thickened. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add quickly to partially cooled whitesauce. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry, and fold gently but thoroughly into the yolk mixture. Pour into a ten-inch skillet which has been well buttered and heated to sizzling. Place over moderate heat for five minutes, then transfer skillet to a pre-heated oven and bake at 325° F. for about 20 minutes, or until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Cut omelet almost through at the center at right angles to the handle of the pan. Fold over and slip onto a heated platter or chop plate. Garnish with parsley, bacon curls, frizzled ham, sausages or grilled tomatoes. Makes 6 servings.



Zesty Beef Chop Suey served with fluffy rice and "choose your own" garnishes . . . a distinctive taste treat taken from the Chinese and adapted to suit American tastes by Mah Chena, the famed Cantonese chef. The Chop Suey used here is fresh-frozen and pre-cooked, all ready to heat and eat—and garner compliments from family and guests that will belie its ease of preparation. Shown above is Mah's Beef Chop Suey nested in rice. For an extra "fun" and flavor touch, let everyone choose his own garnish. We've provided almonds, pineapple cubes, cashews, and slivered green peppers.

Variety Meats Are Delicacies

Variety meats, including liver, kidney, heart, tongue, and sweetbreads, provide nutrients in extraordinary amounts.

Hearty, substantial meals containing these variety meats can be planned with little effort to produce varied menus for the family.

Sweetbreads have long been regarded as a party fare. They are often creamed with veal or chicken but are equally good when served alone.

Sweetbreads Supreme are highly prized by the epicure and homemakers can profit by his example and use them more frequently in their menus.

Sweetbreads Supreme

1 pound sweetbreads; 1 4-ounce can mushrooms; 4 tablespoons butter; 6 tablespoons flour; 2 cups liquid from mushrooms and milk; Salt and pepper; 1 cup cooked or canned peas; 8 slices toast.

Simmer sweetbreads 20 minutes in 1 quart water to which 1 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon vinegar have been added. Drain and detach any membrane. Break into small pieces. Brown mushrooms in melted butter. Stir in flour. Add liquid and seasonings. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add peas and sweetbreads. Serve hot on toast. Yield: 8 servings.

Cook a package of frozen mixed vegetables and drain. Add the liquid you drain from the vegetables to milk and make a medium white sauce. Mix the vegetables, the white sauce and diced cooked ham or chicken; or replace the meat with flaked salmon or tuna. Spoon into a shallow baking dish, cover with tiny cubes of bread mixed with butter and reheat in a moderate or hot oven. Good supper dish!

Siren Testing Will Continue

Tests of the city's Civil Defense warning system are to continue each Saturday at 10 a. m., according to Arthur B. Gibson, Cumberland's CD coordinator.

Last week, the sirens did not sound and prompted a number of inquiries. An emergency not connected with the warning system was the reason. Gibson explained that Central Station firemen, who set off the sirens, had returned to the station house from a fire call just about 10 last Saturday morning. In the process of getting their gear back in place and the truck cleaned, the time for the test passed by.

Gibson said that in a real CD emergency, permanent arrangements have been made to set off the warning system.

Gibson, who is also city auditor, emphasized that sounding of the sirens each week is just for test purposes. He said they are necessary to keep the system in good working order. A wailing tone is used in the tests.

Under actual CD emergency conditions, however, here are the correct warnings:

Alert — Steady tone of from three to five minutes duration.

Take Cover — Wailing tone or short blasts for three minutes.

Gibson said these signals can be sounded in any order and may be repeated. There is no all-clear signal.

Hurricane is believed to be a word that is derived from "huracan," a term in use by the Arawak-speaking Indians of the West Indies.

A charming girl can't be too fastidious about her personal daintiness.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

No Offense, Madame!

One thing that can singlehandedly destroy any chance of a girl acquiring charm, femininity or popularity is body odor. The general daily habits of cleanliness—a bath each day, and fresh changes of lingerie and outer clothing—will do much to combat it, but that isn't enough.

There is one area of your body which is easily subject to this condition which can be so offensive. That is your armpits. To combat this body odor under the arms you can use (1) a simple deodorant, (2) an anti-perspirant, or (3) a deodorant that is also an anti-perspirant.

If you don't perspire very much, a simple deodorant is for you . . . it merely masks or neutralizes the perspiration odor.

An anti-perspirant actually checks the flow of perspiration. Use this if you perspire excessively most of the time. Or use it during the warmer summer months.

Whatever the extent of your perspiration, you can use a deodorant that also checks perspirations.

Always read the label when you are selecting your product. Each product that has an anti-perspirant in it is required by law to give the name on the label, of the active ingredient that brings about the anti-perspirant action. If it doesn't, it can't be an anti-perspirant (usually this ingredient is an aluminum salt, aluminum chloride, or aluminum sulphate).

For daylong protection, it is wise to carry a stick of deodorant in your purse. Deodorant powder can also be used. Dust on the body and sprinkle inside your girdle and into shoes.

YOUR STEPS TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER

An investment in charm for every girl starting a career—every woman now in business, eager to reach top-flight success. It tells how to make that "good impression" to get your job . . . reveals secrets on how to hold your job. Reliable short cut steps in charm that lead to YOUR SUCCESS. Write Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope, for YOUR STEPS TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER.

Parish Will Observe Feast Of Patron

A high mass will be celebrated tomorrow at 8 p. m. at St. Patrick's Catholic Church in honor of the patron saint of the parish, according to Very Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor, who will celebrate the mass.

Father Kilkenny also announced that St. Patrick's School will be the site for an examination at 10 a. m. Saturday, March 24, for youths of the Western Maryland area who wish to study for the priesthood.

The examination will be conducted by Father Kilkenny, rural dean of Western Maryland, who explained that to qualify for the test youths must have completed the eighth grade of schooling. Those passing the examination will enter St. Charles College, Catonsville, in September.

Siren Testing Will Continue

Tests of the city's Civil Defense warning system are to continue each Saturday at 10 a. m., according to Arthur B. Gibson, Cumberland's CD coordinator.

Last week, the sirens did not sound and prompted a number of inquiries. An emergency not connected with the warning system was the reason. Gibson explained that Central Station firemen, who set off the sirens, had returned to the station house from a fire call just about 10 last Saturday morning. In the process of getting their gear back in place and the truck cleaned, the time for the test passed by.

Gibson said that in a real CD emergency, permanent arrangements have been made to set off the warning system.

Gibson, who is also city auditor, emphasized that sounding of the sirens each week is just for test purposes. He said they are necessary to keep the system in good working order. A wailing tone is used in the tests.

Under actual CD emergency conditions, however, here are the correct warnings:

Alert — Steady tone of from three to five minutes duration.

Take Cover — Wailing tone or short blasts for three minutes.

Gibson said these signals can be sounded in any order and may be repeated. There is no all-clear signal.

Hurricane is believed to be a word that is derived from "huracan," a term in use by the Arawak-speaking Indians of the West Indies.

A charming girl can't be too fastidious about her personal daintiness.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

No Offense, Madame!

One thing that can singlehandedly destroy any chance of a girl acquiring charm, femininity or popularity is body odor. The general daily habits of cleanliness—a bath each day, and fresh changes of lingerie and outer clothing—will do much to combat it, but that isn't enough.

There is one area of your body which is easily subject to this condition which can be so offensive. That is your armpits. To combat this body odor under the arms you can use (1) a simple deodorant, (2) an anti-perspirant, or (3) a deodorant that is also an anti-perspirant.

If you don't perspire very much, a simple deodorant is for you . . . it merely masks or neutralizes the perspiration odor.

An anti-perspirant actually checks the flow of perspiration. Use this if you perspire excessively most of the time. Or use it during the warmer summer months.

Whatever the extent of your perspiration, you can use a deodorant that also checks perspirations.

Always read the label when you are selecting your product. Each product that has an anti-perspirant in it is required by law to give the name on the label, of the active ingredient that brings about the anti-perspirant action. If it doesn't, it can't be an anti-perspirant (usually this ingredient is an aluminum salt, aluminum chloride, or aluminum sulphate).

For daylong protection, it is wise to carry a stick of deodorant in your purse. Deodorant powder can also be used. Dust on the body and sprinkle inside your girdle and into shoes.

YOUR STEPS TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER

An investment in charm for every girl starting a career—every woman now in business, eager to reach top-flight success. It tells how to make that "good impression" to get your job . . . reveals secrets on how to hold your job. Reliable short cut steps in charm that lead to YOUR SUCCESS. Write Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope, for YOUR STEPS TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER.

Rec Board Asks

of a new State Armory came up, and it became known that if this were done, the old Armory could be purchased by the City for $50,000 plus a site for the new Armory.

"Our Board investigated the possibility of using the old Armory as a recreation center headquarters and for recreation purposes generally, and reported to the Council that the proposal had real merit, but that the Board felt that the recreational standpoint it should be subordinated to the securing of South View Addition recreation area; also that the maintenance and upkeep of the Armory would require the addition of $13,000 to the Recreation budget.

"With further reference to the securing of South View Addition area it has been made known to us that the School Board is definitely interested in securing four to five acres of land so that a new junior high school could be built there. Therefore the cost to the city of this recreation area would be considerably reduced.

"Sensible" Arrangement

"It is needless to dwell at length on the advantage to a school of having at its doors a playfield and recreation area such as would be afforded it by the development for such purposes of the remainder of the tract. Also the Recreation Department would have available for its use certain facilities in the school, when this is completed. Cooperation in the use of school and recreation facilities and properties has proved of value in other places. Certainly it is a sensible as well as an economical arrangement.

"Therefore we renew our recommendation that the city take immediate steps to acquire, and when acquired develop, the South View Addition properties. In view of the high prices which are being asked for these, it is recommended that immediate steps be taken to condemn, rather than pay the prices now being asked.

"The trial of a few test condemnation suits could be held late in April or early in May. The results of these would be a definite indication of whether the area can be secured at a reasonable figure; and prices fixed by a jury would afford a good basis for dealing with other land owners. If, on the other hand, the amount granted by jury should be out of line, both from the standpoint of fair values and our available funds, then further discussion with you will be necessary.

"The Board recommends that plans be made and steps be taken to secure and develop for recreation purposes that undeveloped land which lies just beyond the Ridgedale Reservoir. We understand that the City already owns some of the lots and that there is at least a good chance that those owned by private persons could be secured at reasonable prices. At this time there is no city owned recreation area on the west side of Cumberland.

"Also we understand there is a possibility of securing for future recreation development land adjacent to North End Recreation area.

Objections Foreseen

"We have no doubt objections will be made to what has been outlined above—for instance that South View Addition is in that part of town in which is located Constitution Park and Post Playground. But this is a rapidly growing area and South View Addition affords the only comparatively level and comparatively unimproved land in the city which is large enough to enable a good recreation area to be constructed.

"And we want to point out that if we do not secure this before any more houses are erected it will be gone forever. We all recall how nearly we lost the land that is now Post Playground, and we know how much pleasure it affords. South View Addition gives us an opportunity to have a much larger area and one that will be used by many more people.

"A proposed layout of South View Addition, as it might be developed, has been left in the Mayor's Office.

"We suggest, therefore, that you consider this recommendation carefully and let us know your final decision. We will be glad to meet with you and discuss this in more detail."

The letter was signed by George Henderson, chairman, and Florence M. Yankelevitz, secretary of the Cumberland Recreation Board.

New Trial Ordered

ANNAPOLIS, March 15 (AP)—A new trial was ordered today for Robert Jackson, a Negro youth sentenced to death by a Baltimore County Circuit Court for raping a 12-year-old white girl last June.

John G. Fox First To File For W. Va. Seat In Senate

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 15 (AP)—John George Fox, attorney general of West Virginia since 1952, today became the first person to file for Democratic nomination for the unexpired U. S. Senate term of the late Harley M. Kilgore.

Fox, who will be 33 on April 27, filed his certificate of candidacy and paid his $225 filing fee in the secretary of state's office.

That will put the Fayetteville attorney on the May 8 primary election ballot as a candidate for nomination for the unexpired term, which runs to Jan. 3, 1959. Kilgore died Feb. 28.

Ex-State Tax Commissioner William R. Laird III, also of Fayetteville, was sworn in at Washington today as a temporary successor to Kilgore. Gov. William C. Marland appointed Laird to serve until the seating of a successor to be elected in November.

The question of how the candidates who will run in November should be nominated—in the May 8 primary or by party conventions—was answered yesterday when the State Supreme Court ruled in favor of the primary. That decision required O'Brien to open the books for filing by Senate aspirants.

First to file after the court decision was Philip H. Hill, Charleston attorney seeking the Republican nomination. Fox is the only other person in either party to file so far.

Allegany-Bel Air, Valley-Arundel Quints To Clash Today

Six Contests Set For State Cage Tourney

Black Knights Play College Park Opener; Campers In 7:30 Tilt

Allegany High School, bidding for its 12th Maryland scholastic basketball championship in the 23-year history of state tournaments, is slated to tackle Bel Air High School of Harford county tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the semi-final round of Class "A" competition at the University of Maryland, College Park.

It will mark the first meeting of the Allegany Campers and the Bel Air Bobcats in a state tournament game. Bel Air became a Class "A" school five years ago.

The Bobcats, coached by Tom Penrod, got into the state tourney by beating Glen Burnie High in the finals of the District III tourney last week by the score of 54-46 after knocking out Kenwood, of Baltimore county in the semi-finals, 60-52. Bel Air has won 16 of 22 engagements.

Allegany won the W.M.I. League title with an 8-2 record, copped the city championship with three wins and one loss and annexed the Allegany County Class A crown by taking four of five games, including a playoff with Fort Hill. Last Saturday Coach Gene Shaw's Campers bagged the District One title by beating Frederick High's Cadets in the finale of the tourney at Fort Hill (73-62) after Frederick had eliminated Hagerstown, 64-53. The Campobello aggregation enters the state tourney with an 18-5 record.

Saturday Final At 9

The winner of the Bel Air-Allegany game will tangle with the survivor of tonight's contest between Wicomico High of Salisbury and Northwestern High of Hyattsville in the "A" championship final on Saturday at 9 p. m. Wicomico automatically qualified for the state tourney as it was the only Class "A" school in District 5. Northwestern won the title in the Bi-County League and thereby qualified as the "A" representative from District II. The Northwestern-Wicomico games tonight is scheduled for 9 o'clock.

Allegany's last appearance in the state tourney was in 1954 when Coach Walter L. Bowers Campers swept through Hagerstown, Southern of Oakland, Annapolis and Chevy Chase to become the Class "A" monarchs. Campobello teams previously had won state honors in 1927, 1930, 1931, 1932, 1933, 1934, 1936, 1937, 1947 and 1950. Counting six triumphs by Penn Avenue and Fort Hill Class "A" schools from Allegany county have won 17 of the 22 state events.

Valley In Opener

Valley High School's Black Knights of Lonaconing is Allegany county's Class "B" standard bearer in the two-day College Park tourney. Coach Johnny Meyers' club and Arundel High of Gambrills, Anne Arundel county, will open today's six-game program at 1 p. m. Valley annexed county honors by sweeping four games with Bruce and Mt. Savage and holds two decisions over Piedmont High, which has advanced to the

Lionel Hebert Grabs St. Petersburg Lead

Shoots 7-Under-Par 65 In First Round

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 15 (AP)—Husky Lionel Hebert, never a PGA tournament winner, gave the St. Petersburg Open field an early 65 to shoot at today.

Hebert's seven under par 31-34 over the Lakewood Country Club's 36-36—72 course gave him a one stroke lead at the end of the first round.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo and Art Wall Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., fired 66s, to tie for second.

Hebert, 28-year-old Erie, Pa., stylist, used only 24 putts, including three from the fringe, for his record busting round. He dropped an eight foot birdie putt on the first hole, chipped in from about 45 feet out for an eagle on the second. He continued winging along in fine fashion, picking up four more birdies including another chip in on No. 11, and never going over par.

Par for the flat, windswept 6,489-yard Lakewood course took a real battering, with 54 of the field of 144 breaking the standards.

Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill., winner of the Pensacola Open Sunday, and Hans Merrell of Mogadore, Ohio, deadlocked for fourth place with 67s.

Nine others were bunched at 68. This group included the pace setter's brother, Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla.; National Open champion Jack Fleck of Davenport, Iowa, and Ted Kroll of Fort Lauderdale, winner of the Tucson and Houston opens this winter.

Defending champion Cary Middlecoff and 12 others tied at 69. Jack Burke Jr., and Jimmy Demaret both two time winners here, were among this group.

Undefeated since January 27, and boasting an 11-game winning streak, Coach William "Huck" Miers' Piedmont High School Lions roar into Keyser tonight to collide with Mountaineer High School of Thomas, Tucker County, in a game that means a state title tournament berth at Morgantown for the winner.

The game at Potomac State College's gymnasium tonight at 8 o'clock is for the Area Two championship. The winner opposes the Area 3 winner in the first game of the Class "B" semi-finals at West 23 at 1 p. m.

Pax Vs. Meadow Bridge

Tonight's Area 3 contest brings together Meadow Bridge (17-6) and Pax (17-6) at 8 o'clock in Fay-Virginia University Friday, March ettesville, Fayette county.

Mountaineer High School, coached by Ed Supak, won the B-12 tourney at Parsons by whipping Bayard, 75-61, and Kasson, 79-62. In the 3-B Regional at Parsons, the Thomas quint downed Newburg, 66-61 and Coalton 81-47. Mountaineer High's last defeat came at the hands of Elk Garden on February 16. They've reeled off five wins in a row since that setback and now own an 18-4 record.

Piedmont copped Section 16-B honors at Potomac State by knocking out Fort Ashby 66-51, Ridgeley 54-52 and West Virginia School for the Deaf, 75-51. Then the Lions grabbed off the Region 4-B crown at Shepherd College by trimming Berkeley Springs, 62-39, and Petersburg 63-52. The Mineral Countians own a record of 20 wins and five losses. Their last defeat was dealt out by Bruce High School late in January.

Sites Is Director

Tom Sites, principal of Petersburg High School, will be in charge of tonight's game in Keyser.

RICHMOND, VA. (AP)—Tom Stanley, Manchester high school's basketball coach, headed for the locker room after his team's 67-49 loss to Thomas Jefferson high, when he was approached by a middle-aged woman.

"You ought to encourage Clem (Clarence Walton, Manchester's 6-foot 8 center) to enter the ministry," the lady said.

"Why"? asked Stanley.

"Because he is not rough enough to make a basketball player," she replied.

Brown Beall Coach Dates May Conflict

Beagles Still No. 1 Dislike Cage Setup

By C. V. BURNS

MELVIN BROWN, former baseball coach at Kitzmiller High School in Garrett county, will handle the reins of the Beall High School Mountaineers in the Bi-State Conference this year, according to Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools.

Brown succeeds Edward "Ebbie" Finzel, who asked to be relieved as baseball coach at the Frostburg school. Finzel, who also coaches basketball and soccer, had six Bi-State Conference championship teams at Beall. His teams won the title outright in 1940, 1946, 1950, 1951, and 1952 and shared the championship with Hyndman in 1953.

Brown has been a member of the Beall High faculty for two years. He formerly taught at Mt. Savage after leaving Kitzmiller, which passed out of the high school ranks when the school consolidation program was effected in Garrett county.

At Kitzmiller, Brown's 1950 team won eight of 12 games and his 1951 nine posted a 7-2 record.

BEFORE the Maryland Racing Commission announced its new racing schedule yesterday, Charles Lamb, Baltimore racing expert wrote:

"If either Pimlico or Bowie is chosen as the December site for a substantial number of the 20 extra days granted by the Maryland legislature, Charles Town (W. Va.) is reported ready to race in September against Cumberland and Bel Air."

It so happens that the commission did approve dates for Pimlico —November 13 through December 15.

Last year Charles Town operated from Nov. 23 to December 17. In 1954 the West Virginia track held its winter meeting from Dec. 4 to 18.

Charles Town's 1956 winter dates have not been announced. A change to September, however, to avoid a clash with Pimlico would be a more serious blow to Cumberland than Bel Air.

THE BEAGLE HOUND, with 55,091 registered in 1955, is presently No. 1 on the popularity parade of the American Kennel Club.

Beagles have occupied first place since 1953, supplanting the Cocker Spaniel which held the top position for an unprecedented period of 17 years.

Boxers are second, Cockers third and the others in the "top ten" are in order: Chihuahuas, Dachshunds, German Shepherd Dogs, Collies, Poodles, Boston Terriers and Pekingese.

In Beagle field trials last year 50,000 of the little hounds competed.

Only very little known in 1940, the Boxer was fourth in AKC registrations nine years later, leaped to second position in 1954, and stayed there, with 37,855 registered last year.

WEST VIRGINIA sports writers have criticized in strongly-worded statements the trimming of the Class A and B high school basketball tournaments to four teams.

The feeling is that eight regional winners should go to the state tourney instead of four area victors. The area games will be held today at four places.

Writers of Parkersburg, Morgantown, Fairmont, Huntington, Wheeling, Charleston, Bluefield and Beckley have their hammers out knocking the present setup.

WILLIAMSBURG High School, which knocked Hyndman out of the Pennsylvania Class "C" tourney the other night at Huntingdon (90-61) is undefeated this season and has a string of 27 wins to its credit.

LITTLE CHANGE, if any, is expected in the rules when the National Basketball Committee holds its annual meeting March 24-25.

H. V. Porter, committee secretary, who has conducted several football clinics here sponsored by the Allegany County Board of Education, discloses that returns of a nation-wide questionnaire indicated a "high degree of satisfaction with the current penalty rules."

Porter says for the first time in three years there is no organized opposition with the current code.

The 12-foot lane, which was introduced last season, was so well received in collegiate and AAU ranks that it may be extended to high school play next season, according to Porter.

The committee represents five groups — collegiate, high schools, YMCA, Canadian and AAU.

JOHNSTOWN and Altoona, bitter rivals in athletics for many years, are at it again.

Bitter tirades against the PIAA, the District 6 committee and the timer and officials who worked the controversial, near riotous Johnstown-Altoona District 6 Class A final in Altoona still are being raised by indignant Johnstown followers.

They say that Johnstown was "robbed" of a 73-71 victory. Officially it was a 77-73 overtime loss.

The district committee has been chastised verbally for the appointment of two Altoona High School faculty members as official scorer and timer. Charges of incompetency have been hurled at the game's officials, who called 27 personals against Johnstown and 11 against Altoona — many of them on free balls.

Tempers were difficult to manage and several fist fights developed. A spectator struck one of the officials from behind. After the game the officials left the building under police escort.

TEN amateur boxing clubs and five defending champions have filed entries for the South Atlantic AAU ring championships at the Baltimore Coliseum, March 19 and 26.

The S.A.A. tourney was staged in Cumberland in March 1949 when the boxing boom was on in this section.

There hasn't been an amateur show here since May 1951 when Al Schlimm, Baltimore heavy, upset Norvel Lee, the Olympic champion, in the 5-round feature match of Albert "Bobby" Greene's card at the state armory.

WOCs is the name given to advisers to the United States who serve without compensation.

Bill Skowron Stars, Joe Presko Victim

LAKELAND, Fla., March 15 (AP)—The New York Yankees pounced on little Joe Presko for four runs in the sixth inning today and handed the Detroit Tigers their fourth loss in five exhibition outings, 8-2.

Bill Skowron drove in three of the Yankee runs with a fourth inning single and a seventh inning home run.

The only Detroit scoring came in the third against Johnny Kucks and involved only one hit. Buddy Hicks singled and moved to second on a sacrifice. Harvey Kuenn walked and Billy Martin messed up Earl Torgeson's grounder, allowing Hicks to score. Kuenn later scored on a force out.

Eddie Mathews, the Braves' bombing third baseman, smacked a solo home run off Bob Darnell, the losing pitcher, in the third inning and rapped another over the right field wall with Bill Bruton aboard in the eighth against Don Elston.

Charges of incompetency have been hurled at the game's officials, who called 27 personals against Johnstown and 11 against Altoona — many of them on free balls.

Tempers were difficult to manage and several fist fights developed. A spectator struck one of the officials from behind. After the game the officials left the building under police escort.

TEN amateur boxing clubs and five defending champions have filed entries for the South Atlantic AAU ring championships at the Baltimore Coliseum, March 19 and 26.

The S.A.A. tourney was staged in Cumberland in March 1949 when the boxing boom was on in this section.

Yankees Trim Detroit, 8-2

Bill Skowron Stars, Joe Presko Victim

LAKELAND, Fla., March 15 (AP)—The New York Yankees pounced on little Joe Presko for four runs in the sixth inning today and handed the Detroit Tigers their fourth loss in five exhibition outings, 8-2.

Bill Skowron drove in three of the Yankee runs with a fourth inning single and a seventh inning home run.

The only Detroit scoring came in the third against Johnny Kucks and involved only one hit. Buddy Hicks singled and moved to second on a sacrifice. Harvey Kuenn walked and Billy Martin messed up Earl Torgeson's grounder, allowing Hicks to score. Kuenn later scored on a force out.

Mathews Poles Two Homers In 6-2 Win

BRADENTON, Fla., March 15 (AP)—Gene Conley, Milwaukee's right-handed ace pitching, fired three hitless innings against the Brooklyn Dodgers today and was the winning pitcher in a 6-2 victory. It was Brooklyn's fifth defeat in six games this spring.

Eddie Mathews, the Braves' bombing third baseman, smacked a solo home run off Bob Darnell, the losing pitcher, in the third inning and rapped another over the right field wall with Bill Bruton aboard in the eighth against Don Elston.

Charlie Neal, rookie second base aspirant, accounted for both Brooklyn runs when he clouted a homer, scoring Rube Walker ahead of him.

Pimlico Gets Extension For Spring, Winter

Latter Meet Ends Dec. 15; Hagerstown Session Aug. 15-28

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE, March 15 (AP) — The Maryland Racing Commission, overwhelmed by rare agreements of the state's three major tracks, today decided to extend the Pimlico meeting a week in the spring and 12 days next winter.

Pimlico will share the profits from the extra days with Laurel and Bowie. The legislature gave the three major tracks a total of 20 extra days this year so each will have 40.

The tracks have been dividing 100, the odd day being rotated. Bowie is running all its 34 now. One of Laurel's extra days previously had been tacked on to its spring meeting and Pimlico's at the beginning. So each of the three had six more coming.

Get December Dates

The three tracks had agreed the best way to use them was to extend Pimlico's spring meeting six days until June 2 and the winter meeting 12 days until Dec. 15.

Leaders of horse owners and trainers, with some individuals dissenting, had urged that Bowie be reopened in the winter for the 18 days which would extend the racing until three days before Christmas.

D. Eldred Rinehart, racing commission chairman, said the fact that the three tracks were in agreement on a proposal "for the first time" since he was on the body influenced greatly its selection.

The six extra days in the spring will be in competition with racing at Delaware Park, a factor used by officials of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Assn. in arguing for the winter racing at Bowie.

Merchants Object

The Pimlico Merchants Assn. told the commission they opposed any racing beyond Dec. 15 since it might hurt their Christmas business.

Janon Fisher, an owner and trainer, also said he favored the June racing in competition against Delaware Park as the "lesser of two evils." Personally, he said, he didn't think the commission ought to allot the extra days at all since "aggravation" caused by too much racing might lead to a "reform movement."

Besides the 120 days for Bowie, Pimlico and Laurel, the legislature increased the number at five half mile tracks from 50 to 60 and at four harness tracks from 80 to 96.

New Schedule

The new schedule after Bowie closes April 17 is as follows:

Laurel, April 18 — May 7, Oct. 24 — Nov. 12; Pimlico, May 8 — June 2, Nov. 13 — Dec. 15; Hagerstown Aug. 15 — 28; Timonium Aug. 29 — Sept. 11; Cumberland, Sept. 12-25; Bel Air, Sept. 26 — Oct. 9; Marlboro, Oct. 10-23; Rosecroft, May 7 — June 2; Laurel Raceway June 4-30; Ocean Downs, July 2-28; Baltimore, Oct. 5 — Nov. 1.

Nats Trim Knicks, Get Into Playoffs

SYRACUSE, N.Y., March 15 (AP) —The Syracuse Nationals broke a 77-77 deadlock on Paul Seymour's set shot with a minute to go and finished off New York with an 82-77 victory today to qualify for the NBA's Eastern Division play-offs.

In order to qualify for the preliminary series with second place Boston, the Nats had to rouse themselves from an awesome shooting slump in the first five minutes and 25 seconds of the final period, which they started with a 64-61 lead. The Knicks ran up a 68-64 lead before Dolph Schayes' layup goal broke the ice for Syracuse.

The extra game was made necessary when Syracuse and New York finished in a tie for third place. The victory kept intact the Nats' record of never having missed a playoff berth in 10 years of pro basketball competition. It is New York's first miss in the same span.

Phillies Conquer Cardinals, 2-1

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 15 (AP) — Five-hit pitching by Herman Wehmeier, Bob Miller and Saul Rogovin and a home run by Willie Jones gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 2-1 verdict over the St. Louis Cardinals today in an exhibition game.

Jones' home run came off the veteran Ellis Kinder in the fourth inning. A single by Granny Hamner and a double by Del Ennis gave the Phils their first run against the rookie-studded Cardinals.

Santee To Run In Cleveland Games Tonight

Hearing Scheduled To Come Up Monday

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—The fourth legal battle between miler Wes Santee and the Amateur Athletic Union took place today and it ended in a draw—Santee will run in Cleveland tomorrow night and his hearing for a permanent injunction against the AAU will come up Monday.

The hearing originally as scheduled for today, but New York State Supreme Court Justice Walter A. Lynch, after listening to opening statements by opposing counsel, suggested they might like to meet in his chambers to "narrow" the issues before going any farther.

No Agreement Reached

Both Charles P. Grimes, Santee's lawyer, and Louis Nizer, representing the AAU, agreed. The jurist obviously feared the hearing would last too long if the attorneys did not reach some agreement on just what they were arguing.

"That's fine with me," said Grimes before he entered Judge Lynch's chambers. "I've got Wes drawing up a list of his approximate costs since he has become a star attraction and he's not quite finished.

"When I put him on the stand, we'll prove that his outgo exceeded his income by $5,000. That is, it cost him $5,000 to be an amateur. And this is the thanks he gets."

Asked for comment on the proceedings, Nizer snapped:

"Let them have their field day. We'll have ours in court."

The hearings before Judge Lynch was largely a repeat performance on the part of Grimes and Nizer, who first presented their arguments to Judge Irving Levey of the same court last Friday. He granted a continuance of the injunction which prohibits the AAU from carrying out its lifetime ban against Santee.

Grimes challenged the authority of the AAU's executive committee, which suspended Santee for life Feb. 19 for allegedly accepting exessive expenses in meets last year. Grimes said the evidence should have been weighed by the runner's home district, the Missouri Valley Assn.

Regulars Avoid Wes

In his last two races in New York and Philadelphia, only token fields have run against Santee. The "regulars" have avoided him because they fear for their Olympic eligibility. The IOC has the power to bar everyone who ever has run against Santee, so the same type of field probably will oppose Santee tomorrow.

Ray Heins Named Pro At Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, March 15 (AP) — Ray Heins, a 35-year-old Baltimorean, today was named golf pro at Annapolis Country Club succeeding Frank Tenney, who will return to the White Flint Course in Montgomery County.

Heins, who has been assistant pro at the Baldoc Hills Country Club in Pittsburgh for the past two years, is scheduled to take over the top job here March 24. He became a professional golfer in 1953 after a successful amateur career in the Baltimore area.

Kentucky And Iowa Favorites

Picked Over Wayne, Morehead Tonight

IOWA CITY, Iowa, March 15 (AP)—Big 10 champion Iowa and Kentucky of the Southeastern Conference, highly ranked teams in the final Associated Press poll, are favored in the first round of the National Collegiate Regional Basketball Tournament here tomorrow night.

Iowa meets little Morehead (Ky) State (about 900 enrollment), which averaged 96.4 points a game to lead the nation in scoring, about two hours after Kentucky and Wayne of Detroit open the regional tourney at 8:30 p.m. (EST).

The two winners play Saturday night with the champion advancing to the finals at Evanston, Ill. next week.

Although its 18-9 record is fourth best in this regional, Morehead's fast break offense has carried it over the 100-point mark in 10 games this season.

"I have never seen a team fast break so quickly and with such consistency," said Iowa scout Rollie Williams after Morehead beat Marshall 107-92 in a playoff game Monday night.

In successfully defending its Big 10 championship and winning its last 14 games, fourth-ranked Iowa topped its conference in defense, 68.1 points a game.

Wayne carries a 17-game winning streak into its game with Kentucky (19-5), which placed ninth in the final AP poll.

Logart And Ortega Fight At Garden

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP) — Cuba's Isaac (Kid) Logart and Gaspar (Indian) Ortega, both fast-rising young welterweights, meet in the 10-round main event at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

The 22-year-old Logart, latest "keed" sensation from Camaguey, Cuba, the third ranked world welterweight challenger, now has won four in a row.

Ortega hails from Mexicali, Mexico, and has graduated into the Garden main event because of his spectacular performances in recent semi-finals. Now 20, the Mexican flash last year won 8 of 10 bouts.

The bout will be televised and broadcast (NBC) at 10 p.m.

Giants Even Up Chicago Series

Worthington, working the first four innings, gave the Bruins their lone run, a second inning homer by rookie shortstop Ed Winceniak. McCall went the next four and Wilhelm pitched the ninth.

Pimlico Gets Extension For Spring, Winter

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE, March 15 (AP) — The Maryland Racing Commission, overwhelmed by rare agreements of the state's three major tracks, today decided to extend the Pimlico meeting a week in the spring and 12 days next winter.

Pimlico will share the profits from the extra days with Laurel and Bowie. The legislature gave the three major tracks a total of 20 extra days this year so each will have 40.

The tracks have been dividing 100, the odd day being rotated. Bowie is running all its 34 now. One of Laurel's extra days previously had been tacked on to its spring meeting and Pimlico's at the beginning. So each of the three had six more coming.

Get December Dates

The three tracks had agreed the best way to use them was to extend Pimlico's spring meeting six days until June 2 and the winter meeting 12 days until Dec. 15.

Leaders of horse owners and trainers, with some individuals dissenting, had urged that Bowie be reopened in the winter for the 18 days which would extend the racing until three days before Christmas.

D. Eldred Rinehart, racing commission chairman, said the fact that the three tracks were in agreement on a proposal "for the first time" since he was on the body influenced greatly its selection.

The six extra days in the spring will be in competition with racing at Delaware Park, a factor used by officials of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Assn. in arguing for the winter racing at Bowie.

Merchants Object

The Pimlico Merchants Assn. told the commission they opposed any racing beyond Dec. 15 since it might hurt their Christmas business.

Janon Fisher, an owner and trainer, also said he favored the June racing in competition against Delaware Park as the "lesser of two evils." Personally, he said, he didn't think the commission ought to allot the extra days at all since "aggravation" caused by too much racing might lead to a "reform movement."

Besides the 120 days for Bowie, Pimlico and Laurel, the legislature increased the number at five half mile tracks from 50 to 60 and at four harness tracks from 80 to 96.

New Schedule

The new schedule after Bowie closes April 17 is as follows:

Laurel, April 18 — May 7, Oct. 24 — Nov. 12; Pimlico, May 8 — June 2, Nov. 13 — Dec. 15; Hagerstown Aug. 15 — 28; Timonium Aug. 29 — Sept. 11; Cumberland, Sept. 12-25; Bel Air, Sept. 26 — Oct. 9; Marlboro, Oct. 10-23; Rosecroft, May 7 — June 2; Laurel Raceway June 4-30; Ocean Downs, July 2-28; Baltimore, Oct. 5 — Nov. 1.

Nats Trim Knicks, Get Into Playoffs

SYRACUSE, N.Y., March 15 (AP) —The Syracuse Nationals broke a 77-77 deadlock on Paul Seymour's set shot with a minute to go and finished off New York with an 82-77 victory today to qualify for the NBA's Eastern Division play-offs.

In order to qualify for the preliminary series with second place Boston, the Nats had to rouse themselves from an awesome shooting slump in the first five minutes and 25 seconds of the final period, which they started with a 64-61 lead. The Knicks ran up a 68-64 lead before Dolph Schayes' layup goal broke the ice for Syracuse.

The extra game was made necessary when Syracuse and New York finished in a tie for third place. The victory kept intact the Nats' record of never having missed a playoff berth in 10 years of pro basketball competition. It is New York's first miss in the same span.

Phillies Conquer Cardinals, 2-1

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 15 (AP) — Five-hit pitching by Herman Wehmeier, Bob Miller and Saul Rogovin and a home run by Willie Jones gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 2-1 verdict over the St. Louis Cardinals today in an exhibition game.

Jones' home run came off the veteran Ellis Kinder in the fourth inning. A single by Granny Hamner and a double by Del Ennis gave the Phils their first run against the rookie-studded Cardinals.

Santee To Run In Cleveland Games Tonight

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—The fourth legal battle between miler Wes Santee and the Amateur Athletic Union took place today and it ended in a draw—Santee will run in Cleveland tomorrow night and his hearing for a permanent injunction against the AAU will come up Monday.

The hearing originally as scheduled for today, but New York State Supreme Court Justice Walter A. Lynch, after listening to opening statements by opposing counsel, suggested they might like to meet in his chambers to "narrow" the issues before going any farther.

No Agreement Reached

Both Charles P. Grimes, Santee's lawyer, and Louis Nizer, representing the AAU, agreed. The jurist obviously feared the hearing would last too long if the attorneys did not reach some agreement on just what they were arguing.

"That's fine with me," said Grimes before he entered Judge Lynch's chambers. "I've got Wes drawing up a list of his approximate costs since he has become a star attraction and he's not quite finished.

"When I put him on the stand, we'll prove that his outgo exceeded his income by $5,000. That is, it cost him $5,000 to be an amateur. And this is the thanks he gets."

Asked for comment on the proceedings, Nizer snapped:

"Let them have their field day. We'll have ours in court."

The hearings before Judge Lynch was largely a repeat performance on the part of Grimes and Nizer, who first presented their arguments to Judge Irving Levey of the same court last Friday. He granted a continuance of the injunction which prohibits the AAU from carrying out its lifetime ban against Santee.

Grimes challenged the authority of the AAU's executive committee, which suspended Santee for life Feb. 19 for allegedly accepting exessive expenses in meets last year. Grimes said the evidence should have been weighed by the runner's home district, the Missouri Valley Assn.

Regulars Avoid Wes

In his last two races in New York and Philadelphia, only token fields have run against Santee. The "regulars" have avoided him because they fear for their Olympic eligibility. The IOC has the power to bar everyone who ever has run against Santee, so the same type of field probably will oppose Santee tomorrow.

Ray Heins Named Pro At Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, March 15 (AP) — Ray Heins, a 35-year-old Baltimorean, today was named golf pro at Annapolis Country Club succeeding Frank Tenney, who will return to the White Flint Course in Montgomery County.

Heins, who has been assistant pro at the Baldoc Hills Country Club in Pittsburgh for the past two years, is scheduled to take over the top job here March 24. He became a professional golfer in 1953 after a successful amateur career in the Baltimore area.

Long's Homer Wins For Bucs

Three-Run Wallop Defeats Nats, 4-3

ORLANDO, Fla., March 15 (AP)—Dale Long's three-run homer off Dick Brodowski in the fifth inning led the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-3 victory over Washington today in a battle of the major leagues' cellar clubs.

Long's blast over the right field fence followed a single by Dick Cole and a double by Bobby Del Greco. The Pirates had scored a run in the second inning off Brodowski when Bill Hall doubled and Ray Swartz singled.

Kentucky And Iowa Favorites

Picked Over Wayne, Morehead Tonight

IOWA CITY, Iowa, March 15 (AP) —Big 10 champion Iowa and Kentucky of the Southeastern Conference, highly ranked teams in the final Associated Press poll, are favored in the first round of the National Collegiate Regional Basketball Tournament here tomorrow night.

Iowa meets little Morehead (Ky) State (about 900 enrollment), which averaged 96.4 points a game to lead the nation in scoring, about two hours after Kentucky and Wayne of Detroit open the regional tourney at 8:30 p.m. (EST).

The two winners play Saturday night with the champion advancing to the finals at Evanston, Ill. next week.

Although its 18-9 record is fourth best in this regional, Morehead's fast break offense has carried it over the 100-point mark in 10 games this season.

"I have never seen a team fast break so quickly and with such consistency," said Iowa scout Rollie Williams after Morehead beat Marshall 107-92 in a playoff game Monday night.

In successfully defending its Big 10 championship and winning its last 14 games, fourth-ranked Iowa topped its conference in defense, 68.1 points a game.

Wayne carries a 17-game winning streak into its game with Kentucky (19-5), which placed ninth in the final AP poll.

Logart And Ortega Fight At Garden

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP) — Cuba's Isaac (Kid) Logart and Gaspar (Indian) Ortega, both fast-rising young welterweights, meet in the 10-round main event at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

The 22-year-old Logart, latest "keed" sensation from Camaguey, Cuba, the third ranked world welterweight challenger, now has won four in a row.

Ortega hails from Mexicali, Mexico, and has graduated into the Garden main event because of his spectacular performances in recent semi-finals. Now 20, the Mexican flash last year won 8 of 10 bouts.

The bout will be televised and broadcast (NBC) at 10 p.m.

Giants Even Up Chicago Series

MESA, Ariz., March 15 (AP) — The New York Giants squared their spring series with the Chicago Cubs at one game apiece today, by ringing up a 5-1 victory behind the five-hit pitching of Al Worthington, Johnny McCall and Hoyt Wilhelm.

Worthington, working the first four innings, gave the Bruins their lone run, a second inning homer by rookie shortstop Ed Winceniak. McCall went the next four and Wilhelm pitched the ninth.

Gernert, taking over first base for the first time this season, drove pinch - runner Gordy Windhorn across the plate to climax on uphill battle.

Boston came from behind in the eighth on a walk to Billy Klaus and singles by Gene Stephens and rookie Bob Jenkins to send the game into extra innings.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 15 (INS)—Those two Italian gentlemen of more than considerable talents, Dino De Laurentiis and Vittorio Di Saca, have combined to film a modern love story. Heretofore, De Laurentiis's partner has been Carlo Ponti, and together they have made some of Italy's most important pictures, including "War and Peace."

In the modern, as yet untitled tale, two of Rome's leading actresses and beauties, Gina Lollobrigida and Silvana Magnano (Mrs. De Laurentiis in private life) will share femme billing with Di Sica, a good actor as well as a director, as the male star.

Apparently, Lollobrigida doesn't mind having Magnano for competition, but all the money in the world wouldn't tempt her to appear in a picture with Sophia Loren, her deadliest rival for acting honors in Italy.

Fred MacMurray goes back to Universal-International next month for "Gun for a Coward," a western. At this writing all sorts of offers have been made to June Haver to co-star with Fred.

June hasn't made a picture since she became Mrs. MacMurray and I don't believe she's of a mind to accept this offer. She even goes with Fred when he goes duck shooting, and to her the most important thing in her life is being a good wife.

This is a return engagement for Fred at U-I, with William Allen as his producer.

Mickey Rooney, who has been quite sick, is better and back at work on "Francis and the Haunted House" at Universal-International. I asked him about the reports that Wally Cox (Mr. Peepers) had walked out of "Hinky-Dinky Parlez Vous," Mickey's next picture at Republic.

"That's right. Wally decided against doing the picture, giving as his excuse that the time was bad for him and he had other commitments in the east to consider. I think he made a mistake," said Mickey, "but of course I wouldn't hold him against his wishes."

It was Mickey who followed Mr. Peepers into Las Vegas when Mr. Peepers had his much publicized flop.

I swear, — when Barbara Stanwyck isn't making a movie she's at the movies looking at someone else's! The movie ushers at the Beverly movie houses know Barbara so well they chat with her about their children and diets and everything else under the sun before the picture goes on.

It's certainly no news to hear that Missy is going to make a new picture. She signed yesterday to co-star with Joel McCrea in "Trooper Hook," a whoop-'em-up western by Jack Schaeffer who wrote "Shane." It'll be Sol Baer Fielding's first independent for United Artists, his first production since leaving MGM.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Unexpectedly Phyllis Gates Hudson returned to Hollywood from New York. She was so sick with virus she decided to come straight home instead of going to Nogales on location with Rock as she had planned.

Some years ago the newspapers printed that Audrey Hepburn was engaged to marry James Hansen, rich Britisher. Well, he's in town and has been escorting some of the Motorama lovelies about.

Bill Holden has applied for a visa to go to Russia this summer after he completes "Toward the Unknown" at Warners. He would simply go as a tourist.

Maria Felix, one of Mexico's top film actresses and beauties, has arrived in town for her personal appearance at the Million Dollar Theatre on Monday.

Teresa Wright, who completely lost her voice and had to spend several days in bed, tells me she has never had as much reaction as she did from her performance in the "Louella Parsons Story." I can tell her I have never had more telegrams and letters all praising her to the skies.

If Bob Crosby should win an Emmy, his daughter Cathy will have to pick it up — he won't be able to get away from Las Vegas.

James Dunne is going great guns on his TV show "It's a Great Life." When I asked what had become of him, I meant motion picture wise.

Piper Laurie and Gene Nelson still very much thataway about each other, having a spaghetti dinner at the Chianti.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

It Needs A Theater

Laurence Olivier's production of Shakespeare's "Richard III", which NBC-TV broadcast in its three hour entirety last Sunday, was a memorable but not altogether satisfying experience.

To get right at the crux of the matter the picture was shot for movie houses with their huge screens. Cut down to a 21 inch screen much of the impact of the acting was lost. Even the story line which, with its complicated problems in lineage and succession is pretty complex at best, especially to Americans who are not nearly so interested in who wears the crown as the English are, got awfully blurred at times.

Olivier likes long shots which I imagine in a movie house will be splendid. But on a small screen I was frequently confused as to who was talking — the Duke of Buckingham, the Duke of Clarence or whoever. It's hard enough to keep all those dukes straight on the stage; on a small screen it was mighty confusing. The only duke who was always clearly identifiable was Gloucester — Olivier himself — who pursued his sinister malevolences with ringing clarity of voice and body.

Olivier was director, producer, and even to a certain extent writer since he inserted scenes from earlier plays, and he rather overplayed his own role and cut down on the roles of others. There was just a little too much of this much-maligned king who modern historians believe was really not a bad fellow at all.

Olivier is not one to shrink from opulence and this production was nothing if not magnificent. In makeup and costume and scenery he literally shot the works and the result was a procession of pageantry and imagery of great eloquence. Many of the scenes were put together architecturally so that they resembled Flemish paintings with the figures and backgrounds superbly organized and composed.

TV producers who are working color can learn a lot from Olivier in the use of color to create moods. Occasionally he even uses the absence of color to set a mood and this is very effective too. For instance, when he had finally stolen the crown, his costumes changed from predominant red to predominant black with only bright red gloves to symbolize his impressive roster of murders.

"Richard III" was presented as a "Wide Wide World" program. I can't think why. The intrusion of Garroway in 15th Century England was jarring and his comments — "There seems to be no limit to Richard's evil ambitions" — had a soap opera quality about them (one line: "An afternoon in the late 15th Century" reminded me strongly of a theater program which read: Act one—A house in Athens, 4th Century B.C. — Act Two — The next day — Act III — Several hours later).

The release of the picture on television before it hits the theaters, which began running the picture the same night, is strongly experimental and the results will be carefully watched. Will exposure to millions of potential theater-goers encourage or inhibit attendance at movie houses? Nobody knows. One thing is clear though. Really to get flavor of Olivier's "Richard III" you'll have to see it in a theater. I don't even feel qualified to pass judgment on the other baronets in the picture — Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Sir Ralph Richardson and Sir John Gielgud — until I get a little closer to them.

Olivier's performance was studied and fiery and reached pinnacles of greatness, but I don't think it matches either his Hamlet or Henry V. Claire Bloom as the unfortunate Lady Anne was beautiful and haunting.

MISLEADING PARTNER

IT IS NOT dangerous—usually—to make a psychic bid, assuming that you have an understanding partner, but it is dangerous to start off in this fashion and then follow up as West did in the following case.

West dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North-South 40 on score.

	♠ K 5 ♥ J 7 4 3 2 ♦ 8 3 ♣ A 9 8 4
♠ 9 4 3 ♥ K 10 9 6 ♦ 9 5 2 ♣ Q 10 2	N W E S	♠ A 7 2 ♥ A Q 8 5 ♦ A J 10 7 ♣ 6 5
	♠ Q J 10 8 6 ♥ — ♦ K Q 6 4 ♣ K J 7 3

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Dble.
1 ♠	1 NT	Pass	2 ♠
3 ♥	Dble.	Pass	3 ♠
Pass	Pass	4 ♦	Dble.
4 ♥	Dble. (final bid)

The outcome of all this bidding was that East went down 800 points at four hearts, whereas South would have been down at least 200 points at three spades. Thus, a minimum "swing" of 1000 points was involved.

The fact that East was out of line in bidding four diamonds is only incidental. That call was not the result of East's failing to "catch" his partner's psychic spade bid—the trouble was that East was sure it had been a psychic, but he was then misled by West's subsequent actions.

When North overcalled one spade with one notrump—a questionable but very lucky move on his part—and South then bid and rebid spades, East could not help getting the fixed idea that West was very short in the suit—that he had had strong fears about the enemy's bidding it. On top of this was the fact that West then bid three hearts. Actually, this latter bid was more dangerous, and even more misleading, than the psychic spade bid. Added to the other "evidence," it convinced East of two false facts: that his own defense against three spades was not adequate; and that West must have distributional values, since he so obviously lacked high cards. Certainly, East could not imagine that West would turn up with the horrible 4-3-3-3 distribution.

Cabinet Member Asked To Speak At GOP Meet

A member of the President's cabinet is being sought for the Lincoln-Washington Dinner to be sponsored by the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee.

James S. Getty, chairman of the state central committee, said yesterday one of two members of the Cabinet appears to be a definite possibility, and the committee is attempting to strike a suitable date.

The dinner will be held next month, Getty added. If the committee is successful, it will be the first time in recent years that a speaker of cabinet status has been acquired.

The county Democratic party organizations will have as the Jefferson - Jackson Day dinner speaker U. S. Sen. Estes Kefauver, Democratic candidate for the presidential nomination. That dinner will be held Monday, April 9, in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

MISLEADING PARTNER

IT IS NOT dangerous—usually—to make a psychic bid, assuming that you have an understanding partner, but it is dangerous to start off in this fashion and then follow up as West did in the following case.

West dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North-South 40 on score.

	♠ K 5 ♥ J 7 4 3 2 ♦ 8 3 ♣ A 9 8 4
♠ 9 4 3 ♥ K 10 9 6 ♦ 9 5 2 ♣ Q 10 2	N W E S	♠ A 7 2 ♥ A Q 8 5 ♦ A J 10 7 ♣ 6 5
	♠ Q J 10 8 6 ♥ — ♦ K Q 6 4 ♣ K J 7 3

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Dble.
1 ♠	1 NT	Pass	2 ♠
3 ♥	Dble.	Pass	3 ♠
Pass	Pass	4 ♦	Dble.
4 ♥	Dble. (final bid)

The outcome of all this bidding was that East went down 800 points at four hearts, whereas South would have been down at least 200 points at three spades. Thus, a minimum "swing" of 1000 points was involved.

The fact that East was out of line in bidding four diamonds is only incidental. That call was not the result of East's failing to "catch" his partner's psychic spade bid—the trouble was that East was sure it had been a psychic, but he was then misled by West's subsequent actions.

When North overcalled one spade with one notrump—a questionable but very lucky move on his part—and South then bid and rebid spades, East could not help getting the fixed idea that West was very short in the suit—that he had had strong fears about the enemy's bidding it. On top of this was the fact that West then bid three hearts. Actually, this latter bid was more dangerous, and even more misleading, than the psychic spade bid. Added to the other "evidence," it convinced East of two false facts: that his own defense against three spades was not adequate; and that West must have distributional values, since he so obviously lacked high cards. Certainly, East could not imagine that West would turn up with the horrible 4-3-3-3 distribution.

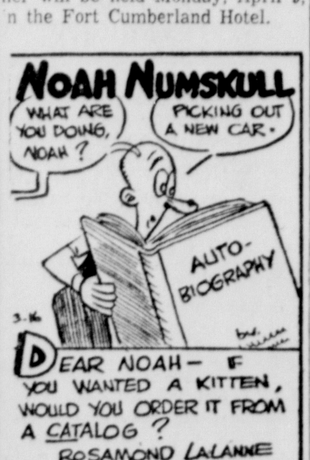
Cabinet Member Asked To Speak At GOP Meet

A member of the President's cabinet is being sought for the Lincoln-Washington Dinner to be sponsored by the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee.

James S. Getty, chairman of the state central committee, said yesterday one of two members of the Cabinet appears to be a definite possibility, and the committee is attempting to strike a suitable date.

The dinner will be held next month, Getty added. If the committee is successful, it will be the first time in recent years that a speaker of cabinet status has been acquired.

The county Democratic party organizations will have as the Jefferson - Jackson Day dinner speaker U. S. Sen. Estes Kefauver, Democratic candidate for the presidential nomination. That dinner will be held Monday, April 9, in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.



"I TOLD ya the fat guy would have pie!"

"... Seems like only yesterday that WE were the dumb parents ... And now Junior is one! ..."

Catches Ace Back

CHARLOTTSVILLE, VA. (AP)—Ben S. Martin, the University of Virginia's new head football coach, finally has caught up with Iranian fullback Jim Bakhtiar.

A couple of years ago, Martin was No. 1 assistant coach to Navy's Eddie Erdelatz. Bakhtiar was one of the most sought after high school players.

"I tried to get him to the Naval Academy but failed," Martin remembers. "Now I'm following him to Virginia."

Bakhtiar will be a junior at Virginia next season. Martin plans to build the Cavalier attack around the bruising native of Iran.

West Virginia May Be Forced To Stop Races

State Has No Funds For Track Personnel

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 15 (AP)—A serious possibility appeared today that there will be no more horse racing in West Virginia this fiscal year. The reason—the State Racing Commission has no money.

At the same time, the State faced a possible loss of about one million dollars in revenue which could be expected in the form of pari-mutuel pool and other taxes in the 60 days which would be wiped out.

A 1956 legislative enactment first tossed the commission for a loss by heavily tapping for school teachers' salaries a special revenue account from which the commission normally has met part of its operating expense.

Today, the racing group received an additional double dose of financing rebuff in efforts to find money to pay required race track personnel.

The first came as Gov. William C. Marland told the three commissioners that virtually all of the money in his contingent fund is earmarked for a continuing industrial development program. Money he could provide would fall far short of the commission's needs.

In the second new setback, the commission was advised by the Attorney General's office that it cannot legally get relief from funds now in the hands of the state treasurer, but representing parimutuel tax revenue.

Placed in immediate jeopardy were scheduled April 21 - May 26 and May 28 - July 12 racing meetings at Wheeling Downs' half-mile oval and at Waterford Park's one-mile track near Chester, respectively. Another Charles Town meeting is to open June 30.

Commission Chairman John F. Ambrose of Charles Town put the problem this way after today's double setback:

"Unless the money we need—about $25,000 for the remainder of the fiscal year - is provided by some means, I don't see how we can expect to race in West Virginia."

He and the other two commission members, Roy V. Graham of Huntington and Ralph F. LePore of Wheeling, added that, as of the moment, they had no additional ideas with respect to obtaining the funds.

Six Contests

area playoffs in West Virginia. In the District One tourney, the upcreek aggregation ushered out Southern of Oakland, 58-54 and trounced Thurmont of Frederick county in the finale, 65-36. Valley's overall record is the same as that of Allegany—18-5.

Arundel trimmed Aberdeen, of Harford county, two-times winner over Bel Air, 54-42, and won the District III championship by downing Franklin High of Baltimore county in the finals, 60-43.

The Valley-Arundel victor will play the team emerging victorious in today's Oxon Hill-Cambridge game in Saturday's "B" championship affair at 7:30. Today's Oxon Hill (Prince Georges County) and Cambridge (Dorchester county) contest is billed for 4 o'clock.

Class "C" semi-finals round out today's College Park program.

Manchester High (Carroll county) plays Crisfield (Somerset county) at 2:30 and Lackey High, Indian Head (Charles County) does battle with Centerville(Queen Anne's County) at 6 o'clock. The finals will be staged Saturday at 6. George "Gimp" Carrington, formerly of Frostburg State Teachers College, is principal of Crisfield High School.

CHARLOTTSVILLE, VA. (AP)—Ben S. Martin, the University of Virginia's new head football coach, finally has caught up with Iranian fullback Jim Bakhtiar.

Bakhtiar will be a junior at Virginia next season. Martin plans to build the Cavalier attack around the bruising native of Iran.

West Virginia May Be Forced To Stop Races

State Has No Funds For Track Personnel

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 15 (AP)—A serious possibility appeared today that there will be no more horse racing in West Virginia this fiscal year. The reason—the State Racing Commission has no money.

At the same time, the State faced a possible loss of about one million dollars in revenue which could be expected in the form of pari-mutuel pool and other taxes in the 60 days which would be wiped out.

A 1956 legislative enactment first tossed the commission for a loss by heavily tapping for school teachers' salaries a special revenue account from which the commission normally has met part of its operating expense.

Today, the racing group received an additional double dose of financing rebuff in efforts to find money to pay required race track personnel.

The first came as Gov. William C. Marland told the three commissioners that virtually all of the money in his contingent fund is earmarked for a continuing industrial development program. Money he could provide would fall far short of the commission's needs.

In the second new setback, the commission was advised by the Attorney General's office that it cannot legally get relief from funds now in the hands of the state treasurer, but representing parimutuel tax revenue.

Placed in immediate jeopardy were scheduled April 21 - May 26 and May 28 - July 12 racing meetings at Wheeling Downs' half-mile oval and at Waterford Park's one-mile track near Chester, respectively. Another Charles Town meeting is to open June 30.

Commission Chairman John F. Ambrose of Charles Town put the problem this way after today's double setback:

"Unless the money we need—about $25,000 for the remainder of the fiscal year - is provided by some means, I don't see how we can expect to race in West Virginia."

He and the other two commission members, Roy V. Graham of Huntington and Ralph F. LePore of Wheeling, added that, as of the moment, they had no additional ideas with respect to obtaining the funds.

area playoffs in West Virginia. In the District One tourney, the upcreek aggregation ushered out Southern of Oakland, 58-54 and trounced Thurmont of Frederick county in the finale, 65-36. Valley's overall record is the same as that of Allegany—18-5.

Arundel trimmed Aberdeen, of Harford county, two-times winner over Bel Air, 54-42, and won the District III championship by downing Franklin High of Baltimore county in the finals, 60-43.

The Valley-Arundel victor will play the team emerging victorious in today's Oxon Hill-Cambridge game in Saturday's "B" championship affair at 7:30. Today's Oxon Hill (Prince Georges County) and Cambridge (Dorchester county) contest is billed for 4 o'clock.

Class "C" semi-finals round out today's College Park program.

Manchester High (Carroll county) plays Crisfield (Somerset county) at 2:30 and Lackey High, Indian Head (Charles County) does battle with Centerville(Queen Anne's County) at 6 o'clock. The finals will be staged Saturday at 6. George "Gimp" Carrington, formerly of Frostburg State Teachers College, is principal of Crisfield High School.

Wirth Outlines Parkway Route

Relocated Md. 51 Will Be Used

Plans for the route of the C & O Canal Parkway between Cumberland and Hancock were received by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce yesterday from Conrad L. Wirth, director of the National Park Service.

"We believe," Wirth said, "that a scenic highway can be built from Cumberland to Hancock, generally using State Highway 51 as far as Paw Paw and following a new alignment above the bluffs of the (Potomac) river from there to a point in the vicinity of Woodmont which would connect with a road to U. S. 40."

"Lateral access roads to the canal and gorge of the Potomac could then be built," he said, "as they are needed."

Beall Lauds Plan

Senator J. Glenn Beall, who has led a five-year fight for the parkway, commented from Washington that the road being planned will be "perfectly lovely."

The plan, he said, is being worked out to take advantage of plans of the Maryland State Roads Commission for a modern four-lane highway between Cumberland and Kifer.

The highway being planned by the SRC, he said, provides for the development of campsites along the relocated Route 51.

He said the work will begin at Hancock, at the east end of the "beautiful ride," so its construction will not interfere with work on the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Works 7 at North Branch, and the $10,000,000 yard improvement program planned in Cumberland by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The details of the plan, Wirth told Anthony Saeli, manager of the Chamber, are to be worked out with the Maryland State Roads Commission and others concerned.

To Be Outstanding

He added that when "this development as we now visualize it" has been accomplished, the area will be one of the outstanding parks in the country."

It should, he said, prove to be "a great asset to the people of Cumberland, to the state of Maryland and the nation as a whole."

Wirth said he had been asked by Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay to express thanks for the Chamber's letter, which endorsed the department's program of preservation and use of the historic C & O Canal and the plan for development of a scenic highway between Cumberland and Hancock.

"Such a program," Wirth said, "will enable us to concentrate our planning on preservation and development of the area's attractions and also make it possible for us to try to locate a road where it will give access to those attractions."

Early this month, McKay termed the plan to build a parkway on high ground above the C & O Canal "a happy solution" to the parkway vs. park controversy.

Announces Solution

He said the parkway will be built on high ground above the historic waterway instead of on the towpath as originally proposed.

His endorsement followed an announcement by Senator J. Glenn Beall late in February that the department had agreed on the parkway under a plan which will preserve the natural beauty of one of the nation's first canals.

Leaders of this area have termed the go ahead on the parkway plan of major importance to the future of the area.

The news of the decision was also hailed by the Washington Post, which said editorially:

"We think the parkway ought eventually to be extended from Hancock toward Washington, particularly to link the Antietam battlefields with Harpers Ferry and the historical park."

Soldier Admits 'Kidnap' Story Was 'Wild Tale'

Police Question, Release Garletts

Local authorities said yesterday no charges will be placed against Malcolm Garletts, the 23-year-old soldier who has admitted he invented a kidnaping story to explain his trip to Rocky Mount, N. C., Monday.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher said Garletts admitted in a statement to investigators that his story that he was forced at gunpoint to take two men on a ride to North Carolina was a "hoax."

"Unless authorities in Rocky Mount wish to prefer charges against him," Fletcher stated, "there is nothing we can do here as no crime was committed. He'll have enough to do to explain the incident to his wife."

The local serviceman admitted the entire story was a "wild tale" after an hour and a half of questioning yesterday morning by Detective Lt. James E. Van and Detective Thomas See of the City Police Department. He told the detectives he had driven to North Carolina to see a "friend."

Stationed with the Army at Fort Carson, Colo., Garletts was on leave because of a death in his wife's family. He is due to return to Colorado Monday.

Garletts told authorities he had been stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C., until last July and that he had met his "friend" there. He said he decided on the spur of the moment Monday afternoon to make the trip to Rocky Mount.

The soldier, who resides at 32 Roberts Street, told authorities in Rocky Mount that after getting a haircut in Cumberland on Monday he had been kidnaped by two men carrying pistols and was forced to drive them to North Carolina.

When he failed to make his appearance in Cumberland Tuesday after phoning his wife late Monday night, he said he became fatigued, ran into some bad weather, and pulled his automobile off the highway to sleep until 11 a. m. Tuesday. He returned home Tuesday afternoon.

Jurors Return $1,500 Verdict In Condemnation

A $1,500 verdict was awarded to Frederick L. Hurt and Mamie L. Hurt, his wife, by an Allegany County Circuit Court jury which deliberated about 30 minutes yesterday in a condemnation suit brought by the State Roads Commission.

The SRC seeks a small tract of land adjacent to the Hurts' home along the south side of Bedford Road just beyond the city limits to improve a drainage condition in the area. A 42-inch line runs under U.S. Route 220 onto the land now.

Charles D. Long of LaVale was foreman of the 11-member jury of six men and five women which heard the case. Opposing attorneys agreed to have 11 jurors hear the case when the 12th juror was called out of town.

Edward J. Ryan and Thomas B. Finan, attorneys for the Hurts, called real estate men as witnesses who placed the value of the property at $3,500 to $4,200 in view of the effect the drainage ditch has upon their seven-room frame house which was built in 1938.

Simon F. Reilly and Frederick A. Puderbaugh, attorneys for the SRC, contended that the Hurts had paid only $100 for the lot in question and the $550 deposited with the clerk of court represented a fair price for the tract.

Chief Judge George Henderson, who presided at the day long trial, and the jurors visited the scene, which is located just north of the point where Bedford and Frederick streets meet just beyond the city limits.

LaVale Crash Victim's Kin Seeks $100,000

Mrs. Lloyd Files Suit In Court Here

A $100,000 damage suit growing out of the tragic accident which took five lives in LaVale last October 19 was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court by Mrs. Sarah Virginia Lloyd, RFD 1, Frostburg, mother of Miss Grace Evelyn Lloyd, 35, one of the victims.

Defendants in the $100,000 action, filed for Mrs. Lloyd by Attorney Noel Speir Cook, are Ray Wells, RFD 2, Dover, York County, Pa., owner of the tractor-trailer which struck the car in which Miss Lloyd was a passenger; Daniel Motor Freight Inc., Warren, Ohio, which leased the truck, and Paul Stewart Myers Jr., RFD 2, Dover, Pa., who was driving the truck.

The declaration charged that Myers drove the truck, which ran away while descending Big Savage Mountain, in a "willful, reckless and negligent" manner. Miss Lloyd was a passenger in the car of Clifford P. Fearer, also of Frostburg, which was demolished in the crash.

As a result of her daughter's death, Mrs. Lloyd contends that she has lost the service, care, attention, society, earnings, maintenance and support afforded her by her daughter.

Only one other legal action still is pending as a result of this fatal crash. Fearer's widow filed a $500,000 damage suit in Federal District Court in Baltimore as a result of the death of her husband, who was the 38-year-old assistant manager of the Cumberland Steel Company.

Survivors of the other three victims of the crash have settled their claims. Mrs. Kathleen Elizabeth Spearman, Frostburg, widow of Francis X. Spearman, was awarded $27,000 in a compromise settlement filed January 24 in Circuit Court here. Her son, Bernard Patrick Spearman, 19, was awarded $2,000.

Markel Service Inc., agents for American Fidelity and Casualty Company, Richmond, Va., announced early in January the settlement of two other cases for $45,000. Mrs. Dorothy Virginia Brenneman, Springs, Pa., widow of Samuel Brenneman, was awarded $30,000 and Mrs. Nellie W. Thomas, Frostburg, mother of Miss Nellie K. Thomas, the other victim, was awarded $15,000.

Man Is Missing

Police were notified last night that Raymond Tawlman, 33, of 343 National Highway, LaVale, is missing from his home.

His wife reported that he left for work Monday morning at the Western Maryland Railway Company. He is five feet, 11 inches tall, has dark brown hair and blue eyes. Tawlman was reported to have been wearing blue jeans, an O. D. Army jacket and a red checkered cap.

Two Area Men Join US Navy

Two area men enlisted in the U. S. Navy this week at the local recruiting office.

Frank Vernon Smith Jr., Flintstone, enlisted for three years, and Raymond Paul Bunner, Valley Road, enlisted for a minority period. Both men went to Bainbridge to begin training.

Drifting Tractor Knocks Out Police Telephone Box

Box 6, at the intersection of Commerce and Williams streets, a direct telephone line to Police Headquarters, was knocked out of operation last evening when a drifting tractor of a tractor-trailer ran into a telephone pole at the intersection.

Police Officer Warren Brehm said the driver, John Paul, had parked the rig, and the tractor slowly drifted away for about 150 feet, rammed against the pole, and knocked out the box. The pole was not damaged much by the impact. Paul drives for the Bissett Steel Company of Cleveland.

ICEC Group To Meet Tuesday Evening

A film, "Forget Not These Children," will be shown at the next meeting of the Allegany County Chapter of the International Council for Exceptional Children at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the City Hall council chamber.

This film was prepared by the New Jersey State Department of Institutions and Agencies. A new constitution will be approved and plans will be made for the spring meeting and elections to be held in May, according to Miss M. Jean Camper, president.

New Parkside School Dedicated

Miss Margaret Doak, principal of the new Parkside School at LaVale, is congratulated by James L. Reid, superintendent of school plant planning for the State Department of Education, as the new school was dedicated last night. In the photo are (left to right) Ralph R. Webster, county school superintendent; Miss Doak, Mrs. Stanley Buckley, county Board of Education member who presented the school to Miss Doak; Reid, and Merle Zembower, president of the Parkside School PTA, who was master of ceremonies at the dedication. City Auditor Author B. Gibson was principal speaker.

Fuller Low Bidder On Area Plant

Jesse Fuller and Son of Frostburg was the apparent low bidder for construction of the proposed factory of the M. Berkowitz Company plant in that community.

Fuller's bid submitted to the Mayor and Council was $78,326.

Other bids received and opened last night were: George Construction Company, $89,620; R. G. Robertson Inc., $89,927; George F. Hazelwood Company, $92,515, and the Fairchance Lumber Company, $94,000.

Alternate bids received for a sprinkler system for work tables are as follows:

Fairchance, $1,650; George Construction, $1,731; Robertson, $1,850; Fuller, $1,906 and Hazelwood, $1,994. The Mayor and Council took the bids and will consider them before reaching a decision.

The proposed plant to house the Berkowitz Company which is presently manufacturing pajamas in the plant on Mechanic Street will be located in the YMI Park at the east end of Frostburg.

Before the city could proceed with the construction of the building, if Berkowitz approves one of the submitted bids, a referendum must be held to give voters an opportunity to approve or reject the floating of a bond issue to pay for the construction.

If the referendum is favorable and the building constructed, according ot the City Charter, an agreement must be entered into with Berkowitz that the cost of the construction must be paid back over a period not to exceed 25 years.

The city is empowered by the charter, subject to the approval of the citizens, to float a bond issue up to $100,000 for industrial expansion.

Scouts Will Clean Sunshine Camp Area

Some 35 members of the Boy Scout troop sponsored by Centre Street Methodist Church will spend Saturday morning clearing debris from the Sunshine Camp.

The troop, of which Herbert Lehr serves as scoutmaster, also will plant some evergreens in front of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club sponsored camp under the direction of District Forester William H. Johnson. Lawrence C. Cessna, a member of the troop committee, will meet the boys at 10 a. m. Saturday at the Dingle service station.

Columnist Addresses Civic Club

A charming and intimate glimpse into the background of international society and the lives of President Eisenhower and his close associates....

This was the subject told with humor and dignity by Washington columnist Mrs. Dorothy McCardle at last night's 10th annual men's dinner meeting of the Woman's Civic Club of Cumberland at Ali-Ghan Shrine Club.

Mrs. McCardle, popular journalist who is the wife of Carl Wesley McCardle, noted Philadelphia newspaperman who was appointed Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs by President Eisenhower, was the principal speaker for the dinner attended by approximately 120 persons.

Touching principally on the health of reigning political figures, Mrs. McCardle also related many amusing incidents in the lives of diplomats and their wives concerning protocol.

Commenting on the part played by Mrs. Eisenhower in the busy life of the President, Mrs. McCardle said the First Lady's personal selection of the menus and her careful attention to her husband's diet had much to do with his recovery from his heart attack.

The President's hobbies and ability to relax also were important factors in his speedy recovery, she added. One of his hobbies, that of painting, was begun at the insistance of Mrs. Eisenhower who noted that many, such as Britain's Winston Churchill, took this form of relaxation from pressing national and international problems.

Explaining that Mrs. Eisenhower, in her capacity as the First Lady, meets an average of 700 persons per day, Mrs. McCardle said she still seems particularly glad to meet people.

Mrs. McCardle touched lightly on the differences between Mrs. Eisenhower and her predecessors, Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Truman, but added all "were very charming persons.

Mrs. Albert Heacox, vice president of the Civic Club, introduced the speaker, and Mrs. G. Morgan Smith, president, gave greetings. Mrs. Smith also introduced other officers of the club and Mayor Roy W. Eves who was a guest.

The audience was entertained by the Colomy Trio and solos by James Hager and Mrs. Joyce Zornig.

Parkside School Dedicated In Appropriate Ceremony

"This new building symbolizes the aspirations of those charged with the administration of educational affairs in Allegany County," City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson told his audience last night as principal speaker at the dedication of the new $477,000 Parkside Elementary School in LaVale.

Gibson expressed a hope that the young people of LaVale who attend this school, the newest addition to the county's expanding educational system, will find the inspiration there to defend America's freedoms.

The new building was presented by Mrs. Stanley Buckley of LaVale, a member of the County Board of Education.

"I hope the children who study here will remain as untarnished in their lives as this new school is today, "Mrs. Buckley said as she presented the building to Miss Margaret E. Doak, principal of the school since it was opened last September. Mrs. Buckley recalled that of the 26 years she has lived in LaVale, 18 have been spent in PTA activities.

Miss Doak said it will be the aim of the parents and teachers at Parkside to use the new facilities as effectively as possible in reaching the elementary school objectives.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster traced the development of a new school from the time the idea is first broached until the building is dedicated, probably a matter of three years. The idea must be supported by the Board of Education, plans must be approved to finance it, the necessary legislation must be adopted, the architect must plan the building, the contractor must build it and then it must be staffed with good teachers and principal. The real purpose of all this activity, he emphasized is to provide the best type of education for the boys and girls of Allegany County to give them a good start in the right direction.

Webster's official job on the program was the introduction of the principal speaker.

Introductory music was played by a trio consisting of Mrs. William B. Ludman, pianist; Mrs. Vernon Cost, violinist, and Mrs. Howard Irwin, cellist. Robert Moreland led the group of several hundred parents and friends of Parkside School in the singing of "America."

After the invocation by Rev. W. W. Patterson, pastor of LaVale Methodist Church, Merle Zembower, president of the PTA, presented the master of ceremonies, Walter N. Hedrick, also a PTA member.

Guests introduced by Hedrick were James L. Reid, supervisor of school plant planning for the State Board of Education; Kenneth R. Malcolm, Mrs. Albert C. Cook and J. Goodloe Jackson, all members of the County Board of Education; Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools; Miss Mildred E. Willison, supervisor of elementary schools; Dr. R. Bowen Hardesty, president of Frostburg State Teachers College; State Senator Charles M. See, Lester B. Reed, Fred B. Driscoll, Estel C. Kelley, George R. Hughes Jr., and Noel Speir Cook, all members of the House of Delegates; County Commissioners William H. Lemmert and James Orr, Dana Johannes of the Silver Spring architectural firm of Johannes and Murray, designers of the new school, and Ira H. Vandegrift of the John I. Vandegrift Company, builders of the new school.

The Allegany High School girls' octet, directed by Miss Josephine Kompanek, sang four selections, "Listen To The Mocking Bird," "Variations on a Nursery Theme," "I Heard a Forest Praying" and "Ten Little Indians." Mrs. Darlene Pepper, a fifth grade teacher at Parkside, sang "Bless This House."

Members of the PTA served refreshments in the school library after the dedication program was completed. Visitors also took advantage of the opportunity to inspect the new school.

Junior College For Cumberland Is Possibility

Looking at education in 1956, Miss Lillian Compton, retired president of Frostburg State Teachers College, last night told the West Side Parent-Teacher Association of progress being made, and needs of the school community.

Throughout the state, there is a movement to establish junior colleges or community colleges in the several cities, she said. Explaining that she had been reluctant to support such a program because she feared it might in some way hurt Frostburg State Teachers College, she has studied the program and found the idea desirable.

She said, "in fact, I hope that very soon, Cumberland will be one of the places to get such a community or junior college."

"This 1956 look at education," she observed, "seems to indicate that Cumberland needs, and so may have a two-year college of this character, as is now found in Baltimore, Hagerstown and Montgomery County."

In public schools today, she said progress is being made in relieving overcrowded classrooms and the teacher shortage. During the period from 1930 to 1940 few new schools were built. Then from 1940 for almost another decade, nothing was built, due to the war and other factors. Since then, however, a program has been started, and the school system is slowing catching up with increasing populations.

However, there is still much to be done, and many problems to be faced. Maryland needs 3,000 new teachers every year, and does not train that many. Consequently, the state has been drawing them from West Virginia and Pennsylvania and southward, because of a little higher pay schedule here, she said. However, since these states have raised their teacher pay, Maryland is having difficulty getting teachers unless the pay scale is kept high enough to attract them. She cited instances of overcrowding classrooms and teacher shortage in some Maryland counties.

Miss Compton was introduced by Mrs. A. J. Mirkin, vice president and program chairman.

At a business meeting which followed, a nominating committee including Mrs. Richard Cook, Mrs. William Harrison and Raymond Skidmore, was elected. This committee will make a report for the election meeting to be held in May.

Reports were made on fun night and other activities, and a membership of 268 was noted. Arnold Ballard was appointed institutional representative of the PTA Cub Pack. F. Allan Weatherholt, president, presided at the meeting. Refreshments were served in the school cafeteria.

Rec Board Asks City To Acquire South End Site

Urges Court Action To Get Price Down

The Cumberland Recreation Board this week renewed its recommendation that the City of Cumberland use part of the proceeds of a $150,000 recreation bond issue to acquire and develop a 21-acre site in South Cumberland, and to use its powers of condemnation to see if the land can be secured at a reasonable price.

The report, approved at an executive session in City Hall Tuesday night, also recommends that the city acquire and develop for recreational purposes undeveloped land beyond Ridgedale Reservoir and pointed out the possibility of securing for future recreation development land adjacent to the North End recreation center.

About $135,000 of the proceeds of the bonds sold in 1954 will be left after improvements to city owned or leased play centers, recommended last year, are carried out, the Board said.

South View Addition is located south of Jane Frazier Village. A National Recreation Association survey made for the Board recommended "that the principal part, if not all, of the $150,000 bond issue funds now available be used to acquire and develop a site of as near 30 acres of additional land in South View Addition as a playfield, which should adjoin a future school site; that the development be one of two complete, yearround, indoor-outdoor centers to be provided, that the City and Board of Education cooperate in working out these projects," according to a report which accompanied the department's budget request last year.

The Recreation Board recommendations have been forwarded to Mayor Roy W. Eves, who has made copies available to all members of the City Council, so the proposal can be discussed Monday when the Mayor and Council meets.

Recommendations Cited

The Board's recommendations on the use of the bond money follows:

"The Recreation Board has been requested to submit to the Mayor and Council its recommendations regarding the use to be made of the $150,000 bond issue.

"At the outset it should be stated that the Board cannot offer a completely satisfactory solution to the recreation problem in Cumberland. The greatest difficulty is the securing of proper sites for playfields and playgrounds. There is very little level ground inside the city limits which is unimproved and which is located within a reasonable distance for those for whom it is intended.

"Then too, while $150,000 is apparently a substantial amount, when we try to allocate it to the needs of the various parts of town it can be seen that it will not go far enough.

"You will recall that in 1955 recommendations were made for improvements to certain city owned and leased playgrounds. A few of these were completed, and some of the others have not yet been carried out. If these were all carried out the cost would be in the neighborhood of $35,000, leaving about $115,000 of the bond issue money.

"You will also recall that the survey of the National Recreation Association pointed out the need for securing adequate playfields—20 acres or more of each—in various sections of the city, and recommended that first consideration be given to securing the land in South View Addition. This recommendation was approved by the Board, and it was discussed with your body. The cost of acquiring this land was estimated by a competent realtor to be in the neighborhood of $50,000.

Price Too High

"Objection was made to this because it would result in removing from tax books too much taxable property. However, we were finally authorized to attempt to secure options on the property in order to find out for what amount the necessary land could be bought. The two real estate agents who were selected to do this work believed that the cost of securing the properties (two of which were improved) should not exceed $55,000.

"Our Board felt that one of these improved properties was not essential to our purpose, since it was located in an extreme corner of the whole tract. But even though this was left out, it was discovered that the various lot owners were asking such prices that the total cost of the necessary properties will be about $75,000 if the options were exercised.

"The real estate men advised us that these prices are unreasonably high, since the properties were bought only about five years ago for relatively small amounts, and the total assessment figures total only a fifth of what is being asked for the properties.

"In the meanwhile, the matter of the possibility of the building

Relocated Md. 51 Will Be Used

Plans for the route of the C & O Canal Parkway between Cumberland and Hancock were received by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce yesterday from Conrad L. Wirth, director of the National Park Service.

"We believe," Wirth said, "that a scenic highway can be built from Cumberland to Hancock, generally using State Highway 51 as far as Paw Paw and following a new alignment above the bluffs of the (Potomac) river from there to a point in the vicinity of Woodmont which would connect with a road to U. S. 40."

"Lateral access roads to the canal and gorge of the Potomac could then be built," he said, "as they are needed."

Beall Lauds Plan

Senator J. Glenn Beall, who has led a five-year fight for the parkway, commented from Washington that the road being planned will be "perfectly lovely."

The plan, he said, is being worked out to take advantage of plans of the Maryland State Roads Commission for a modern four-lane highway between Cumberland and Kifer.

The highway being planned by the SRC, he said, provides for the development of campsites along the relocated Route 51.

He said the work will begin at Hancock, at the east end of the "beautiful ride," so its construction will not interfere with work on the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Works 7 at North Branch, and the $10,000,000 yard improvement program planned in Cumberland by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The details of the plan, Wirth told Anthony Saeli, manager of the Chamber, are to be worked out with the Maryland State Roads Commission and others concerned.

To Be Outstanding

He added that when "this development as we now visualize it" has been accomplished, the area will be one of the outstanding parks in the country."

It should, he said, prove to be "a great asset to the people of Cumberland, to the state of Maryland and the nation as a whole."

Wirth said he had been asked by Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay to express thanks for the Chamber's letter, which endorsed the department's program of preservation and use of the historic C & O Canal and the plan for development of a scenic highway between Cumberland and Hancock.

"Such a program," Wirth said, "will enable us to concentrate our planning on preservation and development of the area's attractions and also make it possible for us to try to locate a road where it will give access to those attractions."

Early this month, McKay termed the plan to build a parkway on high ground above the C & O Canal "a happy solution" to the parkway vs. park controversy.

Announces Solution

He said the parkway will be built on high ground above the historic waterway instead of on the towpath as originally proposed.

His endorsement followed an announcement by Senator J. Glenn Beall late in February that the department had agreed on the parkway under a plan which will preserve the natural beauty of one of the nation's first canals.

Leaders of this area have termed the go ahead on the parkway plan of major importance to the future of the area.

The news of the decision was also hailed by the Washington Post, which said editorially:

"We think the parkway ought eventually to be extended from Hancock toward Washington, particularly to link the Antietam battlefields with Harpers Ferry and the historical park."

Soldier Admits 'Kidnap' Story Was 'Wild Tale'

Police Question, Release Garletts

Local authorities said yesterday no charges will be placed against Malcolm Garletts, the 23-year-old soldier who has admitted he invented a kidnaping story to explain his trip to Rocky Mount, N. C., Monday.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher said Garletts admitted in a statement to investigators that his story that he was forced at gunpoint to take two men on a ride to North Carolina was a "hoax."

"Unless authorities in Rocky Mount wish to prefer charges against him," Fletcher stated, "there is nothing we can do here as no crime was committed. He'll have enough to do to explain the incident to his wife."

The local serviceman admitted the entire story was a "wild tale" after an hour and a half of questioning yesterday morning by Detective Lt. James E. Van and Detective Thomas See of the City Police Department. He told the detectives he had driven to North Carolina to see a "friend."

Stationed with the Army at Fort Carson, Colo., Garletts was on leave because of a death in his wife's family. He is due to return to Colorado Monday.

Garletts told authorities he had been stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C., until last July and that he had met his "friend" there. He said he decided on the spur of the moment Monday afternoon to make the trip to Rocky Mount.

The soldier, who resides at 32 Roberts Street, told authorities in Rocky Mount that after getting a haircut in Cumberland on Monday he had been kidnaped by two men carrying pistols and was forced to drive them to North Carolina.

When he failed to make his appearance in Cumberland Tuesday after phoning his wife late Monday night, he said he became fatigued, ran into some bad weather, and pulled his automobile off the highway to sleep until 11 a. m. Tuesday. He returned home Tuesday afternoon.

Jurors Return $1,500 Verdict In Condemnation

A $1,500 verdict was awarded to Frederick L. Hurt and Mamie L. Hurt, his wife, by an Allegany County Circuit Court jury which deliberated about 30 minutes yesterday in a condemnation suit brought by the State Roads Commission.

The SRC seeks a small tract of land adjacent to the Hurts' home along the south side of Bedford Road just beyond the city limits to improve a drainage condition in the area. A 42-inch line runs under U.S. Route 220 onto the land now.

Charles D. Long of LaVale was foreman of the 11-member jury of six men and five women which heard the case. Opposing attorneys agreed to have 11 jurors hear the case when the 12th juror was called out of town.

Edward J. Ryan and Thomas B. Finan, attorneys for the Hurts, called real estate men as witnesses who placed the value of the property at $3,500 to $4,200 in view of the effect the drainage ditch has upon their seven-room frame house which was built in 1938.

Simon F. Reilly and Frederick A. Puderbaugh, attorneys for the SRC, contended that the Hurts had paid only $100 for the lot in question and the $550 deposited with the clerk of court represented a fair price for the tract.

Chief Judge George Henderson, who presided at the day long trial, and the jurors visited the scene, which is located just north of the point where Bedford and Frederick streets meet just beyond the city limits.

LaVale Crash Victim's Kin Seeks $100,000

Mrs. Lloyd Files Suit In Court Here

A $100,000 damage suit growing out of the tragic accident which took five lives in LaVale last October 19 was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court by Mrs. Sarah Virginia Lloyd, RFD 1, Frostburg, mother of Miss Grace Evelyn Lloyd, 35, one of the victims.

Defendants in the $100,000 action, filed for Mrs. Lloyd by Attorney Noel Speir Cook, are Ray Wells, RFD 2, Dover, York County, Pa., owner of the tractor-trailer which struck the car in which Miss Lloyd was a passenger; Daniel Motor Freight Inc., Warren, Ohio, which leased the truck, and Paul Stewart Myers Jr., RFD 2, Dover, Pa., who was driving the truck.

The declaration charged that Myers drove the truck, which ran away while descending Big Savage Mountain, in a "willful, reckless and negligent" manner. Miss Lloyd was a passenger in the car of Clifford P. Fearer, also of Frostburg, which was demolished in the crash.

As a result of her daughter's death, Mrs. Lloyd contends that she has lost the service, care, attention, society, earnings, maintenance and support afforded her by her daughter.

Only one other legal action still is pending as a result of this fatal crash. Fearer's widow filed a $500,000 damage suit in Federal District Court in Baltimore as a result of the death of her husband, who was the 38-year-old assistant manager of the Cumberland Steel Company.

Survivors of the other three victims of the crash have settled their claims. Mrs. Kathleen Elizabeth Spearman, Frostburg, widow of Francis X. Spearman, was awarded $27,000 in a compromise settlement filed January 24 in Circuit Court here. Her son, Bernard Patrick Spearman, 19, was awarded $2,000.

Markel Service Inc., agents for American Fidelity and Casualty Company, Richmond, Va., announced early in January the settlement of two other cases for $45,000. Mrs. Dorothy Virginia Brenneman, Springs, Pa., widow of Samuel Brenneman, was awarded $30,000 and Mrs. Nellie W. Thomas, Frostburg, mother of Miss Nellie K. Thomas, the other victim, was awarded $15,000.

Fuller Low Bidder On Area Plant

Jesse Fuller and Son of Frostburg was the apparent low bidder for construction of the proposed factory of the M. Berkowitz Company plant in that community.

Fuller's bid submitted to the Mayor and Council was $78,326.

Other bids received and opened last night were: George Construction Company, $89,620; R. G. Robertson Inc., $89,927; George F. Hazelwood Company, $92,515, and the Fairchance Lumber Company, $94,000.

Alternate bids received for a sprinkler system for work tables are as follows:

Fairchance, $1,650; George Construction, $1,731; Robertson, $1,850; Fuller, $1,906 and Hazelwood, $1,994. The Mayor and Council took the bids and will consider them before reaching a decision.

The proposed plant to house the Berkowitz Company which is presently manufacturing pajamas in the plant on Mechanic Street will be located in the YMI Park at the east end of Frostburg.

Before the city could proceed with the construction of the building, if Berkowitz approves one of the submitted bids, a referendum must be held to give voters an opportunity to approve or reject the floating of a bond issue to pay for the construction.

If the referendum is favorable and the building constructed, according ot the City Charter, an agreement must be entered into with Berkowitz that the cost of the construction must be paid back over a period not to exceed 25 years.

The city is empowered by the charter, subject to the approval of the citizens, to float a bond issue up to $100,000 for industrial expansion.

Columnist Addresses Civic Club

A charming and intimate glimpse into the background of international society and the lives of President Eisenhower and his close associates....

This was the subject told with humor and dignity by Washington columnist Mrs. Dorothy McCardle at last night's 10th annual men's dinner meeting of the Woman's Civic Club of Cumberland at Ali-Ghan Shrine Club.

Mrs. McCardle, popular journalist who is the wife of Carl Wesley McCardle, noted Philadelphia newspaperman who was appointed Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs by President Eisenhower, was the principal speaker for the dinner attended by approximately 120 persons.

Touching principally on the health of reigning political figures, Mrs. McCardle also related many amusing incidents in the lives of diplomats and their wives concerning protocol.

Commenting on the part played by Mrs. Eisenhower in the busy life of the President, Mrs. McCardle said the First Lady's personal selection of the menus and her careful attention to her husband's diet had much to do with his recovery from his heart attack.

Parkside School Dedicated In Appropriate Ceremony

"This new building symbolizes the aspirations of those charged with the administration of educational affairs in Allegany County," City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson told his audience last night as principal speaker at the dedication of the new $477,000 Parkside Elementary School in LaVale.

Gibson expressed a hope that the young people of LaVale who attend this school, the newest addition to the county's expanding educational system, will find the inspiration there to defend America's freedoms.

The new building was presented by Mrs. Stanley Buckley of LaVale, a member of the County Board of Education.

"I hope the children who study here will remain as untarnished in their lives as this new school is today, "Mrs. Buckley said as she presented the building to Miss Margaret E. Doak, principal of the school since it was opened last September. Mrs. Buckley recalled that of the 26 years she has lived in LaVale, 18 have been spent in PTA activities.

Miss Doak said it will be the aim of the parents and teachers at Parkside to use the new facilities as effectively as possible in reaching the elementary school objectives.

The Allegany High School girls' octet, directed by Miss Josephine Kompanek, sang four selections, "Listen To The Mocking Bird," "Variations on a Nursery Theme," "I Heard a Forest Praying" and "Ten Little Indians." Mrs. Darlene Pepper, a fifth grade teacher at Parkside, sang "Bless This House."

Members of the PTA served refreshments in the school library after the dedication program was completed. Visitors also took advantage of the opportunity to inspect the new school.

Junior College For Cumberland Is Possibility

Looking at education in 1956, Miss Lillian Compton, retired president of Frostburg State Teachers College, last night told the West Side Parent-Teacher Association of progress being made, and needs of the school community.

Throughout the state, there is a movement to establish junior colleges or community colleges in the several cities, she said. Explaining that she had been reluctant to support such a program because she feared it might in some way hurt Frostburg State Teachers College, she has studied the program and found the idea desirable.

She said, "in fact, I hope that very soon, Cumberland will be one of the places to get such a community or junior college."

"This 1956 look at education," she observed, "seems to indicate that Cumberland needs, and so may have a two-year college of this character, as is now found in Baltimore, Hagerstown and Montgomery County."

In public schools today, she said progress is being made in relieving overcrowded classrooms and the teacher shortage. During the period from 1930 to 1940 few new schools were built. Then from 1940 for almost another decade, nothing was built, due to the war and other factors. Rec Board Asks City To Acquire South End Site

The Cumberland Recreation Board this week renewed its recommendation that the City of Cumberland use part of the proceeds of a $150,000 recreation bond issue to acquire and develop a 21-acre site in South Cumberland, and to use its powers of condemnation to see if the land can be secured at a reasonable price.

The report, approved at an executive session in City Hall Tuesday night, also recommends that the city acquire and develop for recreational purposes undeveloped land beyond Ridgedale Reservoir and pointed out the possibility of securing for future recreation development land adjacent to the North End recreation center.

About $135,000 of the proceeds of the bonds sold in 1954 will be left after improvements to city owned or leased play centers, recommended last year, are carried out, the Board said.

South View Addition is located south of Jane Frazier Village. A National Recreation Association survey made for the Board recommended "that the principal part, if not all, of the $150,000 bond issue funds now available be used to acquire and develop a site of as near 30 acres of additional land in South View Addition as a playfield, which should adjoin a future school site; that the development be one of two complete, year-round, indoor-outdoor centers to be provided, that the City and Board of Education cooperate in working out these projects," according to a report which accompanied the department's budget request last year.

The Recreation Board recommendations have been forwarded to Mayor Roy W. Eves, who has made copies available to all members of the City Council, so the proposal can be discussed Monday when the Mayor and Council meets.

Recommendations Cited

The Board's recommendations on the use of the bond money follows:

"The Recreation Board has been requested to submit to the Mayor and Council its recommendations regarding the use to be made of the $150,000 bond issue.

"At the outset it should be stated that the Board cannot offer a completely satisfactory solution to the recreation problem in Cumberland. The greatest difficulty is the securing of proper sites for playfields and playgrounds. There is very little level ground inside the city limits which is unimproved and which is located within a reasonable distance for those for whom it is intended.

"Then too, while $150,000 is apparently a substantial amount, when we try to allocate it to the needs of the various parts of town it can be seen that it will not go far enough.

"You will recall that in 1955 recommendations were made for improvements to certain city owned and leased playgrounds. A few of these were completed, and some of the others have not yet been carried out. If these were all carried out the cost would be in the neighborhood of $35,000, leaving about $115,000 of the bond issue money.

"You will also recall that the survey of the National Recreation Association pointed out the need for securing adequate playfields—20 acres or more of each—in various sections of the city, and recommended that first consideration be given to securing the land in South View Addition. This recommendation was approved by the Board, and it was discussed with your body. The cost of acquiring this land was estimated by a competent realtor to be in the neighborhood of $50,000.

Price Too High

"Objection was made to this because it would result in removing from tax books too much taxable property. However, we were finally authorized to attempt to secure options on the property in order to find out for what amount the necessary land could be bought. The two real estate agents who were selected to do this work believed that the cost of securing the properties (two of which were improved) should not exceed $58,000.

"Our Board felt that one of these improved properties was not essential to our purpose, since it was located in an extreme corner of the whole tract. But even though this was left out, it was discovered that the various lot owners were asking such prices that the total cost of the necessary properties will be about $75,000 if the options were exercised.

"The real estate men advised us that these prices are unreasonably high, since the properties were bought only about five years ago for relatively small amounts, and the total assessment figures total only a fifth of what is being asked for the properties.

"In the meanwhile, the matter of the possibility of the building
